Liberty Under Law-Equal Rights-True Industrial Freed

MEW TARIFF PROGRAMME

nual Sale anhattans

to buy shirts reds of shirts ready est argument lies in ecials—95c side the Harbor. at $1.15 at $1.55 Moored Near-by to Shirts, $1.95

hem 2.50

sherman

BORADI TOOTH

ISSOURI HEAT R READY POPPING CORN.

GOTHAM

en is Expected

New York.

AUGUST 12, 1916.

KANSAS CITY, Aug: 11 .-Coe brought several ears to his office in the Grand-avenue temple this morning showing the popped grains. The in-tense heat of the past week caused the premature popping, according to experts who examined the corn. The rine as was done in case of the Deutschland at Baltimore.

The as was done in case of the picked up at Sandy today, which it was ght possibly be from the series freighter Breattributed to some or by officials of the unication Company so-called Telefunken alls were for the can, New York.

The as was done in case of the put the possibly be from the can be determined to some or by officials of the unication Company so-called Telefunken alls were for the can, New York.

The as was done in case of the put the substance in the sandy and the past. It was not sunk or blown up by a hostile cruiser while convoying a merchant submarine to this port. It has simply had its name changed to Hansa. By 10:30 o'clock, the transformation was completed at the Andre-street pier of the Eastern Forwarding Company, where the tup has been moored.

Capt. Frederick Hinch was at the Andre-street pier this morning looking this port. It has simply the progress of the painting of the interned liner Neckar. Asked about the submarine Beremen, which is expected to arrive in an American port soon, he said he knew 'nothing about it.'

DATRYMEN ELECT PRESIDENT.

THE GREAT WAR. The Situs Date: Russians enter Stanisla

COMMENT ON THE SITUATION The Germans appear to have rearded the Kovel-Lemberg sector a he most critical on the easter ront, and the appointment of Fieldarshal Von Hindenburg to the hief command undoubtedly had the OLIM CHANCE REMAINS TO PREVENT WALKOUT.

If Arbitration is Offered the Men Declare They will Refuse It.

(BY DIRECT WIRE-EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.)

TIMES, Aug. 11.—The Federal mediators who are trying to prevent a nation-wide strike of 400,000 employees on 225 railroads have until 10 o'clock tomorrow morning to present to the four great railroad brotherhoods an acceptable proposition from the railroad managers. The mediators intend to ask the mea to consent to arbitration. The men undoubtedly arbitration. The men undoubtedly BOTH SIDES STAND PAT.
will refuse and it would not sur-

Fightings Note Senter wing—sacticities and the past. It was not sunt of blowen up by a notific critiser price to this port. It has simply fine to this port. It has simply fine to the port of the

"Suppose," it was suggested, "that the President should try to force arbitration by threatening leg-force arbitration by threatening leg-force arbitration that would compel arbitration has been lack of represident wage disputes?"

"That old chestnut," replied Mr. (Continued on Third Page.)

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DIS

will refuse and it would not surprise anyone who is familiar with the situation if the brotherhood chiefs immediately exercised their power to call the threatened walkout.

The heads of the union made no secret today of their impatience at the present delay. G. W. W. Hanger, one of the mediation board, asked the brotherhood presidents and the 500 adjustment chairmen, representing the employees, to wait until 10 immorrow morning for amother meeting with the board, but the request was granted reluctantly.

Since the mediation conference began the union delegates have received many telegrams from all parts of the country, criticising them for permitting the delay.

"We do not intend to wait verylong on the mediators," said Warren S. Stone, grand chief of the brotherhood of locomotive engineers, even before the mediators asked for the twenty-four-hour wait.

"The temperament of the men is such that they would not bave waited a minute if we had not persuaded them to give the mediators a chance. Personally, I do not care to the action of the profession of the mediators as chance. Personally, I do not care to their the mean and the pair to a first the provise of the mediators as chance. Personally, I do not care to their the mean and the pair to a strike for six months past as the only way to get what they are asking for. Now they have given their representatives the authority to call a strike. The brotherhood members. But if arbitration is forced upon them, they will have an alibit to offer to their the parts of the mediators as chance. Personally, I do not care to the provision of the mediators as chance. Personally I do not care to the provision of the mediators as the provision of the mediators as chance. Personally I do not care to the provision of the main and the provision of the railroads involved and an additional financial outlay and the anterior of the railroads involved and an additional financial outlay and the are operating schedules of the railroads involved and an additional financial outlay and the ar

WOMEN'S PARTY PLEDGED TO DEFEAT WILSON.

Colorado Springs (Colo.)

Aug. 11.—The National Woman's party in executive conference here today pledged itself to use its best efforts in the twelve equal suffrage States to defeat the Democratic candidate for President; contract candidate for President.

cratic candidate for President; congratulated the Progressive, Prohibition and Socialist parties upon their indorsement of suffrage for women by national action and commended the position of Charles Evans Hughes, the Republican nominee.

The third resolution said:

"Resolved, that we commend the makes secure the Russian possesses of the Russian Russian possesses of the Russian Russ PROMISED BY HUGHES.

Armored Car for U. S. Army.

It carries twenty machine guns.

first of a special design of light armored cars for steam rallroad service was delivered to the War partment by a Hammond (Ind.) car building plant August 3. The car is constructed of heavy st plates and will carry a high powered gun mounted in a gun-well in the oval roof, and twenty machine grawhose ports in the sides may also be used by sharpshooters.

LEAVES KIEL CANAL

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.] Aug. 11, 12:30 p.m.—A large German

ZEPPELIN SHEDS.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.] LONDON, Aug. 12.—The official tatement issued by the British War between both sides had vanished and that they were thrown upon their last resort—an effort to get the employees to consent to arbitration. That is believed to be the proposition that will be submitted to the brotherhoods this morning. How the brotherhood this morning. How the brotherhood chiefs will take it was evident from the following interview with Austin B. Garretson, president of the brotherhood of railway conductors:

"The men think they got the worst of the arbitration of the engineers' dispute with the western roads in 1914," said Mr. Garretson.

"Therefore, they are opposed to it in the present instance. They got their fingers burnt once and now they are afraid of the fire."

"Suppose," it was suggested, where to a strength of the suggested."

"Suppose," it was suggested, where to a strength is the suppose, all the suppose, and the fire."

"Suppose," it was suggested, the suppose of the proposition that will be known tomorrow, it was learned here tonight from an authoritative source.

The proposition was a supposed to the railroad systems, probably will be known tomorrow, it was learned here tonight from an authoritative source.

The proposition that will be submitted to the brotherhood of the railroads of the country will make good their threat of a general strike unless their demands for an eight-hour day and time and a half for overtime are granted by the British Was recently was a normal trench warfare. Besides numerou a daily raids, recently have been carried out by the flying corps against the following on a suthoritative source.

The proposition that will be known tomorrow, it was learned here tonight from an authoritative source.

The proposition that will be known tomorrow, it was learned here tonight from an authoritative source.

The proposition that it is a normal trench was a normal trench was takenent issued by the British from the following interview of the caddrash of the caunty will be known tomorrow, it was learned here tonight from an authoritative source.

The proposition that the REPORT ON BORDER.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.] REDDING (Cal.) Aug. 11:-For the first time in August in twenty ears, rain fell here today, a quarter of an inch of it, accompanied b

FAIRBANKS WILL BE NOTIFIED AUGUST 31

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]
INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 11.—The

AS HUGHES STATES THE CASE.

We are for the maintenance of American rights through-We are for efficiency in government and economy of inistration of the business of the public. I pledge myself to the principles of sound government administered them when Governor of New York. If we had had a firm policy there would have been no

The Democratic party has been misunderstanding the principles of the Constitution ever since it was born.

When it comes to the tariff question the Democrats haven't any principles at all.

GREEK STEAMER BURNS: DANISH VESSEL SUNK.

Forty Persons Killed in Disaster off the Island of Skiatho-Italian Vessel Said to Have Fired on Austrian Submarine-Crew of Angelo, Sunk in the Mediterranean, Rescued by the British.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

EL PASO (Tex.) Aug. 11.—Private advices are said to have-reached here this afternoon from Mexico City that First Chief Carranza has been imprisoned in the capital. No details were given and neither the Mexican Consulate here or Gen. Gonzales in Juarez have received any information of it.

UNIQUE RAINSTORM

FALLS IN REDDING.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

THENS, Aug. 11 (via Paris.)—

The Greek steamer Eletheria, bound from Saloniki to Volo with a cargo of oil owned by an American company, and 1200 passengers, principally disbanded troops, caught fire today off the island of Skiatho. Forty information of it.

UNIQUE RAINSTORM

FALLS IN REDDING.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

his vessel.

The island of Skiatho is one of the northern Sporades group in the Aegean Sea. Volo is the principal seaport of Thessaly.

VESSEL TOWNED IN. LONDON, Aug. 11.—The Norwe-LONDON, Aug. 11.—The Norwegian steamer Aranda, 1838 tons gross, which was reported on August 7 to have been sunk, has been towed into Moville Bay. Her hull is considered a total wreck, but arrangements are in progress for the salving of the cargo. The crew is reported to have been landed.

The Danish steamer Danevang, bound from Henrande Sweden for the party for promistion for the party for th

JUDGE SEABURY FOR GOVERNOR.

"My Record as Governor Cue for What I'll Do if Elected," He Says. [BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

BILLINGS (Mont.) Aug. 11. — ration that if he should be elected Charles E. Hughes, addressing President, nothing would be "pulled a Chautauqua audience in a off" for private benefit at the pu big tent on the village square here lic expense if he could prevent

THE TARIFF ISSUE

TOO CLOSE TO WAR.

"No one could very easily, without the utmost folly, have brought us into war," Mr. Hughes said, "but we have been brought far closer to it than we should have been by the weakness and vacillation that this administration has shown."

Mr. Hughes called attention to the fact that Montana is the first Northwestern State to be visited on this trip where women have the vote and reiterated his declaration that he wanted the issue speedily settled by amendment, granting woman suffrage, to the Federal Constitution. The nominee also emphasized what he termed the need for industrial and commercial co-operation and preparedness for the competition he predicted that America would have from Europe after the war.

Inasmuch, he said, as within ten years after the Russo-Japanese war, Russia, instead of being steeped in debt, had doubled in prosperity, there was every indication that recovery from financial burdens imposed on the present European belligerents would be much more rapid than anticipated now. This, he declared, made doubly important the need for commercial preparedness in the United States for conditions

USTRIANS EVACUATE WITHOUT FIRING SHOT

Russian Pressure Causes Soldiers of the Dual Monarchy to Seek Shelter.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

Corner of Verdun After Five Months of Siege.

Demolished by German shells.

TIME TO TALK PEACE HAS NOT YET ARRIVED.

IBY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.J

GERMAN AIR SQUADRONS . BOMB BRITISH FLEET.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

stacked with bombs British British and Russian forces rs and light forces off the aeroplanes returned undams

GERMAN TROOPS YIELD TO SUPERIOR FORCES.

ERIAN, Aug. 11 (via London.)—
Austro-German troops in the region of Monastersyska, at dints on the Dniester and in the stritus River regions of Galicia, we been compelled to give way because of the superiority of hostiles are office statement. Counter-atcks brought the engagements to standstill, and a regrouping of the autonic forces is now taking place. "In the Carpathians the enemy made futile efforts to wrest from us advantages we had gained south of Zapie.

"Enlikan front: South of Lake Doiran the enemy made sham attacks with weak detachments, which was considered as were repulsed by our fire without serious fighting."

"Front of Archduke Charles France Southwest of Monastersyska din the angle formed by the diester and Bystritza, strong Rusan forces attacked us. The surfority of the enemy compelled brave defenders to give way at more repositions of the Russians, is now taking place.

"In the Carpathians the enemy and brought the fight to a standstill. A regrouping of the altered positions of the Russians, is now taking place.

"In the Carpathians the enemy advantages we had gained south of Zapie.

"Balkan front: South of Lake Doiran the enemy made sham attacks with weak detachments, which was ordered so us to take into account the altered positions of the Russians, is now taking place.

"In the Carpathians the enemy capation."

"Balkan front: South of Lake Doiran the enemy made sham attacks with weak detachments, which was ordered so us to take into account the altered positions of the Russians, is now taking place.

"In the Carpathians the enemy advantages we had gained south of Zapie.

"Balkan front: South of Lake Doiran the enemy made sham attacks with weak detachments, which was ordered so us to take into account the altered positions of the Russians, is now taking place.

"Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is master queritant places."

Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is master queritant places.

Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is master queritant plac

THE LOS ANGELES ADVERTISING SCORE.

For the week ending Sunday, August 6th, the Los Angeles news-papers published the following number of lines of advertising—(300 gate lines make one column):

	Advs.	Advs	Total	Lead
First-Los Angeles Times	151,564	80,262	231,826
Second Morning Paper	112,322	57,722	170,044	. 61,782
Third Morning Paper	117,348	24,220	141,568	90,258
First Evening Paper	111,273	14,560	125,832	105,994
Second Evening Paper	106,456	13,552	120,008	111,818
Third Evening Paper	48,034	3,248	51,282	180,544
The foregoing figures attest to				of the

Every day in the year, The Times leads all of its

VARRANZA MEN HIRING OUT.

fexican Generals Glad to Labor for Americans for Dollar a Day.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 11 co received: a letter today son, Capt. Harry F. Part of the Carranza troops

TELD

TORCES

(Continued from Pirst Page.)

Intion ever since before I was bornard I don't believe it ever will use derivated the state of the preferance of New York (Vity has faithed inspecting the militial camps along the border, which features wherever they might be suggested that it stood for the protection of the rights of American was all right. The only question was allowed the was all right. The only question the first was allowed to the rights of American was the net and a protective tariff was under the militial was allowed by the control of the right of the was allowed to the rights of American was the first be protected and the state of his work he declined to discuss.

The state of the work he declined to discuss.

The state of the work he declined to discuss.

The state of the work he declined to discuss.

The state of the work he declined to discuss.

The state of the work he declined to discuss.

The state of the work he declined to discuss.

The state of the work he declined to discuss.

The state of the work he declined to discuss.

The state of the work he declined to discuss.

The state of the work he declined to discuss the state of the work he declined to discuss.

The state of the work he declined to discuss the state of the work he declined to discuss the state of the work he declined to discuss the state of the work he declined to discuss the state of the work he declined to discuss the state of the work he declined to discuss the state of the work he declined to discuss the state of the work he declined to discuss the state of the work he declined to discuss the state of the work he declined to discuss the state of the work he declined to discuss the state of the work he declined to discuss the state of the work he declined to discuss the state of the work he declined to discuss the state of the work he declined to discuss the state of the work he declined to discuss the state of the work he declined to discuss the state of the work he declined to discuss the state of the work he decli the most important nation in preincluding the administration for service, Mr. Hughes declared that seems appointments were of no more use than the Atlantic Calls and the Atlantic Ca

CHEERFULNESS IS HEALTH AID.

Troops in Mexico Found in Excellent Condition.

Border Camps Inspected for Civic Federation.

Low Percentage of Sickness is Astonishing.

TION. Aug. 10 (delayed.)-The TIMES, Aug. 11. - Passing of the heat wave to the eastward was marked today by substantial rainfall and a maximum temperature of $2 deg., which slumped to 73 deg. to-night. The Ohio Valley continues hot, and Eastern States, aiready above normal, are flue for higher above normal, are due for higher temperatures as the Chicago wave passes to the scaboard. Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Iowa and Wisconsin had rain. Frost is reported in Western Canada; but the castern provinces are eight degrees above Los Angeles.

Temperatures elsewhere, as officially reported by the United States Weather Bureau, were as follows:
Stations—

May Min.

delivering an address calculated to the season of law and order.

80 • The Chamber of Commerce de80 manded his removal from office and 81 tonight Mayor Roiph cited McDe82 vitt to appear before him next 83 Thursday and show cause why he 84 should not be removed. The Mayor 8 should not suspend McDe80 vitt in the meanwhile.

84 SUMARIO ESPANOL SOBR ESPEE BRAKEMAN

RUNS AMUCK.

[Telegramas para "The Times" condensades y transported by striking her on the head to a ker publica en la ciudad de Mexico y del cual llegaron hoy algunos ejemplares a esta poblacion, se en la ciudad de Mexico y del cual llegaron hoy algunos ejemplares a esta poblacion, se en la ciudad de Mexico y del cual llegaron hoy algunos ejemplares a esta poblacion, se en la ciudad de Mexico y del cual llegaron hoy algunos ejemplares a esta poblacion, se en la ciudad de Mexico y del cual llegaron hoy algunos ejemplares a esta poblacion, se en la ciudad de Mexico y del cual llegaron hoy algunos ejemplares a esta poblacion, se en la ciudad de Mexico y del cual llegaron hoy algunos ejemplares a esta poblacion, se en la ciudad de Mexico y del cual llegaron hoy algunos ejemplares a esta poblacion, se en la ciudad de Mexico y del cual llegaron hoy algunos ejemplares a esta poblacion, se en la ciudad de Mexico y del cual llegaron hoy algunos ejemplares a esta poblacion, se en la ciudad de Mexico y del cual llegaron hoy algunos ejemplares a esta poblacion, se en la ciudad de Mexico y del cual llegaron hoy algunos ejemplares a esta poblacion, se en la ciudad de Mexico y del cual llegaron hoy algunos ejemplares a esta poblacion, se en la ciudad de Mexico y del cual llegaron hoy algunos ejemplares a esta poblacion, se en la ciudad de Mexico y del cual llegaron hoy algunos ejemplares a esta poblacion, se en la ciudad de Mexico y del cual llegaron hoy algunos ejemplares a esta poblacion, se en la ciudad de Mexico y del cual llegaron hoy algunos ejemplares a esta poblacion, se en la ciudad de Mexico y del cual llegaron hoy algunos ejemplares a esta poblacion, se en la ciudad de Mexico y del cual llegaron hoy algunos ejemplares a esta poblacion, se en la ciudad de Mexico y del cual llegaron hoy algunos ejemplares a esta poblacion, se en la ciudad de Mexico y del cual llegaron hoy algunos ejemplares a esta poblacion, se en la ciudad de Mexico y del cual llegaron hoy algunos ejemplares a esta poblacion, se en la ciudad de Mexico y ciudad

MERMAN CASUALTIES TOTALLED BY BRIT

Losses More than Hundred Twen Thousand During July.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

totaled 122,540, bringing the have died of we source, to 3,135,177.

Men killed or who died of wounds during July numbered 21,196, those who died of sickness, 2062; missing, 15,334; severely wounded, 17,807;
wounded, 5654; slightly wounded, 56,157.

ITALIANS CLEAR WAY TO ADVANCE ON TRIES

OME, Aug. 11 (via London.)—step toward control of the Italians have occupied the formed by the below Gorizia. The transfer of the control of

CHINESE HAVE REMEDY FOR INFANTILE PARALI

The Chinese physicians made their report after an investigation of cases of the disease now being treated in hospitals. The atmospheric condition responsible for the epidemic is known in China as "wong sah," they

MEXICO CITY STRIKERS MAY GET DEATH PENAL

E L PASO (Tex.) Aug. 11.—The of 1862, de text of a decree wherein First ders. It the Chief Carransa evokes the strike. Not death penalty against the strikers side at who paralyzed Mexico City through strikes,

LA SITUACION FRONTE

[Telegramas para "The Times" condens

SCIENTISTS

TARTS INQUIRY

PDAY MORNING

ON FLOUR COST

is Now in Chicago. of Action by Bakers

is Sent to Congress,

SUES FOR A BILL

8, Aug. 11.-Mrs. Wo

RELIEF AT A STANDSTILL

to grant the request of treatmer.
States that a Neutral and more and more and more and trails.

in the United States have insiderable funds to pur-iof supplies for their coun-nad have been waiting for for permission to have them

IF COLONELS RETIRED.

BY A P. NIGHT WHE.]

COLONELS RETIRED.

RAH, PARIS.

Kahn, hea banking fi dead.

Control of the border or in Mexico, retired for physical distance of the border or in Mexico, retired for physical distance of the colone of the colone

PPING BILL FIGH KEPT UP IN the administration of the first of the first

1.44 小城市中海海海海 無

Money's

Real Value

's Troop TS INQUIRY FLOUR COST. ALTIES

D BY BRITIS undred Twentyuring July.

BLE AND A. P.]

R WAY

ON TRIEST

REMEDY.

LE PARALYS

STRIKERS

ATH PENALT

NOL SOBRE

N FRONTER

SOUTH CAROLINANS

ST 12, 1916.—[PAR

Action by Bakers

Sent to Congress.

UES FOR A BILL

BUREAU OF cipal court to re-burt record shows a name of "Edith as Gait & Bro." he defendant and chandise he is de-chased.

TA STANDSTILL

4 P. SHORT WIRE.

ELIEF WORK

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—Preside

Wilson promised today to address the National American Woman Sufof Bread Increas the National American Woman Suf-frage Association's convention at Atlantic City, September 8, if other engagements do not prevent. In a letter to Mra. Carrie Chapman Catt, president of the association, Mr. Wilson said "his desire will be to accept-the invitation." but explained that conditional promises in connec-tion with his trip to Kentucky early in September may present his doent May Act. New in Chicago.

SUFFRAGISTS GET

A WILSON PROMISE.

PAPER INQUIRY SLIGHTLY DELAYED.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—The WESTERN UNION WILL END PACKAGE SERVICE.

DR. J. B. MURPHY DIES SUDDENLY.

MAY HAVE BEEN VICTIM OF SOUP POISONER.

One of World's Most Noted Surgeons Succumbs to Heart Attack—Acquired Fame for His Pioneer Operations in Cases of

MACKINAC ISLAND (Mich.)
Aug. 11.—Dr. John B. Murphy of nowned surgeons, died today sudden ing. An attack of heart disease was the immediate cause of death. Dr. Murphy had been in poor health for several months, and some had ascribed his condition to the poisoned soup partaken at the banquet given to Archbishop Munderlein at the University Club, Chipago, last winter. His wife was with him inst which had impossible.

IEF WORK

IN BY TURKS.

IN BY TOR BY TURKS.

IN BY TOR BENEdict for his researches in surgery, was only 8 bear active for many advances in the treatment of older active for many advances in the treatment of older active for many advances in the treatment of older active for many advances in the treatment of older active for many advances in the treatment of older active for many advances in the treatment of older active for many advances in the treatment of older active for many advances in the treatment of older active for many advances in the treatment of older active for many advances in the treatment of older active for last winter. His wife was with him at the time of death.

(BY ATLANTIC CARLE AND A. P.)
PARIS, Aug. 11, 4:40 p.m.—David Kahn, head of the international banking firm of Lazard Freres, is dead.

David Kahn.

[BY ATLANTIC CARE AND A. P.]

PARIS, Aug. 11, 4:40 p.m.—David Kahn, head of the international marking firm of Lazard Freres, is dead.

Miss Kate Hampton.

[BY ATLANTIC CARE AND A. P.]

PARIS, Aug. 11, 4:40 p.m.—David Kahn, head of the international firm of Lazard Freres, is dead.

Miss Kate Hampton.

[BY ATLANTIC CARE AND A. P.]

PARIS, Aug. 11, 4:40 p.m.—David Kahn, head of the international firm of Lazard Freres, is dead.

Miss Kate Hampton.

[BY ATLANTIC CARE AND A. P.]

PARIS, Aug. 11, 4:40 p.m.—David Kahn, head of the international firm of Lazard Freres, is dead.

Miss Kate Hampton.

[BY ATLANTIC CARE AND A. P.]

PARIS, Aug. 11, 4:40 p.m.—David Kahn, head of the international firm of Lazard Freres, is dead.

Miss Kate Hampton.

[BY ATLANTIC CARE AND A. P.]

PARIS, Aug. 11, 4:40 p.m.—David Kahn, head of the international firm of Lazard Freres, is dead.

Miss Kate Hampton.

[BY ATLANTIC CARE AND A. P.]

PARIS, Aug. 11, 4:40 p.m.—David Kahn, head of the international firm of Lazard Freres, is dead.

ING BILL FIGHT KEPT UP IN SENATE.

Aug. 11.—Deadministration dragged again ass, the minoran Harding and impublican atbefore an alanacunced that focted to comin time to perin by temorrow

A prediction that the bill wouldmit utterly to induce American ship owners to enter the transoceaniq field was made also by Senator Harding, who asserted that its only effect would be to attract foreign-built ships to compete in the American

Sixty-fourth Congress

TAX PROTESTS: SENATE YIELDS.

Exemption not to be Lowered on Income Measure,

Members of Tariff Board May Get Bigger Salaries.

Change in Munitions Levy is Favored by Caucus.

yield on the amendment, the Democratic Senate caucus probably would have reversed it. The amendment increasing the sur-tax on incomes exceeding $2,000,000 from 10 to 13 per cent, is retained, and there is a probability that further increases in the sur-taxes will be made in caucus.

CONSIDER AMENDMENTS.

At this date automobiles are bearing the country banners advising the

PERSHING'S ARMY BUILD ADOBE HUTS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.] SAN ANTONIO (Tex.) Aug. 11.— ombination adobe and dog tent huts now shelter a large proportion of the American troops in Mexico, according to Gen. Tasker H. Bliss, As-sistant Chief of Staff of the United States Army, who has returned here from a trip to Gen. Pershing's head-quarters.

quarters.

Gen. Bilss said today that on finding themselves due to stay in Mexico for some time, thousands of soldiers constructed adobe walls about three feet high and U-shaped.

On top they pitched their dog tents, previously their only shelter, thus gaining a roomier and more comfortable lodging. Beds have been supplied by stuffing sacks with grass.

Active.

C TATE CAMPAIGN ON IN ARIZONA PARTY PRIMARIES ARE ONLY A MONTH DISTANT.

Principal Trouble is Between Anarchistic and Capitalistic Fac-tions — Strong Effort is Being Made to Oust Gov. Hunt from

WEEKLIES WITH HUNT. striking," telegraphs the Petit Panals, not a daily favoring him. Of risien's correspondent on the Isonzo front. "It was here that a fupartisan Republican in editorial tone partisan Republican in editorial tone zo front. "It was here that a fu-rious battle was fought for pos-as many more are independent or session of the city. The houses are nonpartisan, leaving the balance a

Then may half destroyed by shells or iridded several with bulets.

The ground is strewn with bed is not indicated on the strewn with bed is not the stump. Still has large of the strewn with bed is not the stump. Still has large of the strewn with bed is not the stump. Still has large of the strewn with bed is not the stump. Still has large of the strewn with bed is not the stump. Still has large of the strewn with bed is not the stump. Still has large of the strewn with bed is not the stump. Still has large of the strewn with bed is not the stump. Still has large of the strewn with bed is not the stump. Still has large of the strewn with bed is not the stump. Still has large of the strewn with bed in the distance of the strewn with bed in the strewn with bed in the distance of the strewn with th ne was chosen tax commissioner.

SENATORIAL SITUATION.

The Senatorial situation also is clear. A few days ago Prof. Periodial Lowell wrote from Boston that he had withdrawn from the race. He had hoped to secure unanimous indorsement at the Republican State convention ir Prescott, Judge W. H. Stillwell of Phoenix has been mentioned as a probable candidate at the primaries, but there now appears no doubt that Judge Joseph H. Kibbey of Phoenix will be the Republican nominee, with excellent chances for success in November. No opposing candidate will dispute in the Democratic primaries the renomination of Senator Ashurst. Congressman Heyden is to be opposed by A. A. Worsiley of Tucson, an uitra-radical within the Democratic party. The Republican nominee for Congress has not developed though the race will be made by Dr. J. B. Nelson of Mesa and Henry L. Eads of Phoenix.

Classified Real Evit.

NO ARBITRATION SAYS TRAINMAN

President of Brotherhood is Determined to Strike

Officials See Little Hope of Averting a Walk-out. Slight Confidence Reposed in Federal Mediation.

TIMES, Aug. 11.-Union men and of averling a general railroad strike in the United States. Most brotherhood and railway authorities, regard a break in negotiations and resort to a strike by the men as a foregone conclusion. A statement reported to have been made in New York by W. G. Lee, president of the Brother-hood of Railway Trainmen, was regarded as highly significant. An official of the General Managers' Association in Chicago, to whom the statement came in a telegram from New York, gave it out as follows:

"There isn't going to be any arbitration of our demand," Mr Lee is reported to have said. "You can't make that too strong. I am for settling this affair peaceably if we can—but there isn't going to be any arbitration." to have been made in New York by

Chicago Officer Informed that Morse Davis and His Wife Drank Salts Mixture in the Morning Which Produced Sud-

Slim Chance.

(Continued from First Page.)

sentation upon any of the board provided under existing statutes. MEMBERS ARE HOPEFUL

MEMBERS ARE HOPEFUL.

The members of the Federal board of mediation and conciliation, while declining to discuss the situation, are said to be hopeful that an expansion of the size of the board provided for under the Newlands act may meet this objection. Effort to obtain from Washington approval of this plan was reported to have been responsible for an apparent suspension of the mediators' activities today.

REJECT MEN'S DEMANDS.

Woman Arrested on Charge of For-gery Tells Detectives She Passed Bad Checks to Raise Money

Charged with having passed

등

W

EK

D

8_{AM}

TO

OPM

sion of the mediators' activities today.

If this suggestion is not accepted,
it was said tonight, the mediation board will have failed in its efforts and the only recourse will be an appeal to President Wilson to use his influence to avert a strike. It was pointed out, however, that the President's powers will be limited to suggestion and recommendation.

The report gained credence that the proposition to be broached tomorrow was of such far-reaching importance that high authorities in Washington had first to be consulted and their consent gained.

REJECT MEN'S DEMANDS.

Little Ones.

Senator Phelan Makes Appointments to the Naval Academy.

The TIMES, Aug. 11.—Senator Phelan has made the following appointments for the Naval Academy, the successful candidate to be admitted immediately:

Principal, Wallace Dillman, Alameda, first aiternate, George C. Theaberle, No. 948 Grattan street, Los Angeles; second alternate, George C. The City Attorney says.

Heaberle, No. 948 Grattan street, Los Angeles; second alternate, Ceorge C. The City Attorney says.

Heaberle, No. 948 Grattan street, Los Angeles; second alternate, Ceorge C. The City Attorney says.

The selections were made through ley, San Francisco: third alternate, Sterling T. Cloughley, San Francisco.

The selections were made through ley, San Francisco and alternate, Sterling T. Cloughley, San Francisco.

The selections were made through ley, San Francisco and married man no money will be paid out without the written consent of the wife.

The Machine That Does To public mailer as the principal speaker.

The Machine That Does To public mailer man as the principal speaker.

The Machine That Does To public mailer man as the principal speaker.

The real value of money lies not in itself but in what it stands for. It is a medium of exchange and becomes useful only when it is used as a force with which to bring things to pass.

Because you can do things with money it becomes truly valuable, hence should not be wasted or spent foolishly.

If you will open an account with this Bank and regularly deposit a portion of your earnings you will be in a position to command coming

One dollar will open an ac-

Broadway

Protect Yourself! Get the Round Package Ask For and GET

CAUTION HORLICK'S THE ORIGINAL MALTED MILK

Nourishes and sustains more than tea, coffee, Should be kept at home or when traveling. I tritious food-drink may be prepared in a mon
A glassful hot before retiring induces refres alsep. Also in lunch tablet form for business

Indigestion. One package

A great variety of busi-ness chances, and al-most every conceivable thing that can be bought, sold, rented, exchanged or wanted, are advertised from day to day in The Times "Liner" section. These advertisements are readable and interesting, and offer many opportunities for personal profit proves it. 25c at all druggists

BELL-ANS Absolutely Removes
Indigestion. One package

A great variety of business chances, and atmost every conceivable thing that can be bought, sold, rented, exchanged or wanted, are advertised from day to day in The Times "Liner" section. These advertisements are readable and interesting, and offer many opportunities for personal profit and advancement.

STOP DELIVERY

with Milk Strikers.

with Miners' Pickets.

eventeen I.W.W.'s Arreste

by Minnesota Sheriff.

ce wagon drivers this afternoon de ning Saturday, to the nine dairle affected by the strike and lockou of union milk wagon drivers. This.

tration.
Only people who wanted milk bacenough to go after it have obtained the desired supply. The temperature here today was 94 deg.

MINERS IN BATTLE.

GET LESS WAGES

ages of the metal miners in the ceur d'Alene mines for this month

ON THE PETROLITE

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.)

will be 25 cents a day less than the were in July, it was announced to day. The miners are paid on a sliding scale controlled by the price clead. They had been receiving $1 day above the standard wage of $3.8

SENDS MORE FACTS

eral strike of ice wagon drivers are Fired in Battle

descriptive circulars and transportation distribution. Times readers can obtat to writing for it, all the information. This service is absolutely from the cation.

Plan Your Vacation With the Aid of The Times Information Bureaus

619 South Spring, and Broadway at First

Call or Telephone-Sunset Main 8200, Home 1039 This Service is Absolutely Free

ARLINGTON HOTEL SANTA BARBARA

absolutely Fireproof, Hotel—All Outside Rooms, affording plenty light and air—Headquarters for Tourists from all parts of the rid. Private Lavatories in connection with all rooms. Ideal mate the year round. Automobile road is now perfect. 3½ hours a Los Angeles to Santa Barbara. Unexcelled facilities for care

E. P. DUNN, Lesses.

The Most Attractive and Sportiest Golf Links in California.

Good Accommodations at Moderate Rates in Island Villa and Canvas City FREE BAND CONCERTS AND FREE DANCING FOR PATRONS OF WILMING TON TRANSPORTATION COMPANY'S (BANNING LINE) STEAMERS ONLY

BANNING COMPANY, Agents.

MT. WILSON-New Hotel and Cabins and Strain's Camp. 6000 Ft. Elevation.

Delightful air, purset spring water. Picturesque walks, P toto read in Southern California. Housekeeping tents reble rates. New hotel, American plan, Vacation rates in r of all. Dancing. Largest observatory in world. Delicatand groceries cheap as city. P. E. car for foot trail. I stage leaves 9 a.m. 422 S. Spring et., 33 round trip; Passe owner Colorado and Raymond at 5:30. Information at buand W. E. Cory, Mgr. Pair Cales 2472.

LONG BEACH

VENICE DEEP SEA FISHING

CANOEING and BOATING OAKGLEN LODGE

5000 FEET. REASONABLE RATES.
MISS A. M. WOODFORD, Redlands. Per

CAMP BALDY

SEVEN OAKS ROAD FROM REDLANDS VIA MILL CREEK AND BARTON FLATS NOW OPEN. DAILY CREEK CASE Cabin plan. Elevation 5000 feet. Excellent table. Fine troot fieling. Baddle troop, Address Manager SEVEN OAKS, Redlands, or Phone 5003 Redlands.

STURTEVANT CAMP Slight miles from Sierra Madre; oneay trail. To the furnished for housekeeping, located on a beauty mountain stream, for two people, is a way to the furnished for housekeeping to be a way to be a stream, for two people, is a way to be a way t

Store and delicatement. Board and round.

From ead of car line. Bella. J. M. BEARD, Prop., Sierra Madre, Cal.

Phone 164—4 Bella. J. M. BEARD, Prop., Sierra Madre, Cal.

Housekeeping YE ALPINE TAVERN-MT. LOWE. Cosy cottages com pletaly equipped for housekeeping, $8 per week, two per Cottages one; $2 cach additional person. Camp supplies at reasonable prices. Free showers. Amusements. Recervations P. E. Information Bureau Five trains daily, 6th and Main. Excursion fare, $2. RADIUM SULPHUR SPRINGS

Glenn Ranch Resort ton Bureau, Peck-Judah.

Superh Routes of Travel

IT COSTS NO MORE TO GO EAST

GLACIER NATIONAL PARK Get illustrated booklet and full information J. W. Phalon, T. F. & P. Agent,

606 South Spring Street.

STEAMSHIP BEAVER BAILS SATURDAY, AUGUST 19.
LOW BOUND TRIP FARES, INCLUDING MEALS AND THROUGH TICKETS TO ALL POINTS IN UNITED STATES AND CANADA.

517 SOUTH SPRING ST. Home APTELL

HORST'S COMPANY IS HELD ENEMY CONCERN. ICE WAGON MEN

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A P.] LONDON, Aug. 11, 6 p.m.—The loard of Trade has decided to wind up the affairs of the Horst Compar on the ground that it is an enemy concern. D. J. Partello of Chicag who was said by officials of the con pany to be in control of the con-cern, appeared before the board and said the control lay in the hands of cern, appeared before the board and said the control lay in the hands of American and British stockholders. It is understood other companies in which Mr. Partello is concerned will meet with a similar fate.

Mr. Partello was represented in the hearings by James M. Beck of New York, former assistant Attorney-General of the United States.

Before the war the Horst Company was under control of Mr. Partello's brother-in-law, Baron Lewis von Horst of Coburg, Germany, who was arrested soon after the war began as an alien enemy, and interned. It is understood the Baron had heavy interests in other companies which are now claimed by Mr. Partello. The American consulate has been asked to intervene on the ground that the companies affected are now controlled by American capital.

The Board of Trade began proceedings in June against the Hop Extract Company and the Horst Company, in the organization of which Baron von Horst, who formerly lived in California, was concerned. In addition to Mr. Partello other directors of these companies in the United States are Lillian Scott Troy and her father, Patrick Troy of San Francisco.

BIG SANTA FE MILD BURNS SANTA FE (N. M.) Aug. 11.—The mill of the Ozark Mining and Milling Company at Kelly, N. M., one of the largest ig the Southwest, was destroyed by fire yesterday, the loss being $175,000, partially covered by insurance.

Steamships

South America jured.

At Virginia, Minn., a battle occurred between a crowd of about seventy-five pickets, men, women and children, and the local police, who tried to disperse them. Several arrests were made.

The Sheriff's office has received word from Kinney, near Buhl, of the arrest of seventeen strikers there today for picketing. Led by John Hamilton of the LW.W., it is said, they were attacking a number of miners going to work at the Kinney mine.

S.S. SANTA CRUZ. Salls August 3
S.S. COLUSA..... Salls August 3
(From San Francisco)

W. R. GRACE- & CO.
M. F. & C. H. McLaurin, Agta,
439 Mer. Nat'l, Bank Bidg M. 4805; A510

AUSTRALIA W ZEALAND AND SOUTH SEAS Via Tabiti Rarotonga ge from San Prancisco August 16, suber 15, and every 28 days. Send for American-Hawaiian IDAHO MINERS

Resorts

reau, 616 80. Spring St.

GLEN TAVERN

SANTA PAULA, CALRATE $1.50 6 DAY AND UP.

Most delightful resting place between Les Angeles and Santa Barbars.

J. A. CRANE, Prop.
HUNTING AND PISHING IN SEASON. GLEN TAVERN

Los Angeles Totels and Apartments

NEW ROSSLYN HOTEL 500 ROOMS. LARGEST HOTEL ON COAST.

100 Rooms, $1.00—200 Rooms, $1.50—200 Rooms, $2.00—300 Rooms $2.00 to $5.00

MEALS 25 Cents

Steumships

Summer Vacation Fares THE WHITE FLYERS YALE and HARVARD $6.35 SAN FRANCISCO $10.50 SUNDAY, TUESDAY, THURSDAY AND FRIDAY, Return Limit Round Try Tickets, October 11st.

$2.35 SAN DIEGO $2.50

AND SATURDAY. Return Limit, 30 Days. tummer Excursions to All Eastern Points. Through Tickets to rtland, Seattle, Tacoma, All Puget Sound and Alaskan Ports, PACIFIC NAVIGATION CO. PASADENA OFFICE—18 East Colorado Street LONG BEACH OFFICE—123 West Ocean Ave. OCEAN PARK OFFICE—149 Pier Ave.

FREE SAN FRANCISCO $5.35 SEATTLE-TACOMA $15.35 BERTH Leave LOS ANGELES 10:15 A.M. MONDAY AND THURSDAY THE LARGEST SHIPS AND THE ONLY THROUGH SERVICE Congress-Governor-President-Queen $3.00 SAN DIEGO DAYLIGHT EXCURSIONS-

OUGH TICKETS TO ALL POINTS IN U. S., CANADA, ALASKA 624 SOUTH SPRING ST. 115 W. OCEAN AVE. LONG BEACH

San Francisco and Portland Without Change STEAMSHIP ROSE CITY

517 South Spring St.

Through Tickets to All Points in United States and Canada.

> C, G. KRUEGER, Dist. Pass. Agt. Home A3751-Main 1904

TWO MORE CONVICTS MISSING AT CAMP.

[FT A. P. NIGHT WIRE.] REDDING, Aug. 11.—Two Folsom road camp convicts were missing from the camp near here today, making a total of eight who have escaped in the last few weeks. Two were recaptured yesterday. St. Louis Drivers in Sympathy

LOS ANGELES DOCTOR MAY LOSE ESTATE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLOSIVE DISPATCE.] SAN FRANCISCO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Aug. 11.—The inability THE TIMES, Aug. 11.—The inability of Dr. C. F. Kuster of Los Angeies to find a will of the late Mrs. Mary D. Kuster, widow of his foster father, who died at Bartlett Springs three weeks ago, may result in the physician's losing any interest he might have had in the $75,000 estate left by the aged woman. A search conducted by order of Superior Judge Graham today failed to disclose a will among Mrs. Kuster's known effects, and Judge Graham then issued special letters of faministration, on the estate to Mrs. Fannie Kirby of this city, a sister of the deceased. Dr. Kuster is the adopted son of the husband of Mrs. Kuster, but he was adopted prior to the marriage, and has no claim on her estate unless a will in his favor can be found. James J. Barrett, Assistant State Labor Commissioner, is in St. Louis attempting to bring about confer-saces between the dairies and the triking drivers with a view to arbi-

TRAIN IN DITCH; ENGINEER KILLED.

AT CLEVELAND.

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.)

CLEVELAND (O.) Aug. 11.—As a result of a strike of milk wagon drivers of the Telling-Belle Vernon Company, largest milk dealers in the city, 300,000 Clevelanders were without their usual supply today. Burlington passenger train No. 44, eastbound, struck an open switch on the Great Northern Main Line at Boru, half way between Cutbank and Shelby, today and the two engines, express and baggage car went into the ditch. Engineer A. W. Baker, Great Falls, was crushed and scalded to death under his engine. Engineer R. J. Davis, Great Falls, was perhaps fatalix injured. Fireman Charles D. Walden and Fireman William H. Flavell were severely bruised.

It is said that the switch at Boru either had been tampered with or closed carelessly by some trainman. Burlington passenger train No. 44. MINERS IN BATTLE.

[ST A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CROSBY (Minn.) Aug. 11.—Ef crts of strike sympathisers to pre ent miners from working on the uyuna range resulted in a battle which many shots were fired. Sev ral miners were badly beaten dur ig the affray, but, so far as can be arned, no one was seriously in ired.

NEW GENERAL FREIGHT AGENT.

NEW GENERAL FREIGHT AGENT.

[SY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

DULLITH: (Minn.) Aug. 11.—Albion M. Fenton, assistant general freight agent of the Chicago, St.
Paul, Minneapolis and Omaha Railroad at Minneapolis, has been appointed general freight agent of that road, succeeding E. B. Ober, resigned on account of ill health.

FRENCH STEAMER IN BLAZE SINKS.

[ST ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.] MARSEILLES, Aug. 11.—The rench steamer Tibor, with a cargo gust 5 and sank.

The Tibor, of 2727 tons, left New York on July 2 for Marseilles and was last reported as passing Gibratar on July 16. She probably already has reached Marseilles. ALLIES ATTACK

BULGARIAN TOWN.

arians at Doiran, forty miles north-ARTILLERY DUEL.

ARTILLERY DUEL.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A P.]

LONDON, Aug. 11.—Reuter's correspondent at Saloniki telegraphs that the artillery duel on the Balkan front has been renewed. The height captured by the Angio-French forces is Hill 227 south of Doiran. The railway station lies five miles east of the town.

There have been several small engagements recently along this front, as well as frequent heavy artillery battles. A general offensive movement on the part of the army of the French, British and Serbian troops based on Saloniki, which is reported to number nearly 709,000, has been expected for several weeks. The engagement near Doiran, however, apparently was a minor affair.

SAYS ROOSEVELT

MAY INVADE WEST. (PT A. P. NIGHT WIRE.) NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—Th NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—Theodore Roosevelt may invade the Middle West in the interest of the Republican campaign, it was announced here tonight by National Chairman William R. Willcox. Who visited the former President at dyster Bay today. The plan calls for five or six apeëches by Col. Roosevelt, according to Mr. Willcox. One of these, however, will be delivered in Maine.

Mr. Willcox and he expected former President Taft and Elihu Root also would ald in the campaign.

WILSON MAY SPEAK ACROSS CONTINENT.

(PY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.) WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.-Pre

dent Wilson is seriously considering a transcontinental campaign trip. Congressional cailers at the White House today gained the impression that he virtually had decided on such a step, but officials said later that his plans for the campaign still are uncertain and depended largely upon Congress.

Santa Pe new city ticket office will be fill fouth Hill street, in the Consolidated idg., Monday, August 14.

San Francisco Veterinary College legins September 11. No profession offers equal proctunity. E. J. Creely, Sec., 1818 Market street. Try Murine Eye Remedy d, Weak, Watery Eyes, Granulated

A great variety of business chances, and almost every conceivable thing that can be bought, sold, rented, exchanged or wanted, are advertised from day to day in The Times "Liner" section. These advertisements are readable and interesting, and offer many opportunities for personal profit and advancement.

Avoid the Rush

Happenings on the Pacific S

THREE MILLIONS OUR POPULATION

Report of Agriculturists Shows Big Increase.

Careful Investigation Made of Reports of Cities.

At Least One-third Listed as Country Dwellers.

fornia's population is at the 3,000,dent of the society, and Charles auditors after careful investigatic According to the school cens method, the State has a populati of 3,004,000; if based on the reg tration, it has 2,870,470, and if the basis adopted by the Unit States government, 2,854,727. 1910, when the United States greenment census was taken, the Sit

CALIFORNIA STILL

ONLY SMALL DECREASE IN THE BARLEY AND OAT CROP.

BIG GRAIN STATE.

First Bank Accorded in Produc-tion of Dry and Sweet Wines. Agricultural Society Gives Out Figures Showing Commonwealth Holding Own with Middle West.

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 11.—Al-hough large acreages formerly sown o grain were transformed last year fields California showed only a small nual report of George Robertson, of $32,511,000 for the month, a gain of state statistician of the State as distinct of $10,979,000 compared with the cultural Society. The State is still one of the foremost in the production of barley and in dry and sweet wines leads every other State in the nation, and produces more than all the rest several times over.

North Dakota and Minnesota Sightly exceeded California last year in the production of barley. The ports fell off. nation, and produces more than all the rest several times over.

North Dakota and Minnesota slightly exceeded California last year in the production of barley. The acreage in this crop in 1915 was 1,360,000 bushels, while the output was 39,440,000 bushels. There were last year 64,000 acres in corn, giving a production of 2,624,000 bushels. Berkeley Millionaire's Wife Drops a produced 7,040,000 bushels, 200,000 formore than the previous year. Prices of Mrs. Celina D. Spring of Berkeley, against her millionaire husband, John H. Spring, in which Mrs. Spring asked 22500 monthly allowance bushels.

In winter wheat 440,000 acres of CAKLAND, Aug. 11.—Court action in the separate maintenance suit of Mrs. Celina D. Spring of Berkeley, against her millionaire husband, John H. Spring, in which Mrs. Spring asked 22500 monthly allowance was dropped today with the understanding that there was to be a settlement out of court.

This is the second suit against her millionaire husband, that there was to be a settlement out of court.

This is the second suit against her millionaire husband, that there was to be a settlement out of court.

ANOTHER BIG ARREST IN BOMB PLOT SOON.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.] police bomb bureau, conferred to-day with Don Rathbun, special inrestigator of the Department of Jus ice, in regard to the bomb explosio here July 22, when nine persons were killed and nearly forty inured, and it was said that another important arrest would follow in the important arrest would follow in the case. Five persons are under indictment for murder already.

Rathbun admitted that he gave Matheson information concerning from timing devices using in Chicago, but would discuss the conference no further. Matheson said the bomb was made in San Francisco and that he has three times more evidence than is necessary to convict the indicted suspects.

MAID TO BORDER TO WED.

Oregon Girl will be Bride of Lieutenant in National Guard.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PORTLAND (Or.) Aug. 11.-A Columbia River highway romance which budded in the spring when the Ad Club gave the Portland salesgirls their excursion over that famous, roadway, will blossom next week, when Miss Meta Staffan, formerly in the cashiers' department of a big Portland department store, weds Lieut. O. A. Chenoweth of the Oregon National Guard at Palm City. Cal. Chenoweth, was doing guard duty on the auspicious day, and the acquaintance began at the picnic luncheon.

Miss Staffan left tonight for San Diego, and the wedding will take place as soon as she arrives. She has been with the department store the last three years. Lieut. Chenoweth was to have been married July 21, but the mobilization call came three days before. He already has rented one of the most attractive cottages adjacent to the camp. the Ad Club gave the Portland sales-

M'MICKEN NAMED PASSENGER AGENT.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 11.—R. SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 11.—R.
J. Ringwood, recently appointed general manager of the Pacific-Alaska Navigation Company, which operates steamers between coast-wise ports from San Diego to Alaska, announced today the appointment of E. G. MpMicken as general passenger agent of the company.

The Pacific-Alaska company recently added the fast turbiners Yale and Harvard to its fleet.

west of the mouth of the Mackensis north latit. River, July 27, and will depart for the island with supplies after remaining here one week. The Gladic command trails, for less any point of particle. Alaska company recently added the fast turbiners Yale and Harvard to its fleet.

M ILLION GOLD FROM ESPEE TAX

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 11.—
The Southern Pacific Company today paid in to State Treasurer Friend W. Richardson $1,000,000 in gold and $656,816 in exchange, as the first installment of the biggest tax ever collected from any corporation. The railroad company is the heaviest taxpayer in California. In all payer in California. In all bout $2,000,000 was received of the corporation license tax mounts to $7,839,115.32.

OREGON NORTH WITH CALIFORNIANS.

attleship Oregon arrived here to-ay with 450 members of the Naval Oregon will remain two days, dur-ing which the militiamen will en-joy shore leave and then will depart for Los Angeles.

SAFETY SCOUTS" IN SCHOOLS PROPOSED.

TACOMA (Wash.) Aug. 11.—Rep discussed treatment of hospital cases, appraisal of property damages and the safety first propaganda in the schools of Tacoma through the organization of "safety scouts." Among the speakers was J. H. Handlen of San Francisco.

Tomorrow the claim

SEATTLE COMMERCE GAINS MILLIONS

John H. Spring, in which Mrs. Spring asked $2500 monthly allowance was dropped today with the understanding that there was to be a settlement out of court.

This is the second suit against her husband that Mrs. Spring has dropped since last winter, when Spring's name became involved with that of Mrs. Genevieve Ecker, former manager of his apartment-house, who was divorced from her husband a few days ago.

CANNING WAGES RAISED.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 11.— Mrs. Edson Reports on Effects
Capt. Duncan Matheson, head of the Minimum Pay Legislation. [ST A. P. NIGHT WIRE.] SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 11.—Min-num wage legislation for women in wages of a large percentage of the women workers in that occupation but has not had the effect of estabbut has not had the effect of establishing the minimum wage as the maximum, according to a partial report on the operation of the law, made public today by Mrs. Katherine Philips Edson, executive secretary of the State Industrial Welfare Commission. Mrs. Edson's report is based upon personal investigation of conditions in thirty-five of the larger fruit canneries about the State.

She says: "In making the investigation this year we found that not a single cannery that paid in excess of the minimum wage had lowered its wage scale, while all the canneries that paid less than the minimum scale had raised wages to the commission's minimum figure."

Mrs. Edson declared that the better canneries have derived a positive benefit from the law, as competitive basis. "In spite of the fact that this is an unusually hard year for the canners, they have cooperated willingly." she said.

Arctic Exploration.

SETTLE ST IN THE

Agreement is h Union and En

in Other Com

Both Sides Ded

SAN FRANCISC settlement of the di the local Water P Union and the Ric struck June 1 for an hour for straight cents for overtime wh and asked for 55 cen time and $1 for overt

SEATTLE (Was UNCLE SAM GO

SHIPMENTS O

STEFANSSON'S SCHOOL AT NOME FOR SUPPLE

NOME (Alaska) Aug. 11.—The power schooner Gladiator, one of the vessels of the Canadian maled north exploring expedition commanded by ilhjalmur Stefansson, arrived from Herschel Island today, but brought no news of Stefansson, who is passing the summer north of Banks Land. It was Stefansson the Gladdator left Herschel Island, west of the mouth of the Mackenzie River, July 27, and will depart for The Stefans no news of Stefansson, who is pass-

RAVERS DROP

TURDAY MORNING.

THREE IN ROW

Bates Acts in Role o

Vernon Boss. BY HARRY A. WILLIAMS

out, and scored uer back of first up its lame so is singled. A bra on third. Gui is singled, scori pitching at or when the one out. Gloom tht back at Kell

A County of the County of the Decision will He

of a couple of hits in the the usual result. Again they sought to make it Ward reached first on Too. Kelly fanned and died. Evans walked. Off a two-buse foul that s, but they wouldn't let ill then compromised

WINS RACE.

Timed at Eighteen Minutes

Forty-seven Seconds.

Barney Oldfield, Master

Driver, Comes in Last.

Dense Fog Makes Driving

Very Dangerous.

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.)
COLORADO SPRINGS (Colo.)
Aug. 11.—Ralph Mulford added an-ther victory to his string of auto-

-half-mile course was 18m. 48.7s., justing his carburetor. A. H. Pat-erson finished second in 22m. 15s., but was disqualified for running out

ninute and twenty seconds

cific Slo WERS DROP THREE IN ROW ETTLE STRIKE

IN THE NOR greement is Ratif Union and Emple Ducks' Future.

T 12, 1916.__

Decision will Have no

in Other Coast Por

h Sides Declare

en all the tir

in the second, tool is pitch, and scored ibled of Wille's well-linn's walk and Ris-duced No. 2 in the lagled in the fourth, a out, and scored on acture back of first. I up its lame score in an third. Guisto is singled, a brace in on third. Guisto is singled, scoring it Guisto on third. or when there Gleichmann and walk, filled the in the seventh. Grigge and Mat-leaded the bases one out. Gloomy ht back at Kelly ple of hits in the il result. Again aght to make it wached first on sily fanned and Evans walked n-base foul that my wouldn't let compromised.

ANGELS BEAT SEALS: WIN SEVEN TO TWO

BARRY GETS HOMER;

OAKS LOSE AGAIN.

STANDINGS

PACIFIC COAST DEAGUE

AMERICAN LEAGUE

AMERICAN ASSOCIATION

Beautiful "Modjeska" summer reart now open. Excellent meals.-

Who'll Stop 'Em. BROWNS TWICE BEAT INDIANS.

are Tied with Detroit for Fourth Place.

Record of Twenty-two Wins in Twenty-four Games.

Double by Sisler Starts Brown Rally.

ST. LOUIS (Mo.) Aug. 11.—St Louis defeated Cleveland twice to-day, 5 to 4 and 3 to 1, and moved ace, four and a half games behind

COBB DOES IT

NATIONAL LEAGUE

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—New York defeated St. Louis today in both sections of a double-header, 5 to 3 and 2 to 0. DOGERS WIN TWO.
[SY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]
BROOKLYN, Aug. 11.—Brooklyn defeated Chicago today in both games of a double-header, 2 to 1 and 4 to 1, making it three straight.

Totals 37 1 9 24 12 x-Batted for Section in eighth. CUBAN FIELDER RALPH MULFORD JOINS SEALS

SAN FRANCISCO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Aug. 11 .-Boss Harry Wolverton of the Seals tonight announced that for a goodly plie of cash he had purchased the release of the heavy-hitting Cuban outfielder of the Vancouver club, The Cuban, who is near the top of the Northwest League in stick work, will join the Seals at once, and shortly will appear in the regular line-up Two major league clubs were after Calvo, according to Woiverton. The Cuban first Clark Griffith gave him a trial and from there to Vancouver Wolverton said tonight that scouts for Detroit and Phila-delphia who have seen Calvo about ready for majo action this year report he

BRAVES, PIRATES DIVIDE. [BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.] BOSTON, Aug. 11.—After winning

EXPRESSIVE LOU

Totals 32 1 5 24 6

Philadelphia ... 0 0 0 0 0 0 1 1 0—2

SUMMARY.

Errors—Fisher, Nieboff, Two-base hits—Neale, Crasial, Laderas, Three-base hit—Nieboff, Stolen base—Bousch sacrifice hit—Nieboff, Double plays—Grob to Louden to Chase; Chase to Fisher to Grob; Killifer to Banctoft, Bases on balls—for Moseley; 2; off Kneizer, 1; off Mixey; 1; off McGuillan, 1. Hith and earned rons—Off Moseley; 2

Thits, 1 run, in 8 innings; off Kneizer, 2 and nome in 1 off Mixey; 1; off McGuillan, 2

Kneizer, 2; by Rixey, 4; by McGuillan, 2. Umpires—Harrison and Rigler.

First game:

REDS BEAT PHILLIES, lay, 3'to 2.

R. H. Brett, h.g., by Waponee (Grady). 1 2 1
General Todd, b.h., by George Leavitt
(Rea)
Camella, br.m., by Curmer Cox). 3 5
White Section Ilones Gentry also started.
The Matron Stake trotting, value $6000, twen in three:
Expressive Lox, b.f., by Atlantic Express (Murphy).
Lightsome Watta, b.f., by General Watts
(Geers).
Lightsome Watta, b.f., by General Watts
(Geers).
Expressive Lox, by Bingara (Chandler). 3 2
Inigen Silh, b.c., by Bingara (Chandler). 3 2
Inigen Silh, b.c., by Bingara (Chandler). 3 2
Ingent Silh, b.c., by Directum (Keller.)

Directum I, ch.g., by Directum (Keller.)

Time

Yacht Racing. SCHOONER EDRIS WINS CORONADO ISLAND RACE.

(BY DIRECT WIRE-EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.)

ORONADO, Aug. 11.—The Edris, the splendid auxiliary schooner owned by Capt. John Barneson of San Francisco, took the John J. San Diego. The Viking III is known to be the slowest craft of the bunch and last year became famous by taking six days to run to San Francisco. C ORONADO, Aug. 11.—The Edris, the splendid auxiliary schooner owned by Capt. John Barneson the Y First game:

ST. LOUE.

NEW YORK.

ST. LOUE.

ST. LOUE.

NEW YORK.

ST. LOUE.

NEW YORK.

ST. LOUE.

ST. LOUE.

NEW YORK.

ST. LOUE.

Elapsed Corrected time. time. 4:56:56 4:56:56 5:18:29 4:52:02 5:13:51 4:55:06 5:21:24 5:06:49 5:48:16 5:21:13 5:38:41 5:07:36 Tonight, at an elaborate banquet at the Hotel del Coronado, the cups

CRAVATH MAY BECOME ANGEL

SALT LAKE, Aug. 11.on play in the Pacific Coast son play in the Pacific Coast League, probably with the Los Angeles club, according to an announcement here today by Joe Wolfe, scout for the Phila-delphia National League club. Cravath has refused to pla and 'emands that he be sent to the Pacific Coast League. Volter of the Angels consent to part with of the Angels," said sold to the highest bidder, as of the course and second place was awarded to George Buzzane, whose time was one minute and thirty-three seconds slower. Ernest Parrish was third and Barney Oldfield last. A broken gas line early in the race forced Hughle Hughes to rettre. race forced Hughle Hughes to retire.

MEMSIC WINS DRAW

The first race, starting at noon, was won by Fred Junk in 23m. 4s. his team-mate, Roy Stents, finishing second in 23m. 29s. Henry Jones was third in 26m. 3s. Billowy clouds enveloped the lofty peak the greater part of the day and the crowds along the race course heard the roar of laboring motors long before the cars came into view. The racing machines, which plowed through thick, white cloud banks, were visible for only a moment and were swallowed up again.

The winners today received $500 each, second place carried a cash reward of $250 and third place $100.

within a shade of knocking Ad Wolgast out.

Memsic was not much like the Memsic of old. His muscles seemed tight and stiff. The terrific punch was lacking. Otherwise, he brought back memories of old times. He was as cool as ever and still had that choppy little ax-like blow.

There was another fight on the programme that was a vicious affair. Two Mexicans, Tony Ross and Johnny Oliver, were the principals. They battered each other about the ring at top speed for four rounds while the crowd shouted and yelled at the top of its many voices. At the end both were standing. The moment the gong sounded Ross backed into his corner and collapsed. The his corner and collapsed. scrap was given to Oliver.

HEINIE ZIMMERMAN ON THE MARKET.

Watts, Driven by Pop Geers, Forced into Second Place. General Todd Captures Two-five Pace in Fast Time—Directum I TIMES, Aug. 11.—Heinie Zimmer man, star third baseman of the Cub

WINS BIG EVENT.

CAPTURES MATRON STAKE IN STRAIGHT HEATS.

ace, worth $1000, with little diffi-ulty, and Worthy Prince, by finish-ng first in two heats and second in won the 2:12 trot.

Time 2:09%, 2:08%, 2:11%, 2:12 class, trotting, purse $1000,

FINALS FOR TODAY

INTERSTATE TENNIS

Ralph Powell of Omaha defeated John Barton of Sioux Falls, inter-tate tennis champion, today in the semi-finals of the interstate tourna-nent. The scores: 8-6, 2-6, 6-2, ment. The scores: 8-5, 2-6, 6-2, 3-6, 6-0.

Kenneth Rerick of Primghar defeated Harold Oldham, winner, South Dakota. Scores: 6-3, 9-7, 2-6,

6-2. Rerick and Powell meet tomorro

COULON WINS.

STAGG REFUSES.

CHICAGO, Aug. 11.—A. A. Stags, coach at the University of Chicago, today announced there would be no football game this fall between the Marcons and the University of Oregon. He said seven games had already been scheduled, and that according to conference rules no other game could be listed.

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.)

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 11.

Miss Ella Crist, a San Fran-stroke a year ago, today cele-gotiating the circuit of the side the Golden Gate, in 56m. 471-5s. Miss Crist's time did not equal that made by Mrs. Myrtle Wright of San Francisco, when she made the dis-tance in August, 1913, in 34m.

flat, the best record ever made by a woman. Another fast made several years ago by Miss Nell Schmidt of Alameda in 34m. 50s.

SEAL ROCKS.

GIRL SWIMS

Oakland

Use It Three Times!

KNOW-DOC PORE TREATMENT

A great variety of business chances, and almost every conceivable thing that can be bought, sold, rented. exchanged or wanted, are advertised from day to day in The Times "Liner" section. These advertisements are readable and interesting, and offer many opportunities for personal profit and advancement.

GEORGE M. CHURCH BEATS LYNN MURRAY.

[PT A. P. NIGHT WIRE.] SEABRIGHT (N. J.) Aug. 11 leorge M. Church of Tenafly, N. J., George M. Church of Tenafly, N. J., the western and northwestern champion, won the tennis singles finals here today on the turf of the Seabright Lawn Tennis and Cricket Club. He defeated R. Lindley Murray of California, national indoor champion, 6-4, 6-2, 6-4.

Church stands as the challenger of R. Norris Williams II for the Achilles cup and will meet him tomorrow.

Church repeatedly tricked Murray out of position to shoot the ball through for passes. At the net Church was so superior that Murray appeared slow.

"Take Time by the Forelock."
Telephone your Sunday ada, to The Times Fri-

Classified Liners.

THINGS ON WHEELS

LIVE STOCK FOR SALE-

IVE STOCK WANTED

ATTORNEYS-

BOILERS—And Bellermake

DARBY BOILER WORKS, MANUFACTURERS OF boilers and tanks. special attention to repair work, 226 QUEIROLO ST. Phone Broadway 7254, residence East 2551.

VETERINARY COLLEGES HAWLEY, KING & CO.

F. VETERINARY COLLEGE BEGINS SEPT. 11. Catalogue free. C. KEANE, Pres., 1818 Man-et St., San Francisco. TRANSFERS

UNIVERSITY TRANSPER CO, VAN AND PTOMAGE, plano moving, expressing, suto brus tree arywhere, picnic trips. Both planes. Warr BOOD. HIMMS. 25/200. 23nd and Hooner.
MOVING, 81 BOOM AND UP; PTOMAUE, room, SOUGHTY-TRANSPER CO. (Im., 1 112)
Tennice, P2006—Brondway 1471

OR SALE-ENTIRE PLANT CUNNINGS

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS. For Sale. Exchange. Want

MUSICAL INSTRUCTION-

BUT LAND YOUNG LADY WISHES TO GIVE PLAND become in exchange for Spanish. Write 1820 ORANGE ST., city.

SEWING MACHINES-

WE SELL UK BENT CANGER STOVERS MACHINERY. Repairing of all makes, $1 and up. FAR W. NEUMAN, 412 W. 7th st. F2085, Repairing TYPEWRITERS-

SCHOONER

OR SUPPL

Classified Liners.

SATURDAY MORNING.

state batterday.

State Action Drop Answering professional plane of the formation of the base are printed in the first of the Times Chosen Collaboration of the base are printed in the first of the Times Chosen Collaboration of the base are printed in the first of the Times Chosen Collaboration of the base are printed in the first of the Times Chosen Collaboration of the base are printed in the first of the Times Chosen Collaboration of the base are printed in the first of the Times Chosen Collaboration of the base are printed in the first of the Times Chosen Collaboration of the the Times Chosen Collaboration of the Chosen Collaboration o

WANTED-

D TOUNG WOMEN CONTINUED TO THE PARTY POR ADVANCEMENT.
TELEPHONE OF THE PACTY POR ADVANCEMENT.
THE PACTY POR ADVANCEMENT.
THE PACTY POR PACTY POR ADVANCEMENT.

STEWARD MINING CAMP OR CONouth, practical efficient, years of D-BY FILIPINO, WORK AFTER SCHOOL, ness, or both. Institution, family, etc. C. FNRIFELA, 506 N. Broadway.

- JSPANESE, TAMA GARDENER, GUAR-WORK, day hopseleaning by the control of the con

Application of the control of the

HOUSEWORK BY SWEDISH GIRL, May 1825 S. LOS ROBLES AVE., Pas-

Broadway 604.

WANTELL — PAINTING, TINTING, PAPER-RANGING: best workmanship; workmanship; workmansteed, GOOWIN, F3115, 738-9, 8, Hill of WANTED—PAINTING, CARNISHING, ENAMEL Work, plaster, patching, all work guaranteed.

WEST 5038-WANTED-PAINTING, VARNISHING, ENAMEL, work, plaster, batching, all work guaranteed. WEST 5008
WANTED-PAINTING AND TINTING, PRICES beatenable, work guaranteed. J. McCLCRE, 1552 W. Washungton, West 7011.
WANTED-CAPPENTERING BY EXPERT REACORDE wages. Must keep bury, Painting, Uniting, paperbenging, WEST 5224, 21679.
WANTED PAPERHANGING AND TINTING, 42,50 per room and up, psinting reasonable. Proce WILSHIPE SEC. ANTED CARPENTER WANTS JOB. GOOD ALL-round man, $2.50 day. WILSHIRE 3411.

prest maneas. Address K, Dox at Tibles OF-FICF.

WANTED—FARTNER WITH SMALL AMOUNT OF motey, good opportunity for live man, busi-ness established for T years, automobile general revising. 1815 4, MAIN.

WANTED—SERVICES, FEW HUNDERED BUYS IN-more automobile general reviews and the property of the pro

ANTED-TO RENT SMALL STORE WITH LIV-180G.
WANTED—TO RENT SMALL BANCH NOT FAR out, might buy live stock if on the place.
Call BROADWAY 5087.
WANTEL—HOUSEKE EPING ROOM WITH KITCH anten—Housekeeping Room with Kitch-enette in exchange for the use of a horse and igon. Address J. box 272, Times office.

juring at. Warehouse, 112-110 Court stain 3114.

Main 3114.

ANTED-BEDROOM, DINING ROOM, KITCHEN furniture, no junk; pay cash; must be a barcain; no dealers. Call ROOM 8, Loraine Hotel,

WANTED-

WANTED—AVOID THE CONCESTION on The Times telephone switchboard by tele

TO LET-ROOMS. WHOLE WEEK FOR PRICE of one night and just as clean 82, $2.50, run-

TO LET-

The Harmonious home, for woman. PHONE HARMON HARMON

POR LEASE—EXTRA FINE LINE brick building. Close-in. No orportunity. Den't fail to OWNER, 739 WALL. Asset

Manne Freperty.

MANDE THREE-STORY BRICK BUILD
THE COME $125 FER MONTH. Re
HIGH FREE CAYP. RATE

FORTH FUR BLOCKS FROM

MONTH OF THE CAYP. RATE

MONTH ACER IN CITY OF MIL BOULAND OF OWNER & BORUN.

BOULAND AVE

TWO FIRST TWO STORY FLAT

the boundary of the company of th

TURDAY MORNING.

Massified Liners.

For its Fire lob in receiving the receiving

Western Kane

POULTRY POR BALE—ONY plants in Cus meet steek on d deep location beto the control of the location beto the control of the location beto sale re location of the location belocation belocation belocation belocation belocation belocation of the location belocation belocat HOTELS, R

With Astronomy or the

2, 1916.-[PART

ine, guaranteed not to co

PLAME COMPORTABLE

TO BE ALL COUNTRY AND A COUNTRY BLUE AND A COUNTRY

FOR SALE-

FOR SALE OR EXCHANGE-FOR SALE-LOT 20, BLOCK 2 SECOND AVE. San Pedro. Address owner, 2022 CANTRO ST.

FOR SALE—Country Property.

R SALE-RANCHES, HOMES, ACRES, ist. WILSON BEOR, Santa Cruz, Cal. OACHELLA VALLEY-

IMPERIAL VALLEY-

SAN JOAQUIN VALLEY-

BRANK EVILONO

PART & per cent.

Finishe. Become

Finishe

APARTMENT HOUSES-For Sale, Exchange, Lease, War

FOR EXCHANGE

FOR EXCHANGE.

FOR EXCHANGE-

hes to exchange for Los Angeles income y. Write L. B. HOOPER, Escondido, Cal.

FOR EXCHANGE—

and the felephoning your bureau are be felephoning your bureau are beauties.

OR EXCHANGE - RES. WHITE WILL EXCOR EXCHANGE - RES. WHITE WILL EXCOR EXCHANGE - RES. WHITE WILL EXFOR EXCHANGE - I HAVE EXCHANGE TO
THE CORPETY, clay, suburban and country.

BUSINESS CHANCES—

prices: curser iii; will sacrifice fixture at any price; stock at invoice, about 19000. Cal 200 pt 19517A SLOCI.

A PARITY WITH $500 TO INVEST IN A CAPE; a head waiter or checker preferred; will pay it a head waiter or checker preferred; will pay good wasces every week and also a good per cent. The production was a series of the production with interest every week. Address the production was a product of the production with interest and production of the production of the production of the production of the production and control of the production of the production and production and production of the production of t

NYAC.

VAB SALE—GROCKRY AND MARKET APARTS ment house district, cheap rest, 8000 will seedis, owner going East reason for ediling; a man. Call S57882, REGADWAY 6854.

Bidg.

WANTED—WILL CONSIDER A BONA FIDE BURGBees proposition, principals only. State nature of bushness to full in dust letter. Address K.
box 87. THES OFFICE.

WANTED—BARBER SHOP AND CIGAR STAND in country. So agents. Address TF, box 78, THES OFFICE.

MONEY TO LOAN-

WE WILL MAKE CONSERVATIVE LOANS ON real estate in Los Angeles and vicinity up to $50,000, at moderate rates. We loan our own capital and well give prompt and courtsous attention to applications from owners.

WINTER INVESTMENT CO., WINTER INVESTMENT CO., BIGG. F3583.

LOIS, residences, apartments, stores, fats, ranches
IN SUMS OF SÃO TO SÃO 000, AND UP.

Cash fur far mortages,

Cash fur far mortages,

Residab building loans a specialir.

Listeriab building loans a specialir.

Listeriab building loans a specialir.

Commission charged on every bus.

COMMISSION CHARGE COMPANY

Washington Ridg.

Phone Main 3335.

MORITUAGES

MORITUAGES

MORITUAGES

AUGUSTA ANS

JULIANNO JOANS

JULIANNO JOANS

JULIANNO JOANS

JULIANNO JOANS

JULIANNO JOANS

JULIANNO JOANS

Main 4101.

Main 4101.

Phones: Home F19112.

WE ARE IN THE MARKET FOR APPLICAtions for first mortgage loans from $250,00.

SZE, JOO. city or country security, Building Joans to $290,000. Appl's acted upon immediately.

SZE J. R. STEWART.

JULIANNO JOANS AND GIVE PROMPT

and decisive sitemion to all matters presented

Attention of orincinal invited

Attention of orincinal invited

Attention of orincinal invited

AND SECOND MORTGAGE LOANS, waiting ERNEST R FAIR CO., 517 HIST AND SECOND MORTGAGE LOANS, Money waiting, ERNEST R. FAIR CO., 517 orant filler, Prigon.

S1000, $2500. $3000. $5000 AND $6000.
On improved city property, 7 per cent, 2804. P. R. FYARTS, 804 Van Nus, M. 280A.
PRIVATE MONEY, 558 TO T. CITY, COUNTRY B. W. Hellman Bille, ATTP: Main 5078. TO R. W. Hellman Bille, ATTP: Main 5078. TO LOAN WITHOUT COMMISSION, $2000. $1800. Times observed and the second statement of the country of the countr RICE.

ANY AMOUNT AT CURRENT RATES, CITY AND country, GREENE 222 Story, 61991, Main 2663. COURTY CHERNE 22 MINT OR COUNTRY.
WONEY TO LOAN ON CITY OR COUNTRY.
CHAS MASON. 706 Union oil Bidg.
Sixes, 825404 35600, 825 000 70 LOAN 7 PER cent. HARRY JACKINS, 616 Union oil Bidg.

MONEY TO LOAN-

MONEY TO LOAN-

LOANS OF ANY AMOUNT. 1% PER CENT.—1% PER CENT.—1% PER PER MONTH—NO OTHER CHANGES STRICTLY CONFIDENTIAL PRIVATE ROOM FOR LADIES.
REFERENCER
ANY BANK IN LOS ANGELES.

CUBEL LOAN CO. Established 14 years.

Evaluation of Loadies. OUR REFERENCES,

ANY CITY HANK OR JEWELRY VIRM.

ANY CITY HANK OR JEWELRY VIRM.

EVALUATION OF THE CONTROL OF THE LAWN OF THE LAWN OR SHOPE THE LAWN OR SHOPE THE LAWN OF THE

MONEY WANTED—
Real Estate and Collaterals

FOR SALE-

FOR SALE—
TAKE TIME BY THE FORELOCK."
TAKE TIME BY THE FORELOCK."

FOR SALE-SERIES WORTH OF NEW HARD-ware and farming implements at cost at SCOTTY'S PLACE, 135 South Los Argodes SR. FOR SALE — SAPES, SOLE DEALERS, HALL'S SPEALY SAPE (O. 2.2. HILL Terms or table FOR SALE-OFFICE MAPE IN PERPECT CON-COMMISSION OF SAPE IN PROPERTY OF SAPE

BILLIARD TABLES

FOR SALE—BILLARD TABLES, BRAND NEW, caron and pocket, with complete outfit, $115; second-hand tables it reduced gricus; berling allers and accessories; cigar stars, drug, delicatesses and accessories; cigar stars, delicatesses and accessories; logar stars, delicates and accessories in the star of the s

OR SALE—CONTENTS OF BEAUTIFUL HOME, furnishings 5 months old. Magnificent Circustan walnut see, mahogany pieces, dining set, acobean pieces, refrigerator, bed springs, Butterson. Turkish leather rooter, Kohler-Chase ST. W. Pico car. Beoderaft breakfast set. West Monto. 2178-WhileD GAK DINING AND Living room sets in leather, Dal2 French Willom and Asminister rugs, bird's eye maple and Circumsian valuat bedroom sets, disreport, drophend machine, clima case, high oven gas range. Pick BALE—ALADAM STURDAY, 10 O'CLOK. Pick Research, bridge buffer, box or reason of the control of th readstor that $200 will buy.

The readstor that $200 will buy.

An an 4179, or address is, box 11, TIMES

Sen Gabriel.

Sen Gabriel.

FUR SILE—1915 FORD, FULL EQUIPMENT AND

LIMICATINE TAXI, 104 MODEL BUT GOOD,

Address 7, box 517, THESE BRANCH OPPICE.

FOR SALE—FORD ROMERTER, ALL NEW AND

Command $25 ber month, 2053 E SEVENTH.

WANT CHEAP CAR FOR EQUIPMENT IN LOT AT

- benefit, belance on lot $1 ber week. Address
T box 52 TIMES BRANCH OPPICE.

FOR SALE—OLISMOBILES "S. NEW RIN MIN miles: must be seld at once for cash. Will New

The SER TIMES BRANCH OPPICE.

If AM OFFICIAL SOURCE OFFICE.

If AM OFFICE OFFICE.

If

THINGS ON WHEELS

. $780.00 . 700.00 . 650.00 . 550.00

1228 & Olive.

5 REG S-PASSENGER IN PERFECT SHAPE nechanically, 5 practically new tires; must

Secretary of the control of the cont

FOR BALL

EVENTS BRIEFLY TOLD

atriotic and memorial services be held tomorrow afternoon at clock in Patriotic Hall, No. 1816 in Figurea street. Dr. Willis Sapp will be the principal speak-

To celebrate the completion of buth Park puving and car line, a wn fete and baraar will be held South Park this afternoon and ening. There will be a band contra and a moonlight dance.

Right of Thirty Years' Use is a Condition.

preliminaria of Rose and Highland Park.

The committee in charge of the Igian Grand Prix completed its a resterday with the filing of a scial report showing that a total 15.814 had been received from the office time of tickets, and of this 311. Turned over to the Chamber maseres to be forwarded to adquarters of the Committee ief in Belgium. This branch work was in charge of Mrs. Danziger, Mrs. Willoughby Georges Puzeanot and a of Southern California

Preliminaria

BATTLE OVER BAIL.

Alleged Land Swindle old, After Attorneys dy Words—Hearing Set for Friday.

and swindler, appeared be-age Willis restorday he faced anded indictment covering punitted in the original, a of ball from $10,000 to $5000 Attorney Davis. Deputy Prose-or Kers objected on the ground

Out of Court. TIDELAND SUIT MAY BE SETTLED

City and Bannings are Near Island Peninsula.

dr. and Mrs. Jean de Chauvenet la present Mildred L. Downs, volist, and Mrs. Jean D. Moritz, miste, in recital, at the Conservay Auditorium, No. $45 South Figroa street, this afternoon at 3 lock. The public is invited.

Mormon Island Peninsula at the harbor will become the city's in fee. If a tentative agreement between the Banning interests and the Harbor Commission is made definite at a meeting which is expected to be held next week. Under its terms, the city will give the Bannings a permit to An afternoon concert vill be held at Eastlake Park.

An afternoon concert vill be held at Eastlake Park tomorrow at 2:20 oclock. There will be solos by Mme. Gloria Mayne, dramatic soprano. Other features will be solos by Frank King and songs by the Pettibohn's ragitme queens.

E.W.C.A. Demonstration.

A demonstration of the work accompilehable by the students for the peninsula.

Annual Picnic.

ployees of the Parmelee-DohrCompany will go to Hermoss, today for their annual picone of the features of the day to the first look at "The JesAnnual," a small magazine for and by the employees of
rm. and devoted to good-nafun at their expense.

In Postponed.

In days' postponement of the mat which residents in a portion of the northeastern of the city of Los Angeles will ma bond issue of $200,000
aztension of the city water to that section was anely esterday. The election held September 15. The teraffected includes Bairdstown, hale, Newton Park, Bierra
Sierra Vista, a part of Ross Garvanna and Highland Park,

TO RELEASE TAXES.

"As to Mormon Island, we do not know just what area it includes.

"Next Tuesday we expect to have a conference, and it may be the final conference, he said, but you ever can tell what will happen.

RANNINGS HOLD FEE.

"The Bammings hold in fee tideland No. 152, which includes Mormaken tidelands east of Wilmington havigation, whatever that right is.
The Bannings will deed this fee simple to the city and will be given a permay be necessary to develop slip
No. 3 in furtherance of commerce and mavigation. They can build on all may be necessary to develop slip
No. 3 in furtherance of commerce
and mavigation. They can build on all may be necessary to develop slip
No. 3 but will do so at their own risk. If we need alip No. 4 or the rest Tuesday we expect to have the final what will happen.

The Bammings hold in fee tideland No. 152, which includes Morthe Hamming hold in fee tideland No. 152, which includes work it is a conference, he said, but you have will make to said the may be to the city and will be given a permay the final nonmay be the final a conference, he said, but you will happen.

The Bammings hold in fee tideland No. 152, which includes MorThe Bammings hold in fee tideland No. 152, which includes will may be necessary to develop slip
No. 3 in furtherance of commerce
and mavigation. They can build on all may be resting the said of

St. Catherine's School, resident and day school preparing for the Marlborough and Giris' Collegiate schools, will reopen, as announced, on October 3, at Mrs. John D. Hooker's residence, No. 225 West Adams street, near the Grand avenue car line. The 'ftalian garden will afford ideal out-of-door schoolrooms and playsrounds for the school. Automobiles will convey pupils to the school playsrounds for the school. Automobiles will convey pupils to the school off deelred. Until September 1 Miss Thomas may be seen during the morning at No. 636 West Adams street. Telephones, 23209, West 4532.

"The fall rains are only six weeks AUCTION.

"The fall rains are only six weeks off. Roofs requiring recovering or repairs can be made watertight now cheaper and better than in the hurry of the wet season. "Weaver Roofing—made in white and colors—can be laid and guaranteed over old roofs, including shingles. Save money and annoyance by calling now for prompt full report on any roof in Los Angeles or Southern Celifornia." Phone F-2855 or Sunset Edway 784. Weaver Roof Company, Mfrs. 239-341 East Second street.

Miss Ida B. Lindley will reopen Marlborough Preparatory School, No. 626 West Adams street (opposite Chester place) Tuesday, September 12. Telephone 21574. The prin-cipal may be seen Mondays and Thursdays from 10 a.m. and 12 m. or by appointment at 2619 South Fig-ueroa street. Kathryn Montreville Cocke's School of Music reopens Tuesday, September 12, No. 2619 S. Figueroa street. Telephone 21574.

-and the Worst is Yet to Come

Myer Siegel & Co.

443-445-447 S. Broadway

Women's

Union Suits

Very good quality silk lisle union suits; also lisle thread in union suits; also liste thread in band top, styles. Two special

Auction Sale of Lots HERMOSA BEACH, Saturday, August 12th

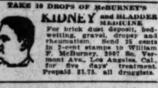

AUCTION Auction and Commission House General Auctioneer, Furniture, Merchandise, Fixture and Salestrooms, 112-114-116 Co (Battern String and Melical

REED & HAMMOND

Rhoades & Rhoades REAL ESTATE, LIVE STOCK. AND GENERAL AUCTIONEERS Guaranteed estimates on household turniture or bought outright for cash Balesroom 1501-3-5 South Main. Both phones—Main 1259; Home 25679.

THOS. B. CLARK

General Auctioneer and aporter of Antique Furniture 840 South Hill Street. Broadway 1921

A great variety of business chances, and almost every conceivable

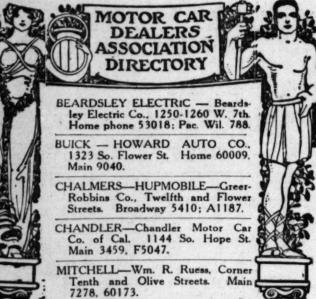

S815 Factory SAXON MOTOR SALES CO., 1155-1157 SOUTH OLIVE STREET. Saxon Factor $395

STEARNS

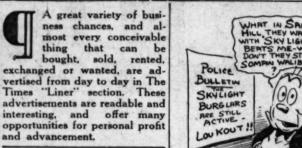

KNIGHT-TYPE MOTOR
LYNN C. BUXTON
Main 577 Pico at Olive

A DESIGNATION (SECURITY)

M. S. BULKLEY & CO.

MONTGOMERY BROS.,

two pairs of pants thrown in.

attend Brauer's Sale.

If you want REAL and TRULY reductions be sure to

$30 Suits, Now.....$24

$40 Suits, Now.....$29

$45 Suits, Now $34

Step lively if you want them

AK Brauer & co.

TWO SPRING ST. STORES 345-347 and 529-527%

Years of Optical Experience Our ability to correctly fit lenses to your eyes is based upon years of practical experience in

A careful examination discloses your needs and the lenses are determined by the results

We solicit your patronage and will advise you honestly.

Quality Opticians

35 12 12 5 20 5 20 5 EN 28

(81)

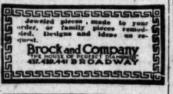

of the examination.

optical work.

ALFALFA Flory Hay and Grain Company

my advertisements.

Dent' Be Deceived

Be sure you are in the right office

A great variety of business chances, most every conceivable thing that can be bought, sold, rented, exchanged or wanted, are advertised from day to day in The Times "Liner" section. These most every conceivable advertisements are readable and interesting, and offer many opportunities for personal profit portunities for personal profit opportunities for p and advancement.

DR. FRANK C. CAMPBELL Painless Dentist.

Reasonable and Reliable. 437 South Broadway.

Phones: F7237; Main 6298. RUPTURE

"TIMES" CIRCULATION FOR THE MONTH OF JULY, 1916. OF CALIFORNIA, COUNTY OF LOS AND

July	1		188,2
July	2	(Sanday)	104.5:
July	8		68.2
July	4		665, 40
haly	5		626.22
July	6		455.18
Inty	7		63.0
July	8		665,20
Inty	9	(Sunday)
July	10		63.1
July	11
July	12
July	13	******************
July	14
July	15		62.8
July	16	(Sunday)
July	17
July	18
fuly	111		62.8
July	20
July	21
July	22
Freign	23	(Munday)
July	24		68.1
Inly	25
Inte	205		> 62.0
July	27
July	28		62.4
July	1259		62.8
July	30	(Sunday)	103.7
July	23		62.6
	-		-
A	erne	re for tvery day of July	00.5
Str	nda.	w only, average for July	104, 1
	-	HARRY (HANDLER,
		Assistant General Manage	r. The Times.

PREPARE

dozens of delightful beverages by mixing Clicquot Club Ginger Ale with any other drink where charged water might be used. Highly carbonated, deliciously flavored.

Buy it by the case, from grocer or druggist

The Clicquet Club Co. Millis, Mass.

Teeth $5.00-

My success has caused a number of denial concerns to copy my original advertisement.

—DON'T BE MISLED—
When coming to my office be sure you are in the right blace. Dr. Fairfield

CHICAGO AND EAST Through Salt Lake City LOS ANGELES LIMITED - 1:25 P.M.
PACIFIC LIMITED - 9:00 A.M.
OVERLAND EXPRESS - 8:00 P.M.
ORISENVATION, SLEEPING AND DINING CARS'
TICKETS AT 501 SOUTH SPRING STREET

WALTER E. SMITH CO.,

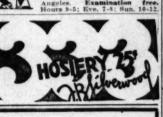

850 REWARD

Electric $195

Ply Co., 216 West Third St. Main 3462, F6427. For DRUNKENNESS AND ALL DRUG ADDICTIONS No sickness, no publicity. Ladies treated 'as privately as in their own homes. Send for free booklet. free booklet.
THE KEELEY INSTITUTE
2400 W. Pico St.
Los Angeles reatment

PRIVATE CLUB Meals and Room With Bath Only $12.50 per week. References required. Telephone 60743; East 2867.

DRS. SHORES & SHORES

"Listen to the Agent." Pacific Mutual Life Sixth and Olive Sts., L. A.

TIMES SHOTE CO. 642 Broadway, Opposite Bullock's

THE WEATHER.

MEXICANS FIGHT DUEL.

ILOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

VISALIA, Aug. 11.—Alone in a lark room in the bunk house on the bliss ranch near here, two Mexicans fought a duel in the early morning vesterday, with the result that Miguel Bargas is dead from a builet wound and Dominga Silva is at the point of death from knife gashes in half a dozen places on his body.

LITIE. Mr. and Mr. Ammunitation of the bunk of the large transfer of the large transfe

PERFECT FUNERALS ½ Trust Prices Understandable

That Godeau-Martinoni by manufacturing all casket and supplies do not have to pay all the middle profits and charge excessive prices to make a profit. Our manufacturer to consumer prices save you half the cost of any funeral, No funeral service superior either.

TELEPHONE Bdy, 2731; Home 53427 Godeau-Martinoni Funeral Directors

827 South Figueroa Street

No Extra charge for funeral in any part of Los Angeles County.

of all liquors, including bottled in bond brands.

Pure California Wines

$1.00 $1.50 $2.00

116 W. 6th St. Between Spring and Main, ½ block west of P. E. Station. Free Delivery erie 11 f (mmungjingenter is increasing and Mr. Leaf rust company ly-known fact the modern bu

VETERANS TO C

War Veterans

Local Beer Per dozen $1.10 Per dozen 75c of all liquors, includi bottled in bond brands. Subscribe to the San Francisco's Leading Daily and Sunday Paper. You cannot afford to overlook its special Sunday features, which teem with interest. Subscription and advertising rates given upon application to the Los Angeles representative of the Chron-

> F. A. TAYLOR, 340 So. Hill St.

VITAL B MARRIAGE I

OFFICIAL DEATE I

XXVIII YEAR REMENDOUS OF

> ense Gathering Ho Candidate for

GIVEN WII

-advancing South

AGNIFICENT gathering

THE KEYNOTE.

318-320-322 South Br

Specials—9 to 1 Sa ash Goods Ren HALF PRIC

Wash

Wash $495 $1.25 Ch Strow Ho lines in white P.K. lines and chambray; mer styles; sizes 10 black and c ean-up Cotton Eiderdo h Robe Blankets-Vals. to ts.....$1 $1.25 Sat.

eakfast Sets Speci

c Corset Cover En

A CONTRACTOR OF STATE OF STATE

Pictorial City Sheet (II.)

SATURDAY, AUGUST 12, 1916.—EDITORIAL SECTION.

POPULATION By the Poderal Consus (1910) - 518. By the City Directory (1916) - 538.8

318-320-322 South Broadway

Specials—9 to 1 Saturday

HALF PRICE

ash Goods Remnants

less yards in the lot; lengths from 1 to 7 yards; widths to mches.

See volles, skirtings, percales, dimities, ginghams, silk and cotton mixtures, batistes, organdies, to $8 $495 $1.25 Children's 50c

up Cotton Eiderdown $965 of Snest quality, size 72x90, containing ample mater-input people; browns, gray, blue and lavender in the 56.00—choice Saturday morning, $2.65.

tast Sets Special $2.50

his sets in crepe and striped Devonshire cloth; in contrasting colors—$2.50.

Corset Cover Emb. 35c

$1 $1.25 Satine $1 $1.25 Satine

ruffles and black satine.

-Black and white striped

Robe Blankets—Vals. to $6

-Smart little straws in white, black and color combinations; velvet and silk ribbon trimmed.

sense of responsibility to you, my neighbors here at home, that coming to you as a business man, coming among you, as you know, as a business man, entering political life at this time in the hope that service may be rendered. I am not unmindful that my recent experiences have brought me face to face with the pitfalls which beset any man or woman that enters political life anywhere.

"And an appreciation of this respect, this confidence, which this magnificent evening has shown to me, this magnificent gathering and this magnificent demonstration, coming, at it, does, from my friends of business thought and life and activity. I pledge to you upon my reputation as a business man in your community that I will never do anything in political life that will prevent me from looking you straight in the eye and meriting your respect wherever that may be tendered [Applause.]

FOR CLEAN GOVERNMENT.

to be Taken up Later.

MUST PASS ON

mes, a course opposed by the mastand taken by United States Dis-trict Engineer G. B. Pillsbury, Presi-dent Woodman of the Los Angeles

URNS TWENTY MILLIONS OVER DAM AT ONCE.

Having handled more than $20,003,000 during the fiscal year, which ended June 30, last, City Auditor Myers yesterday presented his annual statement of gross receipts and expenditures for the twelve months to the City Council

Gross receipts were $17,393,-125.29, which, added to the net cash balance brought forward from the previous year of $5,502,104.63, made a total of $22,895,329.92. The total of the gross demands entered was $14,891,706.33. The net cash balance on June 30 was $8,003,523.59.

Quick Action Imperative to Clinch Federal Aid.

Dominguez Project to Go on November Ballot.

Rest of Flood Control Plans

HIS PROMISES HIS NEMESIS:

Promoter of Globe Company is Three-time Loser.

Fifty Thousand 'n Safe, but no Money to Pay.

Witnesses Besiege Court for Chance to Testify.

third was in connection with public service enterprises, the total demands paid on that account being: $5,92,579.41. Highways came second, the demands entered for that department a mount ing to $22,454,832.99. Protection of life and property cost $2,238.559.56 and general government $643,236.48.

For recreation demands amounting to $320,832.97 were paid; charities and corrections, $22,925.51.7; education, not counting the expenditure by the Board of Education, not counting the expenditure by the Board of Education, not counting the expenditure by the Board of Education, 1922.452.452.93; private trust funds, $33,271.56; street lighting assessment, $123,91273; miscellaneous, $442,779.39; revenue funds, $13,035.212; interest and sinking funds, $2,837,171.59.

AFTER LONG ARSENCE.

Judge Bledsoe to be Home after Month in North.

United States District Judge Bledsoe will hold court in San Francisco today and dispose of some matters relating to the pending oil cases. He will then comback to Los Angeles, after more than a month spent in San Francisco and Portland, and will be in his chaimbers here all next week. However, there will be an occurt in list department until September 11, as there is no information to whether or not there will be any court beginning Monday. September 11, as there is no information to whether or not there will be any court beginning Monday. September 11, as there is no information to whether or not there will be any court beginning Monday. September 11, as there is no information to whether or not there will be any court beginning Monday. September 11, as there is no information to whether or not there will be any court beginning Monday. September 11, as there is no information to whether or not there will be any court beginning Monday. September 11, as there is no information to whether or not there will be any court beginning Monday. September 11, as there is no information to whether or not there will be any court beginning Monday. September 11, as there is no information to whether or not

At the speakers' table at the banquet in honor of Willis H. Booth, last evening. From left to right those in the picture are: Former Judge Walter Bordwell, who spoke on "A Senator from Southern California," Willis H. Booth, whose own subject was "Party Government," F. B. McComas, who introduced Mr. Booth, Stoddard Jess, toastmaster, Edwin A. Meserve, who spoke on "The Republican Party in California," L. D. Sale and Roy C. Seeley.

W. Wlackstone Co.

whose our subject was "Party Government," F. H. McComas, who introduced Mr. Booth, Stoddard Jess, to continue the property of the property of

Store Closes at 1 o'Clock Today Records

For Your

Diamond Disc

Nowon-Today

A complete stock—cool and inviting demonstrating parlors—eighteen of them—where you may sit in comfort and enjoy making your selection, and a salesforce that is thoroughly fa-miliar with the Edison catalog to assist you—are the logical reasons why the Southern California Music Co. is the ideal place to purchase your records.

Hear These New Ones

'Hilo March: Hawaiian Guitars" — Helen Louise and Palakiko Ferreira. Annie Laurie

"Praise Ye — Attila" — Soprano, Tenor and Baritone; Rappold,
Jorn and Middleton.
"Kangaroo Hop" — Fox
Trot, Xylophone—Lou
Chiha "Frisco."

-and many more equally as fine. Ask for supple-ment No. 60.

NEW EDISON Re-Creates Music

with such perfection that the Edison Re-Creation cannot be detected from the original.

Come to Us and Hear examples of this new art. Already there are more than one thousand different selections available and other selections are being issued Diamond Discs, $100 to $450. Diamond Point and Amberolas, $30, $50, $75. -Easy Terms-

FRANK J. HART
OUTHERN CALIFORNIA
MUSIC COMPANY
332-334 SOUTH BROADWAY, LOS ANGELES
Branches: Pasadena, Riverside, San Diego.

SPECIAL CARE FOR CHILDREN

Many Sunday-school Rooms in New Building.

West Side Christian Church Grows Rapidly.

What's Going on in Religious Fields Hereabouts.

having far outgrown its a is erecting a handsome h building, especially dehe architect, R. H. Walk-care of the large Sunwhich has increased 300 n the past two years. Itorium is 26x47 feet and years.

Bigger Building for Growing Flock.

Western-avenue Christian church and pastor. building, which is being erected on the church property at Western avenue and Thirtieth street, will be completed and dedicated the first Sunday in October. The corner-stone was laid last Sunday with the assistance of nine pastors of the denomination. Above is Rev. J. N. Smith, under whose guidance the church has been able to finance the new edifice.

NEW RECTOR Rev. J. Grattan Mythen has pted the call tendered him by Prisceton University and of the funion Theological Seminary of New York. He has studied in Berlin and at other European educational centers, and has received degrees from Dartmouth, Yale and Harvard. For several years he held the chair of Biblical literature in Dartmouth, and later held the professoranip of practical theology at Yale. In 1909 he was called to the pastorate of the historic Harvard Church at Brook-fine, Mass., where he has been since. He has been lecturer at Harvard and Andover, and is the author of several theological books. Dr. Vernon will preach tomorrow morning on The Common and Uncommon Courage of Jesus," and in the evening his subject will be on "Turning the PULPIT EXCHANGE. Dr. CAMPBELL IN NORTH.

Dr. Edward Campbell, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, is suchanging pulpits with Dr. John Tallmadge Bergen, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Minneapolis. Dr. Bergen, who has been here for two weeks, will give a children's ten-minute sermon temorrow meaning in the First Presbyterian.

BROUGHTON'S SERMONS.

of Dr.

a reuthor,
gh he te of the f New hall cenfrom tree

edness."

Dr. Winbigler, late of Washington, D. C., will preach at both morning and evening services tomorrow in Central Baptist Church, Alvarado and Pico streets. The church quartette will sing at both services.

Answer?"
"The Awakened Soul" will be Rev. J. M. Schaefle's sermon subject tomorrow morning in the Pico Heights Congregational Church. His evening subject will be "A Complete Surrender." At 3 o'clock Rev. Mr. Schaefle will preach in the Hyde Park Congregational Church on the Little State Parkunisam."

air service at the public camp illat allove "Teddy's Outpost" tomorrow morning. He will preach on "The Song of the Hills." All people in the arroyo at that time are invited to attend this service. This evening and tomorrow afternoon Mr. Shepard will give sacred dramatic readings, to which all are invited.

CHAUTAUQUA.

VENPER SERVICE TOMORROW.

The baccalaureate sermon at the Loug Beach Chautauqua Assembly will be preached tomorrow evening by Rew Henry Irving Rasmus. At the close of the sermon the vigil for the graduating class will be held at 4:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, and Prof. W. N. Mead will impersonate a Bible story.

The chorus will be led by Muss Bouthit.

Rev. James E. Enman will preach tomorrow morning in the East Consequence will be a union gospel service in this church in the evening, in which other East Side charches will participate.

Dr. D. M. Gandier will preach in the evening, in which other East Side charches will preach in the evening. In the evening she will be preached tomorrow worning. as the pastor, Dr. J. Clarence Pinkerton, is absent on his vacation. In the evening by Russ 4 the close of the sermon the vigil for the graduating class will be held at 4:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, and Prof. W. N. Mead will impersonate a Bible story.

The chorus will preach of the armorious at the Church, Ninth and Figueroa streets, Dr. D. M. Gandier will preach in the evening, in which other East Side charches will preach in the evening at the close of the sermon of the graduates of passing the Golden Gate and arches will be given by Jesse D. Burks of the municipal efficiency benefits of the graduates of passing the Golden Gate and arches will be given by Jesse D. Burks of the municipal efficiency benefits of the sermon of the street, Rev. Victor Brown will be given by Jesse D. Burks of the municipal efficiency benefits of the sermon of the sermon

Address, and all this action of states of the states of th

Promoter is Loser. Must Pass On Dam. | SUES FOR COMMISSION (Continued from First Page.) (Continued from First Page.)

nearly as costly as the present dredg-

BIBLE INSTITUTE AUDITORIUM. CHURCH OF THE OPEN DOOR

TOMORROW

Hear This Great Preacher

Next Wednesday Evening

China and Her Peculiar People

By Rev. Frank A. Kellar. Free Stereopticon Lecture

TEMPLE BAPTIST CHURCH

REV. J. WHITCOMB BROUGHER, D.D., Pastor.
11 a.m.—"THE KEY THAT UNLOCKS THE POWER-HOUSE," by the Great English-American Divine, LEN G. BROUGHTON.
ANTHEM—QUARTETTE—BASS SOLO.

turned from London. Topic, "THE UNPAINTABLE FACE."

ANTHEM by big vested choir.

TRIO-McDaniel, Laughlin and Bemus.

Dr. Campbell Coyle of H. GRATHASTINGS and GREATEST THING IN THE "My Task," by Parker. Therefore, and turned away.

FIRST PRESBYT

"God's Love and Grace as Manifested to Israel and the

3 P.M. "God's Faithfulness and Power as Manifested to Israel and the Church."

Evangelistic: "Three Old Questions and Their An-

During the whole course of a busy life I have always attended church services regularly. I know that as a Christian man I have needed by this attendance. I believe that all men, and young men especially, need the mental, moral and social upbuilding of the church service, each Sabbath, as well as the spiritual uplift. I most earnestly recommend to all-men that they make it their practice as In addition to this I believe that every man should be found each week in the Bible School of his church studying the Word of God was make it the guide and rule of his life.

C. H. PARSONS, Secy. Federation of State S.

clean out the silt and debris washed of the Mexican Petroleum Combant of San Pedro by the floods each season and we will never have known as the Agua Dulce tract, near

Trinity Auditorium

11:00 A.M.—"The Hand Rev. Charles C 7:30 P. M.—Great Choral Se

3 P. M.—"Melodies of the Millions"

ST. JAMES METHODIST

DR. ROBERT FRANCIS COYLE

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Ten Local Artists of Note Partic

Dr. Theodore Kemp will pres

3:30 P. M.—CORNER-STONE LAY

Sermon by Bishop A. W. Leonard, D.D.

DAY MORNING.

raters — Amusements — Ent THE BEST OF

Boxes, 75c. Except Holiday DORE KOSLOFF VLASTA M Concerts 2 and 8 p.m. Pathe Semi-"S BROADWAY THEATE NITA STEWART

FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH-Morning sermon by Dr. Charles R. Hudson of Evening sermon by Floyd John Evans, Union

LUTHERAN LUTHERAN OHIO SYNOD MISSION 1300 W. 8th St. Rev. A. C. Kieinie Morning (English.) "THE SIN OF INDIFFERENCE
AND BELIEF." Evening, confirmation and examination

HOME OF TRUTH CHRISTIAN MIND HEAL SUNDAY Services, 11 a.m., Brackett Hall, Brack-Shops Bidnear Grand. Subject. "ONE DAY WITH THE LORD." All Truth Chapel, services 8 p.m., 802 South Union Ava. Healings and Thursday, 8 p.m. Individual healing daily. Voluntary de-

CHURCH OF THE PEOPLE THE TWILIGHT OF THE GO Address by REYNOLD E. BLIGH 11 a.m., Church of the People, Blanchard Hall, 222 Prelude on the Threatened Railroad Strike, Musical profit

MISCELLANEOUS. CHURCH OF JESUS CHRIST OF LATTER Services every Sunday at 153 West Adams street; Sunday ment services, 11:30 a.m.; preaching services, 7:30 p.m. No collections. Take South Main or Grand avenue cars, GOSPEL TENT. Vermont Ave. and 37th Speakers, E. B. Roy and J. J. Rouse, Sunday, 1 p.m. AND WORK OF THE HOLY SPIRIT." 7:30 p.m., Specia

CONGREGATIONAL DR. AMBROSE W. VER "THE COMMON AND COURAGE OF JESU Tenor Solo—G, Hards

Milital Co 7:45 p.m.—"LINCOLN AND TOI PRETERS OF CHI REV WTHORACE DAY PLYMOUTH CONGREGATIONAL CH

INA CAVALIERI THE SILENT BA CHRISTIAN.

J. WARREN KERRIGAN and LO Mac Marsh "The Marriage of Molly-O'? 8 BROADWAY-OSITIVELY THE LAST of That Wonderful Photo ac Little Girl Nex

Starting Sunday, August 1 COLLIER JR., in "THE BU

TWENTY MINU AT VERNOR Heading a Big New Bill Jouley Lovely in "The Graft

Well Assessment of the second

ST 12, 1916.—[PA

rinity Auditorium

of Note Participate

np will preach the Devil?" Chance for Everybody."

ER-STONE L'AYING W. Leonard, D.D., L

COYLE HITERIAN

RIAN CHURCH CHURCH

ATIONAL CHURCH

CH-

RAN D MISSION

THE PEOPLE. LOF THE GODS

Ave. and 37th S Sunday, 2 p.m., Su 20 p.m., Special Co. Bible, Bring a friesd Tragic Peculiarity.

DEAD, TWO DYING, WO HURT, TWO JAILED.

Two of Long Series of Motor Accidents are to on Auto Stages Passing Through San Fer-Velley One of Those Held on Suspicion of her Says He will Commit Suicide.

we badly hurt
the City Jail taughter. Such sulfar statistics

PASSENGER RUN DOWN.

W. P. Blerna of Bakersfield was a passenger on an auto stage. He alighted from the stage on the San Fernando road and was struck by an automobile driven by J. L. Trenchart, No. 1523 West Eighth street. He was killed instantly and his body was taken to the John R. Paul morgue. Witnesses Jeclared Bierna stepped from in front of the stage directly into the path of Trenchart's machine. The accident was declared to be unavoidable. PASSENGER RUN DOWN.

SECOND STAGE ACCIDENT.

NIX ON THOSE NIGHT LIGHTS.

If anybody living within the city limits tries to fool hens into laying extra eggs and yesterday that night lights must be excluded from places where birds and beasts are are going all night, and this footed creatures of a portion

- Amusements - Entertainments

his skull and Then Samki's

THE BEST OF VAUDEVILLE 10-25-50-55c; Boxes, $1.00. Matinee at 2 DAILY, 10-25-50. Boxes, 75c. Except Holiday Matinees. E KOSLOFF VLASTA MASLOVA, with Russian Ballet and Kosloff Orchestra Tive Stages of Girlhood;" CIAIRE ROCHESTER, Soprano-ORRIS, Dance Creators, LEIPZIC, Card Expert; IMPERIAL, th Tang Cheong: KRAMER & MORTON, "Two Black Dots;" Sier, BETTY, Simian Pantomime.

rts 2 and 8 p.m. Pathe Semi-Weekly News Views. ROADWAY THEATER-833 S. Bdwy. DAT AND BUNDAY ONLY

TA STEWART IN "THE DARING OF DIANA." CAVALIERI IN "THE SHADOW OF HER PAST."

BROADWAY AT FIFTH

SILENT BATTLE" OF A MAN'S PIGHT FOR HIMSELF AND A GIRL, WITH ARREN KERRIGAN and LOIS WILSON

e Marsh Fay Tincher in "THE TWO

BROADWAY-528 S. Broadway TIVELY THE LAST WEEK

That Wonderful Photoplay Little Girl Next Door'

tarting Sunday, August 13th, LUER JR., in "THE BUGLE CALL"

> TWENTY MINUTES 10c AT VERNON

TITNEY BUS IS PROFIT-TAKER.

Pacific Electric Head Says Year's Deficit will be Nearly a Million.

With the testimony of President Shoup of the Pacific Electric that the railroad company will show a deficit of $820,000 for the year, due tion, Attorney Frank Karr closed the case for the com-pany Thursday before State Railroad Commissioner Gor-don in the matter of the road's tear up 600 feet of track on city limits and the Annandale

The Pacific Electric has competition to such an extent mona, Los Angeles Harbor and the San Bernardino district, although the Avenue 64 line is one of the first to be AMONG THE MUMMERS.

SHOW SHOP SPECIALS IN NEWS

Maryon Vadie, the Los Angeles girl who made at hit as a dancer at the Orpheum here last year, has returned to the vaudeville stage after a short absence, and is now appearing in a ballet entitled "The Poisoned Fountain," written by Sylvester Shaffer. A company of six assist Mile, Vadie.

Marjorie Davis, formerly of the Morosco company, will leave for New York tomorrow, where she will decide which one of two good offers she will accept to appear in new productions.

Reason, not Excuse.

Chappie Aveling and Al Lloyd, pariners on the Orpheum circuit, both presented themselves at the New York offices of Martin Beck, the other day, and asked for a raise of salary.

"I'm getting divorced," explained Lloyd, "and I need the money for counsel fees and alimony."

"I'm getting married to Fay Wallace," said Aveling, "and I need the money for a wedding trip."

Mary Servoss, leading woman e Morosco, has a keen desire ay a Russian woman. She r

The commission instructed inspectors to look into the complaint and to warn the proprietors of bird shops and places where animals and birds are kept that night lights should not be used.

Betty's Waterloo.

One of the tricks practiced by Betty, the performing monkey at the Orpheum, most amusing to herself, but not appreciated by the Orpheum stage crew, has been to climb and swing on the curtain should not be used.

INCOME DIVORCEE'S.

INCOME DIVORCEE'S.

One of the tricks practiced by the Orpheum most amusing to herself, but not appreciated by the Orpheum stage crew, has been to climb and swing on the curtain should not be used.

INCOME DIVORCEE'S.

October Who Won Decree on Ground of Cruelty will Give Her the Curtain proclivity have each performance. Vain efforts to cure Betty of this proclivity have falled, until yesterday, one bright member of the crew thought of greasing the rope.

Betty, all unconscious of the trick about to be pulled off, grabbed for the rope with a running leap, as usual—and sat down very hard and very suddenly on the floor. Puzzled but inquisitive, she made another, higher leap, and sat down still harder. Indignant now, she circled about the rope, and finally tried it a third time—still higher, with a still harder fall. Then she was cured, and last night she gave the greased rope a wide and dignified berth.

usual—and sat down very hard and very suddenly on the floor. Puzzled but inquisitive, she made another-higher leap, and sat down still harder. Indignant now, she circled about the rope, and finally tried it a third time—still higher, with a still harder fall. Then she was cured, and last night she gave the greased rope a wide and dignified berth.

Seeks Peace and Quiet.

Lee Kohlmar, who has just finished a short engagement at Universal City, where he appeared in several photoplays, has left the Coast for a ten weeks' engagement in London, at the Queen's Theater, where he will play the leading role in "Abe and Mawruss," sequel to "Pottash and Perlmutter."

Having worked under Henry Mac-Rae's direction in Wild West plays, Kohlmar says the war zone has no terrors for him.

Mrs. Adelaide Pottenger, who was distributed but received the trimand distributed to the instruction of the fund, which is to be created in five instalments of $8000 each.

The custody of the daughter was given to Mrs. Pottenger, the court providing that the children will be permitted to see their parents frequently.

Mrs. Adelaide Pottenger, who was attempted and the provide the terms of a property settlement approved by Judge Wood yesterday. She is to be paid $200 a month pending the terms of a property settlement approved by Judge Wood yesterday. She is to be paid $200 a month pending the terms of a property settlement approved by Judge Wood yesterday. The terms of a property settlement approved by Judge Wood yesterday. The terms of a property settlement approved by Judge Wood yesterday. The terms of a property settlement approved by Judge Wood yesterday. The terms of a property settlement approved by Judge Wood yesterday. The terms of a property settlement approved by Judge Wood yesterday. The terms of a property settlement approved by Judge Wood yesterday. The terms of a property settlement approved by Judge Wood yesterday. The terms of a property settlement approved by Judge Wood yesterday. The terms of a property settlement approved by J

DEATH SUMMONS MISSION PLAYER, STAGE VETERAN.

ter in the "Mission Play" at San Gabriel, died suddenly in San Francisco yesterday afternoon of apoplexy.

Mr. Osbourne was not only one of the best-known actors on the Pacific Coast, but also was one of the last of the original '49ers, having landed in San Francisco when a year old with his father. His real fame was George Gedge, his grandfather having been Admiral John Gedge of the British navy.

As a young man he studied mining engineering. About forty years ago James Keene, horseman and diancter, adwised him to become an actor, died several years ago. The aged thesplan had in his time played many parts. He began his carer on the stage in Virginia City. Nev. He was later, for twenty years, leading man of his own stock company in the old California and Aleadar theaters in San Francisco. He played with Maude Adams, Mme. Modjeska and other famous women of the stage, and was very highly regarded by them.

Mr. Osbourne had been engaged by them.

Mr. Osbourne several transcontinental and curopean tours. He played and other famous women of the stage, and was very highly regarded by them.

Mr. Osbourne leaves a widow, now residing in Fresno.

Mr. Osbourne, Jr., who was also an actor, died several years ago.

The aged thesplan had in his time played many parts. He began his carer on the stage in his own stock company in the old California and Aleadar and European tours. He played with Maude Adams, Mme. Modjeska and other famous women of the stage, and was very highly regarded by them.

Mr. Osbourne leaves a widow, now residing in Fresno.

Mr. Osbourne, Jr., who was also an actor, died several transco.

Mr. He was later, for twenty years, leading man of his own stock company in the old California and Aleadar and European tours. He played with Maude Adams, Mme. Modjeska and other famous women of the stage, and was very highly regarded by them.

Mr. Osbourne leaves a widow, provided the played many par

VIEWS WAR ON THREE FRONTS.

of Russians in Poland.

Believes Fighting May Go on Several Years.

Capt. Frank E. Kleinschmidt. retic explorer, big-game hunter hero of Carnegie Museum expeditions in Siberia and Africa, and who, as the invited guest of Archduke Frederick of Austria, passed nearly eighteen months with the Austro-German forces on three war fronts, arrived here yesterday from New York. He 's a guest at the Alexandria, en route to San Francisco.

delivering a series of striking blows during a grand offensive that may start at any time now and may paralyze the allies to the extent they will realize the futility of a war to the death and offer reasonable terms of peace."

Capt. Kleinschmidt is an American and lived in San Francisco many years.

Colors.

WEARS NEW UNIFORM.

Wounded British Soldiers Appear in London Streets in Brilliant Dress.

Wonnan Traveler Says Empire Has Many Men for Army.

A distinctive uniform of striking design recently has made its appearance on the streets of London, according to Mrs. H. I. Ballinger, who arrived at the Clark from that city yesterday. The uniform is worn by English soldiers recuperting from the monother recupering from the monother recupering from the monother innovation, according to Mrs. Ballinger, is the insign and for more properly to the greatest mount of possible from the trousers and jacket with glaring red trimmings and a large scarlet necktis.

Another innovation, according to Mrs. Ballinger, is the insign and more properly enough, a closer application is sliken colors above a golden crown.

Arrs. Ballinger, is the insign of honorable discharge for disability worn by English soldiers. It is a khaki band, worn on the left arm amputated, it is sewed to the left arm usually, but when the arm has been at Staines on the Thames, before they were sent back to the trenches. England has plenty of soldiers, she as says, as of the recently designated thirty-eight classes of married men only eighteen have been sent to the front.

Beautiful "Modjeska" summer restort now open, Excellent meals.—[Advertisement.

THREE FRONTS.

maintain that river navigable up to Yuma, and we do not do it, and we do not not intend to do it, because the water is more valuable for irrigation that it is for navigation. And we have a treaty obligation with our sister republic to the south to do just exactly that thing, and you know also in this same connection the Imperial Valley is threatened yearly from overflow, and you know the troubles that we have in that direction.

Active formation of the control of t

(Continued from First Page.)

(Continued from First Page.)

(Continued from First Page.)

maintain that river navigable up to Yuma, and we do not do it, and we do not intend to do it, because the water is more valuable for irrigation that it is for navigation. And we have a treaty obligation with our sister republic to the south to do just exactly that thing, and you know also in this same connection the Imperial Valley is threatened yearly from overflow, and you know the troubles that we have in that direction.

"All they can see in Washington and all we have been able in the main to get them to see was the fact the imperial valley is threatened yearly from overflow, and you know the troubles that we have in that direction.

"All they can see in Washington and all we have been able in the main to get them to see was the fact that it cost $100,000 to do a little work that we wanted to have done.
But we couldn't get them to see that they were saving $75,000,000 of assessed valuation when they did it.
"Now, the difference in judgment was the difference in business," ment was the difference in business, it the obligations of that valley, and I could tell you an important financial history and say to you right here that the courage and the manhood and the faithfulness of this sentleman right here (Mr. Jess) to the man r

BURBANK-BARGAIN MAT. TODAY & SUN. 10c to 50c. George M Coban's Famous Fun Show, with Percy Bronson, Edith Lyle and Great Cast. PD BIG WEEK BEGINS MON.

BROADWAYCONES!

S42 SO, MAIN ST.
FOX PHOTOPLAYS
Mutt & Jeff and Hearst ALHAMBRA— Theda Bara in "UNDER TWO FLAGS"

Napoleon and Sally comedy. Shows 11, 1, 5, 5 and 9 P. M.

SYMPHONY— in "THE CHILD OF DESTINY"

11 & BROADWAY. IN PIVE EXQUISITE ACTS. THIS WEEK. GARRICK- CHARLIE CHAPLIN IN "I A. M."

HARRY D. CAREY in "LOVE'S LARIAT" EMPRESS-340 South Paramount Produ MARGUERITE CLARK - Paramount Productions

IN HER BIGGEST SUCCESS, "SILKS AND SATINS."

DHILHARMONIC SEA: ON—Sieven Famous Artists, such as JOHN Marcor Famous Famo WYOODLEY Theater- SHOWS 11, 12:30,2.3:30,5.6:30.8.9:30

Marguerite Clark Lady Elleen. HIPPODROME ("COLLEGE GIRL FROLICS" ALL SHATE 7— BIG HEADLINE 7
Nights its 1 to 11 P. M.

DANTAGES-Matince 2:30 3 Shows Tonight 10, 20, 30c WASHINGTON BASE BALL PARK-PACIFIC COAST

VERNON vs. PORTLAND—Double Header Today

VISIT the Cawston Ostrich Farm, South Pasadena New open for visitors daily. See the baby estriches 500 estriches all sizes and ages. Round trip tickets. Including admission to Favm, can be purchased for 35e at F. E. Dopot or at our downlows stors, 723 South Broadway.

ter in the "Mission Play" at San

G EORGE OSBOURNE, 68 years old, who until last December production. During the summer months he retired to his ranch near Fresno. Mr. Osbourne leaves a widow

esmil) estiones

nes A, or the Associated Press. diange covered; Day, 22,000; Nig 500; words transmitted, 60,000, not including specials.

LOS ANGELES (Loce Ahng-hayl-ais)

FOR PRESIDENT Evans Hughes of New York FOR VICE-PRESIDENT ries Warren Fairbanks of Inc

TREND OF THE FINANCIAL NEWS.

regular, with a slight concession in Anregular, but coupon fours advanced.

The course of stock-trading prices indiated uncertainty prevailing in speculative oad:) In London money and dis-rates were quiet. American secu-were firm, but transactions were FURN OF BOB.

Senator La Follette has at last seen ight and for the first time in years has ded a Republican caucus. The Recans of Wisconsin and of the nation say to Bob: "Ah there, stay there; e content with a back seat!"

a own automobile recover damages sainst the proprietor of another auto who imped him over the front without making meelf a codefendant in the action? This gal conundrum will be determined by the

HE PUTURE OF CHET.

Let Chattering Chet not despair of ting employment for his pernicious acties. As hornblower for a clam peddler would be the right man in the right, e., for he could make a great noise even be didn't sell a clam. As barker for a sus side show he would be a ring-tailed rer, and he and Toopious, with arms and each other's necks, could pose be a movie apparatus as the Siamese as on a rampage.

Let Oregonians quench their thirst the grape juice, and Washingtonians be mient with ginger pop, and Arizonans not uench their thirst at all except with pure desparkling and more or less alkaline ater. Texas Democrats will have none teuch doings; their motto is— The Bourbon forever, hurrah, boys, hoo-

By a vote of 524 to 299 the Texas Demo-stic State Convention declared that the sate State would remain wet.

The intimation that American inter-desiring intervention in Mexico have fired border raids is what our trans-nite cousins were accustomed to call satly rot." "American interests" in do desire nothing more than the peace order and security for life and prop-which were afforded them under the of Porfirio Dias. With that they would have to transact business and devalor. prefer to transact business and develop their agricultural and grazing and manu-facturing and mining interests under Mex-ican than under United States rule.

BLACKINSTING THE SHIPS.

Britain has added to her blacklist 152, 666 tons of American steamers and sailing vessels, which she avers to be unavailable to British charterers, on the claim that they are now or have been engaged in unautical services.

Under the application of the law of re-torsion it is the right of the United States to make up a list of 150,000 tons of British steamers and ships which will not oe suf-fered to discharge cargoes on take on ear-goes at United States ports.

Will we do this? Not while Woodrow

FAMISHING FOR SUGAR.

Senator Vardaman of Mississippi is opposed to preparedness. He will not vote for "the building of battleships and equipment of armies that are not necessary, and furnishing markets for the output of the milis manufacturing munitions of war."

The Senator added that, even if he should agree to preparedness, he would be unwilling to raise the money for that purpose by putting a tax upon the sugar that goes into the laboring man's coffee or sweetens the milk that feeds the famishing babe."

That is giving a right reason, Vardy, for a wrong action. When the famishing babes of Mississippi, the hungry sucksters of your State, see you coming they will with one voice cry "goo goo."

Melbourne University has passed a resistion to encourage the teaching of the panese language in Australia. For Australia believes that Japan is destined to be one of the great powers of the near future, and incidentally one of the most important commercial markets. They feel that a element in Japanese success and quick rise in power and influence is their facility in acquiring the language of the country with which they covet business relations. Australia makes no secret of her intention to r trade with the Orient to her utter-capacity—and these United States t not find it amiss to follow her lead.

"It is our proudest boast, and no lying newspaper or crooked politician dare deny it, that every promise which we have made to the people of this State in the past six years has been fulfilled." This is a specimen paragraph from an address made by Gov. Johnson at San Bernardino on the night of August 2.

In his declaration that no "lying" newspaper or crooked politician dare deny it the Governor probably spoke the truth; for the lying newspaper which would dare deny it would be promptly cut off from the patronage of printing official advertising, and the crooked politician would be fired from his sinecure on the State pay roll without benefit of clergy. But there are independent newspapers whom neither the Governor's patronage could buy nor his threats and abuse intimidate that will dare to remind the Governor of not one but a dozen promises which he has made to the people and failed to fulfill, to wit:

Gov. Johnson promised six years ago to give to California an economical State administration, to reduce the cost of the State government by cutting out the waste. In 1911, the first year of the administration, the total cost of California government, according to the report of the State Controller, was $18,020,555. The government cost for California for the year 1915, as shown on page seven of the last report of State Controller John S. Chambers, was $36,529,593. The waste alone last year was nearly equal to the entire cost of government five years ago.

Gov. Johnson promised that efficiency should be the sole test in the selection of State employees. His record shows that every appointment to an office carrying more than a nominal saiary was dictated wholly by political reasons. The Governor asserted in his office in San Francisco in 1914, before men who are ready to make affidavit to the correctness of this statement, that he was appointing on the waterfront the men who had "delivered the goods." He appointed twenty-six members of the Legislature to saiarled places in return for votes for certain bills. These trades were the open gossip of the last legislative session. The Governor appointed a bartender as a deputy to enforce the childlabor law. He gave a place on the State waterfront as engineer to a man who had never attempted to run an engine, who has been drawing an engineer's salary for three years without ever touching an engine. He placed a union laundry wagon driver of San Francisco, who had voted right in the Legislature, in charge of the entire purchasing department for Folsom State Prison. He named a saloon roustabout as State parole officer. He fired honest and efficient State employees for the crime of not supporting politically the State administration.

He promised to make all the State of-fices nonpartisan.

He promised to give to the State rural credits legislation.

He promised to drive political parties from the State forever.

He promised legislation which would permit the State to loan its credit in support mit the State to loan its credit in support of certain reclamation projects.

He promised to overthrow the Republican party and to establish the national Progressive party on the Republican pedestal. It is true he attempted to fulfill the last five promises named, but he found the people had lost faith in his leadership and would not longer do his bidding.

He promised that he would be the Governor for the whole State, that North and South should be treated alike. Yet 85 per cent. of his State appointees are from Northern California and seven-eighths of the money raised for State purposes is spent north of Tehachepi.

These are just a few of the Governor's broken pledges; the list could be continued almost indefinitely.

MILITARY TRAINING WANTED. M A count of the ballots for national military training which appear every other day in The Times shows that 95 per cent. of the men and 79 per cent. of the women who sent in ballots up to August 1 are in favor of universal service.

Of the 973 ballots cast only eighty-two every man a soldier.

The result so far shows that the majority of the people are decidedly in favor of preparedness in its largest and best sense—but the comparatively few ballots also indicate that people are "too busy" to make known their sensiments.

dicate that people are "too busy" to make known their sentiments.

The ballots mailed to The Times are sent on to the Association for National Service at Washington and used as evidence with Congress that the people of this country do want national service—that they do want military training that will make good soldiers of civilians and enable them to defend their country in time of unavoidable war.

It is ancouraring and stimulating to receive letters such as E. F. Selleck of Santa ceive letters such as E. F. Selleck of Santa Monica wrote: "Please find inclosed the signatures of every member of my family as advocates of National Military Service. I regret my grandchildren have not reached the age to enable them to sign. Personally I have had thirteen years of military expe-rience, and though my age debars me, yet I am willing to give thirteen more. Sucess to the moveme

If a few hundred such letters, accompa If a few hundred such letters, accompa-nied by the signatures of every member of the family, were brought to the attention of Congressmen they would then understand that the movement for national training is not "publicity made"—but one supported and encouraged by earnest citizens. It is not enough that we have 25,000,000 patriotic men in the United States, most of whom would go to war if the occasion re-quired. We should have 25,000,000 trained be soldiers after the war started. The disgraceful feature of the present military condition is that we have fewer men in the army, regulars and militiamen included, than would be needed to defend the city of New York if it should be attacked by land. New York has almost as many policemen to preserve peace as we have regular sof-diers in the United States to repel an invader. New York's police often find them-selves helpless in a riot—and our army is maintained to face what is worse than any riot. Still many people do not awaken to the shameful inadequacy of our military strength; and there are other people who believe in preparedness, but are "too busy" to express themselves. Upon these is the burden of responsibility if Congress is not persuaded to pass measures that will give the United States full and complete pre-

The "Border [K] nights."

CRIMINAL ALLIANCE.

A Disclosures of the methods pursued by the San Francisco municipal authorities for the detection and punishment of malefacsuspects now under arrest for participation in the recent bomb outrage were placed two by two in adjoining cells and permitted to converse freely and secretly in the pris-

This was a partial payment by Sheriff Finn, the Progressive boss of San Francis-co's waterfront, for the support accorded to the Johnson administration in San Francisco. The Sheriff is discharging his obliga-tion and that of HIS BOSS to the union-labor despots; but how about his oath of office and his obligation to the city and to condoned because the perpetrators are branded with the union label?

Those four unionites now in the county prison under the care of Sheriff Finn have been identified as the persons directly con-nected with placing the bomb that slew tion of crime is to keep the suspects apart, not letting one know what others have been arrested or whether confessions have been secured. Ordinary vigilance on the part of the detectives assures this. But no effort, it seems, to enforce this isolation. For four days the prisoners bunked together. Nolan and Billings in one cell, Mooney and Weinberg in another. In the prison yard they met and conversed freely. only explanation vouchsafed at the prison convenience of visitors!

Dist.-Atty. Fickert said he had not heard that the prisoners were lodged together, but admitted that no orders had been given to keep them separate. He, too, seemed concerned chiefly that there should be no undue restraint on the prisoners. It is well to remember in this connection that the District Attorney has been elected twice as the union-labor nominee and that he has always received the indorsement of the notorious Labor Council to which three of the suspects were formerly delegates.

case continues without interference on the part of the police. One witness attended an Emma Goldman meeting for the purpose of seeking to identify a man whom he had seen acting queerly on the afternoon of the parade. He was waylaid on his way home, beaten senseless and left in the street for dead. Another witness was asafternoon; he was knocked down and kicked about like a dog and warned to "keep your trap closed." Yet the police have been unable to get track of any of these intimidation gangs of the union compromise, let us have industrial peace." ver since the first longshoremen's strike started. The Mayor is an ex-sailor him self, but a fair-weather seaman; he is fitted to pilot neither a vessel nor a municipality on stormy seas.

Never, perhaps, in the history of our American municipalities has there been a the part of a city or State administration in the time of a crisis. Little was expected of the State by the friends of law and orical pottage. State Labor Commissioner McLaughlin called upon the District Attor ney Friday afternoon, not for the purpose of tendering the aid of the State in the detection and punishment of the bomb-plot flends, but, in company with two other dele gates of the Labor Council, to intercede in behalf of the unionftes now under arrest. Little credit is due to the San Francisco police force that they were arrested; they were practically turned over to the police by private detectives who had them under surveillance for other dynamite outrages.

tions that the campaign for industrial free-dom has been launched in San Francisco by the Chamber of Commerce and its affil-ated organizations. There are strong, demittee of one hundred citizens, men big enough to lead the fight for the restoration of law and order and the protection of in-dependent workingmen; but they must not expect to clean such stables with a broom. Those shuffing politicians should be relegated to private life or driven wholly from the city.

NO HOLIDAYS FOR THE MUNITION

WORKERS.

A time-honored institution of Great Britain has been the bank holiday, coming four times a year, always on a Monday, ish workingman reserved his right to get as drunk as a lord. But the August bank holiday was "postponed" this year by act of Parliament, the Ministry of Munitions adamantly announcing that any cessation of output could not be considered.

Anyone who knows their England will realize the enormity of the decision. The bank holiday was more than an institu-tion; it was an irrevocable, inalienable right, the central date around which the year revolved. To abolish bank holiday s worse than abolishing the Sabbath. And indeed, the government dared not abolish it; they insist that it is merely postponed, suspended by royal proclamation, but accompanied by the Prime Minister's assurance that all postponed holidays be given in full "when military exigencies permit." One can imagine the revelry with which the British worker will celebrate that ac-cumulation of postponed holidays. Think what an accumulation of Fourth of Julys would mean to this country! Only by such a promise could revolution be averted. The mere hope of it should do much to San Francisco Haven for Anarchists.

[Oakland Tribune:] A few people have been taking account of the fact that San Francisco has become the haven of anarchists, but the general public had not specially noted it till the overt act of Saturday. They were aided in the awakening by the fact that McDevitt, the man who advised shooting paraders and at the Spreckels mass meeting talked of blood and a red flag in place of the Stars and Stripes, is a city official. And they then were able to realize that Emma Goldman is sojourning in this city and has been for some time. San Francisco Haven for Anarchists in this city and has been for some time, and that she was placarded along the route to speak immediately after Saturday's pa-rade. They now learn that "Dr." Reitman, Emma Goldman's assistant, recently arrived from New York; that Alexander Berkman has been here for a year publishing an anarchistic paper appropriately named the "Blast," that there are a number of "groups" that have been meeting regularly and whose meeting places have been well-known to the authorities. That all this could go on without interference and even without protest has without doubt established San Francisco as a fine place for the cult that is not allowed open propa-ganda in any other city.

HITS AND MISSES BY OTHER PAPERS.

The Russian Grand Duke.

[Washington Post:] If Grand Duke Nicholas wants a biblical al-lusion we offer the following: "His driving is like that of Jehu, the son of Nimshi, for he driveth furiously!"

Pork Patriotism in Mexico.

[San Francisco Chronicle:] Judging from the way those Mexicans switch from Villa to Carranza and back it must be true that the motto of most is: "We'll fight for who A Different Conception [Pittsburgh Dispatch:] The "con-temptible little English army" of the Kaiser's earlier view seems to be playing fifty-fifty with the Ger-man navy "rats" that Churchill was [Baltimore American:] A New York newspaper sneers that per-haps the next army bill will provide valets for members of the National Guard. Anyhow, the next adminis-tration will see that the soldlers are properly equipped.

Herolsm vs. Common Sense. [Springfield Republican:] The German captain who surrendered his company to the British as soon as his retreat had been cut off, for the reason that he thought he and his men would be of more use alive in Germany after the war than dead, disclosed the triumph of common sense over heroism.

Training That Pays.

[New York Sun:] In Germany the high school is termed gymna-sium; athletics are systematically taught, and no boy is excused extaught, and no boy is excused ex-cept on a physician's certificate. When a boy is taught to obey with-out question the command of his military officer as he already knows the necessity of obedience to his school teacher he will exhibit a greater capacity for good work in civil life or in the service of his Second Fiddle to Mexico Geoond Fiddle to Mexico.

[Boston Transcript:] The United States plays second fiddle to Mexico. Or at least Woodrow Wilson, as President of the United States, plays second fiddle to Venustano Carranza, First Chief of the Constitutional Revolutionists of Mexico. That inspiring state of affairs is the consummate fruit of the inept policy of meddling and muddling which Mr. Wilson strove to dignify with the name of "watchful wait-

Mr. Wilson's Weakness.

[Pittsburgh Gazette-Times:] The chief complaint against Mr. Wilson's handling of our foreign affairs is the just one that he has failed to uphold the United States. His course is responsible for the growth of what came to be known as hyphenation, condemned thing! and introduced into our politics a monstrous and inexcusable division of our citizenship. Happily that situation is passing with the knowledge that a divided allegiance is hated by Americans of whatever political faith and will not be tolerated. Our people and government must stand solely for the United States and that firmly. Mr. Wilson failed in this fundamental requirement. He gloried in discussion through the medium of soft phrases instead of resorting to vigorous expressions that would carry conviction of American determination to have its rights respected. He "hoped" and he "believed" when he have its rights respected. He "hoped" and he "believed" when he should have "demanded" and "in-sisted" and backed up his words.

The Deutschland's Glory.

[St. Louis Globe-Democrat:] The Deutschland has to run another North Sea blockade before unloading its contraband into hands hostile to those which have drawn a blockade not only against Germany, but against neutral nations. It is among the possibilities that it may fail. But winning three trials out of four already makes the cruise of the Deutschland a stupendous fact in ocean navigation; a marine chievement to move every fair, un can carry out such a hazardous en-terprise. Should the ship never get can carry out such a manufacture reprise. Should the ship never get back to German shores its crew have already set a high mark of skill and valor in marine emprise. The vessel has, in its remarkable record to date, written a promise of according revolution. coming revolution.

RIPPLING RHYMES.

I see the husky young man pass and mutter to myself, "Alas! How much I envy him! I'm bent beneath my weight of years, the finish to my view appears, while he has strength and vim." But when I've pondered things a while I reconstruct my faded smile and wear it on my face; I say, Youth has more grief than age, more worry, trouble, futile rage—I'd not, be in his place. I sit beneath my fig and vine, and sweet serenity is mine, naught can disturb my calm; extinguished are the fires that burned my heart in youth, my eyes are turned to Gilead, its balm. The smoothest girl in town may pass, the most resplendent, gorgeous lass, no rapture will she rouse; but that, young man I envied late will spend the night before her gate and fill the air with vows. He'll lose his sleep and appetite, and silly verses he'll redite on wedding hells intent; he'll intent. and mutter to myself, "Alas! How and appetite, and silly verses he'll indite on wedding bells intent; he'll roll she'll wed some other gent. Oh, youth is full of rage and pain, and only age is safe and sane, consoling and sublime; and so I sit beside my door and moralize an hour or more and have the blamedest time.

IDLE ENVY.

WALT MASON.

In 1937 the first batch of Charles Evans Smiths and Charles Warren Joneses will be voting the Repub-lican ticket.

OUR WAR STRENGTH.

BY ADAM T. GREEN,

In the awakening of the American people to the necessity for full military preparation to meet and overcome any eventualities that might be forced upon us from any quarter too much has been published in the great journals of the country, while they are demanding preparedness, and also said by speakers at banquets and other gatherings, of the assumed ease on which our eastern and western coasts could be invaded—our great cities bombarded, our treasuries looted, our navies destroyed by any foreign foe who, taking advantage of these public displays of supposed weakness, would attempt to attack the United States. people to the necessity for full mill displays of supposed weakness, would attempt to attack the United States.

In one of the able editorials of The Times upon this subject, urging every citizen to train for military service, it was said "that out of 10,000,000 of men in the United States, actually available and fully fit for fighting, we only have less than 250,000 with arms and with any training whatever."

This evidently applies to our regular army and National Guardsmen, all of them now under arms or in actual service.

In reply to an inquiry, the Adjutant-General of the army states "that it has recently been roughly estimated that there are, in civil life in the United States, approximately 230,000 men under 45 years of age who have had service in the regular army." This means that, with the number of troops now in service, there are 480,000 trained soldiers in this country.

In 1914 there were 31,000 students enrolled in the military departments of ninety-seven universities and military science and tactics."

Their reports to the government state that "forty of these were designated as distinguished colleges and honor schools where students have exhibited the greatest application and proficiency in military training and knowledge." Their reports for 1915 and 1916 will show a large increase in the number of these schools and of students under military training.

The University of California was last year classed as an "honor school," and there were then 1500 young men students under military training in that university.

A recent act of Congress to in-last year classed as an "honor school," and there were then 1500 young men students under military training in that university.

A recent act of Congress to increase the number of officers for the army authorized the President to select and commission a part of them from these military and honor schools.

Thus the total number of trained men in the army, in civil life and in colleges, as far as reported, is 512,000, "actually available and fully fit for fighting."

In addition to these American soldiers we have in our foreign-born citizens a great body of men who, under the rigid laws of their native countries, have been trained to arms for active service and would come to the defense of the flag of their adopted country now as rapidly as their fellow-nationals did in our Civil War.

At that time (the secords of the War Department show) 485,000 foreign-born citizens of the United States enlisted and fought in the Union armies, which then numbered 2,898,300 men, engaged during the four years of war.

In the armies of the Confederacy there were 1,234,000 men engaged.

Estimating at least 125,000 of those southern soldiers as men of foreign birth, who then were living in the South, it shows that we had 610,000 foreign-born citizens engaged in both armies during that conflict.

The population of the country was at that time 32,000,000. It is now

The population of the country was at that time 32,000,000. It is now 100,000,000.

To estimate only 10 per cent. of the "10,000,000 of men actually available and fully fit for fighting," as citizens of foreign birth, gives a force of 1,000,000 men, nearly all of whom have been tr their native lands.

their native lands.

The wonderful output of American factories now supplying Europe with arms and war material shows what the United States could do in equipping a vast army of our own in a time of threatened war.

Therefore, in time of emergency we could depend upon an army of at least 1,512,000 men already trained to take the field as quickly as they could be organized and equipped for

Nick Longworth new hat for every House Ways and that the Republican next House will is I was a member of he had the republican Neil House of alval sure thing. The is him. If, six months at out, Germany had ed and told Presid to the devil he putting the country of preparedness as to take the field as quickly as they could be organized and equipped for service when the country calls for them. And they will come.

The Times last summer stated that Maj.-Gen. Leonard Wood reported "that the United States had on hand at that time plenty of material for an army of 1,250,000 volunteers." We may safely expect that these army materials have been greatly increased in all classes since that time.

that time.

The census report of 1915 shows that in the United States there are 21,000,000 citizens of the military age—18 to 45 years.

Congress has heeded our demand for national preparedness, and the work has already begun, but, before it can be finished and the European conflict ended, events may compel the United States to enter the war in defense of our national rights and the honor of our flag.

Then, if war should come to us, the United States would have more than 1,500,000 men already trained for war, who, with the help of our navy, would hold and defend our eastern and western coasts from invasion by any foreign foe, while To the North, is East, to the
To the blue as all one color
To the poor ma rich men the
To the men e
men of the pin vasion by any foreign foe, while other millions of volunteers would be under training for service, in units, to take the field. If the United States would adopt a system for the military training of our young men, so ably advocated by Lieut. Gen. S. B. M. Young, as recently published in The Times, the problem of military preparedness would, in a large measure, be solved.

Here's a head wherever the May they lead by head and That the figures make up a a That the whole part is a part

The red and the ware but oos.
And the flass of dipped in the westering so.
No Touton so leans we.
[Massies]

It would be interesting to note how many Germans and Austrians are left after subtracting the number that have been killed, wounded or are missing or captured since the beginning of the war according to the date lines from pro-ally territory.

DEAD IN EAST. er Mayor Expresses Wish to be Buried Here.

FURDAY MORNING

The News

PASADENA MAN

Santa Fe Railroader also Passes Away.

Lknown Clubwoman Dies in the Crown City.

EENFIELD (III.) Aug. 11.
r Mayor R. L. Metcalf of Pas

The influx of

to rule. Even l

Kyle passed away at the home, No. 265 Center street, laws a sister, Mrs. C. H. Per-Pasadena, and a brother, C. Shards of Kenosha, Wis. She pars old and had been a story of Pasadena for thirty She was a member of the pare Club. Funeral services held at the family residence of clock Sunday afternoon.

TMAN PROPERT OVER BY MINE

is of Ficial announcement the belief to seem made relative to the whereby control of the seem made relative to the seem made relative to the seem made relative to the service control of the tom Rt. A consider the seem of the Tom Rt. A consider the seem of the Tom Rt. A consider the seem of the Tom Rt. A consider or has all or handle seem of the Tom Rt. A consider or has all or handle seem of the Tom Rt. A consider or has all or handle seem of the tom Rt. A consider or has all or handle seem of the Tom Rt. A consider or has all or handle seem of the Tom Rt. A consider or has all or handle seem of the Tom Rt. A consider or has all or handle seem of the Tom Rt. A consider or has all or handle seem of the Tom Rt. A consider or has all or handle seem of the tom Rt. A consider or has all or handle seem of handl anyside Gold Mines Comastry acres of ground adthe Telluride on the south, that is conceded by enginCatman Operators to be channel of the great vein

the commonly known as Reed, and United Eastern the Sunnyside property to give strong reason for adena since 1887, and Mra. era E. Kyle, widow of the late of S. Kyle, and an active club

Berman obtained his first apprience in 1867 on the central line. In 1871 he lo Chicago. He came to Callin 1886 and went to work Santa Fe in Pasadena Sept 26, 1887.

d Vista del Arroyo, Pasadena.

ADENA MAN

be Buried Here.

DEAD IN EAST.

Mayor Expresses Wish

Santa Fe Railroade

ST 12, 1916.

the Crown City.

nines.

cased man had long been sel figure in Illinois as well thern California. Years ago

MAN PROPERTY TAKEN OVER BY MINE LEADERS.

City employees by the dozen barrimasteriative to the masteriative to the masteriation to this sand the masteriation to the masteriation the masteriation to the
masteriation to the
masteriation to the masteriation to the masteriation t

injured Howard Smith, 13 years old

Young Smith was hit in the right

GIANT ATTIRED TO REVIVE INDIAN FAIR WITH LINGERIE. ON SABOBA RESERVATION.

e News From South of Tehachepi's Top

COLTON, Aug. 11.-Using ceedings were rudely inter-rupted by H. B. Day of the [LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SAN JACINTO, Aug. 11.—Supt. H.

SE. Wadsworth of the Saboba Indian Reservation, announces that the annual Indian fiesta and fair of the Saboba Indian Reservation, which was not held last year, will be resumed as a yearly event this year on September 16 to 21.

The secondary of the Interior, he states, to eliminate the gambling features which have been prominent in past celebrations, but to make the annual combination of fiests and rair a bigger and more attractive affair than sver.

An appropriation has been granted for prizes and the plans have been completed for the building of the big ramada, to have four entrances, and to be built of brush around a plaza. The Indian quarters around the four sides of the plaza provide rooms for the Indians visiting from the various tribes. There captures of all kinds will be exhibited for prizes and the plans have been completed for the building of the big ramada, to have four entrances, and to be built of brush around a plaza. The Indian quarters around the four sides of the plaza provide rooms for the Indians visiting from from Los Angeles and other cities of this end of the State.

Fullection.

FIGHT OVER WATER.

DESTROY DREAM STUFF. ompany to Establish Hydro-Electric Plant Opposed; Diversion of Creek's Flow is Issue.

The Fontana Power Company,

devertise—

Those continues of development in the delivery at the first and the cutton is such as the cutton i SOUTH PASADENA, Aug. 11.—In an effort to emulate the Grecian spear-throwers of ancient days, group of Y.M.C.A. boys painfully

Young Smith was hit in the right leg by a crudely-made spear which the youngsters were using to throw at a box on which the lad stood. The spearhead, whittled to rasor-like sharpness, penetrated the boy's leg for more than an inch. All the boys concerned in the accident leave for an outing at Catalina shortly, and it was to develop their ability as spear-throwers that caused young Smith's injury.

BIG TIDE SURGES AT LONG BEACH.

LONG BEACH, Aug. 11.-Pro naders were driven from the Walk

enaders were driven from the Walk of a Thousand Lights tonight by a surging high tide which flooded basements, tore out bulkheads and almost caused the loss of a life. The floods covered part of the ocean front amusement district for a time. It was the highest water of the present high tide, seven feet, three inches.

Several sections of the West Beach boulevard caved in, sightseers having narrow escapes from being injured. City employees by the dozen barricaded the municipal band stand with sand bags and worked hours strengthening the cement bulkhead. It withstood the battering strain of enormous breakers, which reached a height of twenty feet.

LIFE SAVED.

SALT LAKE EXTENSION.

Extravaganza dance and brilliant Red Cross ball at "Hotel del Coro-nado" tonight.—[Advertisement,

HARBOR OF LOS ANGELES,

Reamer Yowenite, Portland, loading, Reamer Celllo, Portland, loading, Reamer Raymond, William, loading, Reamer Baise, Matthews, Lordland, loading, Reamer Dais, Matthews, Eortland, loading, Reamer Lonis, Gray's Harbor, loading, Reamer Katherine, Eureka, sailed Aug, 8, Reamer Katherine, Eureka, sailed Aug, 8, Reamer Lanes & Higgins, Fort Bregg, sai

Way of New Line from Pico Through Fullerton to Ana-

Aug. 18—San Diego, Harvard. . Pacific Navigation
Aug. 18—San Francisco, Harvard Pacific Navigation
LOCAL CARRIERS.

Resoner for Catalina Island leaves San Pedro at 10 a.m. returning at 5-45 p.m.
Launches for Long Heach leave foot of Fifth street, San Pedro, hourly from 10 a.m. to f. p.m.
Ally, and until 1 p.m. sunders. Each for the freet, San Pedro, hourly from 10 a.m. to f. p.m.
Ally, and until 1 p.m. sunders. Each for the fally and until 1 p.m. sunders. Each for the fally and until 1 p.m. sunders. Each for the fally and foot of fifth street, fan Pedro, every half hour.

Resoner Multnomah, C. R. M. & Co.
Steamer Bairs Freenan, S. P. silp.

Resoner Reginaw, O. R. D. & W. Co.
Steamer Bairs Galler, M. & Co.

Steamer Rismath, C. R. M. & Co.

Steamer Bairs Galder, R. & Lin, COAFMISE CARGO CARRIERS.

Schooler Amile Larsen, Gray's Harbor, sailed

A clear saving of one-third on every waist you buy—and choice from plain, lace or embroidery trimmed styles of real merit at the higher price. Good assortment headwear!

splendid bargains for girls.

$1.50 Waists for

A Sale of Automobile Caps at 95c silk; no woman was ever offered prettier styles at so low a price, we are sure! Inexpensive Gowns and Envelope Chemise$1.25

Store Closes at One Today—Shop Early

THE CAFE will remain open until 2 o'clock for the convenience of business men and others in the habit of taking luncheon here. Entrance and exit after 1 o'clock will be through the B. F. Coulter Building, at 213 South Broadway-immediately adjoining the store on the north-direct

> Any Trimmed Hat in Stock $1.95 Choice now of any remaining summer hat in our stock at this very low figure; simply to quickly close them out. Included are any number of handsome creations, the trimmings alone of which would cost a great deal more than we ask now for the finished hat—and a long time ahead for wearing summer

Mohair middies with wide sports stripes; three-quarter sleeves; sizes 16 to 22;

Gowns in flesh colored mull and Seco silk; a good imitation of crepe de chine; very dainty, they wash well and are inexpensive; gowns, featherstitched in blue, $1,25; lace trimmed, hand embroidered, reg. $1.75, $1.25 and $1.50; Empire style, hand made kindergarten embroidery, regularly $2.50, now $1.75; with V-neck, Empire filet lace trimmed, regularly $3.50, now $2.25; V-neck, filet lace, wide sash ribbon run through picot eyelets, regularly $3, now $2.00. Envelope Chemise—in flesh colored mull and Seco silk; five styles on sale at $1.25; some were as high as $1.75 each. In Seco silk, Empire style; filet lace and wide ribbon trimming, regularly $3.75, now $2.50. In white crepe, envelope chemise and petticoats, $1.25. Cotton Crepe Gowns—a fine assortment in white or colors, $1 and $1.25.

75c Sports Suiting, All Colors, yard

the stripes that are most in demand; 36-inch goods, special, yard......

COULTER'S-215-229 South Broadway

elevator service to Cafe.

BOND ELECTION IS FORMALLY VOIDED.

ERROR IN DESCRIPTION HELD FATAL TO ORDINANCE.

Failure to Include Palms Precincts in District Created to Raise Punds for Purchase of Union Water Plant Destroys Effect of Vote, is Court's Ruling.

day by former Judge Robert M. Clarke.

The State alleged that Municipal Improvement District No. 1, created for the purpose of the bond issue, in fact never existed, for the reason that there were irregularities consisted in the fact that the ordinance calling the election in the district January 18, last, did not include all of the districts mentioned in the ordinance of intention. As a result the voters in The Palms district, precincts 521, 522 and 523, annexed to the city in June, 1915, and included in the improvement district, did not have an opportunity to vote.

After the bonds had been printed and after negotiations for the sale of the entire issue to a Chicago banking house had been concluded, the error was detected.

George W. F. Holliday, a Palms district property owner, started the first legal action. He sought to re-

George W. F. Holliday, a Palms district property owner, started the first legal action. He sought to restrain the issuing and sale of the bonds on the ground that if the bonds were issued they would be a lien on his property, whereas he did not have an opportunity to vote on the question.

Judge Wellborn heard both actions

Judge weinorn neard both actions yesterday and gave judgment for the plaintiffs, after the admission in open court by Special Counsel W. B. Mathews and Deputy City Attorney Whitehead as to the mistake in the escription of the territory

INJURED MAN DIES.

INJURED MAN DIES, [LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

COVINA, Aug. 11.—George Anderson, a prominent orange grower and manager of the Covina Citrus Association, the largest orange packing establishment in the San Gabriel Valley, died early this morning at the Seaside Hospital, Long Beach, as a result of injuries which he received by being struck by his own machine in a Long Beach garage, on Tuesday. Following the accident the injured man never regained consciousness.

HIGH-CLASS MEAL [LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]
SOUTH PASADENA, Aug. 11.—
Some thief has enjoyed a really high-class chicken dinner with a money value of about two-bits a mouthful. H. M. Bradbury of No. 624 Grand avenue, reports the loss of eight blooded chickens worth in excess of $60. The cheapest fowl in the lot is valued at $5.

Summer season at its height at lotel del Coronado.—[Advertise-

Boys', Misses' and Children's Accumulated stock broken lines that are worth and Slippers 95c Misses' Shoes . $1.25

2 to 3 times the price asked in the sale for Saturday.

Boys' Shoes and Slippers .. $1.45 Boys' Shoes Harris & Frank 437-443 SOUTH SPRING SE. Known for Better Values.

Avoid the Rush

The Twin Palaces of the Pacific. S.S. Great Northern. S.S. Northern Pacific. 10:30 A.M.—Sailings—Pier 9

Every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, Between San Francisco and Portland,
Same time as by rail, Berth and Meals Includent First Class, $20.00; 1 rist, $15.00; Steerage, $8.00. Round Trip—Portland, $32, $35. Seattle, $40.00. kane, $54.40, $57.40. and Spring St., Los Angeles, in 7963. Home F5076

Only 8 More Dates For Eastern Excursions

August 24-25-28-29. Sept. 7-8-12-13 will wind up the selling dates this year. If you intend taking advantage of the reduced fares to eastern cities, better

Reserve Sleeper Now for the journey in our Los Angeles Limited or Pacific Limited trains, which run solid daily to Chicago via Salt Lake City and Omaha. Round trip fares are low, and return limit October 31. Get full particulars at any ticket office.

Salt Lake Route and Union Pacific Los Angeles Offices 501-503 So. Spring St.

IN SAN FRANCISCO.

IBT A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]
ANCISCO, Ang. 11.—Following re ranges today on the San Bond Exchange:

PRICE RANGE INDICATES SPECULATIVE CONFUSION.

Firm Opening Quotations Give Way to General Recession Before Midday, and Later Movement Becomes More Irregular, Rails, as Well as Specialties, Pursuing Opposite Directions-Bond's Erratic.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

AT HOME AND ABROAD.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 11.—Mex-can oblara, 51%; drafta, sight, par; irafta, telegraph, 14. LONDON MONEY MARKET.

INY ATLANTIC CAME AND A. P.]
LONDON, Aug. 11.—Bar silv
$1%d per ounce; money, 4% per ce Money and discount rates were qu prices in today's trading instated rather plainly the uny and confusion prevalent in live circles. Opening prices

1. strong, these giving way NEW YORK BURRAU OF THE TIMES, Aug. 11,-Following is comparison of today's stock and bond sales: THE MONEY MARKET [FY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—Mercantile paper, 3%; sterling, sixty day bills,
4.71½; demand, 4.75%; cables, 4.76
7-16; bar sliver, 66½; Mexican dollars, 51; government bonds steady, railroad bonds, irregular; time loans,
firm, sixty days, offered at 3; 90 days, 5½; six months, 3%; day, call money, steady, high, 2½; low, 2½;
ruling rate, 2½; lost loan, 2½; closing bid, 2½; offered at 2½.

DRAFTS AND SILVER.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

STOCK QUOTATIONS

LATEST QUOTATIONS.

(BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCR.)

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Aug. 11.—Prime western spelter, East St. Louis, is offered for prompt delivery at 74, 68%; for August at 8%; for September at 8%;
for October, 8, and for November and December at 7% a pound. Quicksilver is quoted at 75.00 bid, par silver, in London, 31%d, unchanged; in New York, 68%, unchanged; Mexican doilars, 51, asked 55.

LEAD AND COPPER.

int A. P. NIGHT WIRE.

FINANCIAL. STUCKS AND BONDS

Large Turnover. TEAVY TRADING ON LOCAL EXCHANGE

IN DEMAND.

LOCAL CLOSING. STOCK QUOTATIONS

NEVADA MINING SALES AND RANGE.

PSY A. P. NIGHT WIRE. 1 ANCISCO, Aug. 11.—Pollowin

82.00

.01 .01 .01 .01

BANK CLEARINGS

FOR THE WEEK. INT DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE PUSPATCH I NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Aug. AL—Bank clearings in the United States for the week ending August 10, as reported to Bradstreet's

TATHEAT IS LOWER DESPITE UPTURNS.

TO CANADIAN CROP. Uncertainty Prevails in Pit for Greater Part of Day and is Re-flected in Range of Prices-Welcome Rains Ease Corn and Oats Weaken with Other Cereals. merous upturns the wheat market to-day averaged lower, influenced to a considerable extent by assemtions black rust danger in Saskatchewan might not prove so serious as many traders had been led to believe. The close was weak, ½ to 1½ down. with September at 1.43½ and December at 1.463½ 1.47. Corn showed ½ @1½ net decline, and oats a loss of 4 @1½. Provisions finished unchanged to 25 lower. Uncertainty as to the Canadian crop outlook prevailed in the wheat pit the greater part of the day. Welcome rains eased down corp. Oats weakened with other cereall. Free realizing by holders had a depressing effect on provisions, especially in lard. The market, however, was partly upheld by the unusual high prices on live hogs.

COOLER WEATHER HELD AII

CLOSING FIGURES.

CLOSING FIGURES. CLOSING FIGURES.
Wheat, September, 1.43%; December, 1.45%. Corn. September, 83%; December, 70%. Oats, September, 43%; December, 45%. Pork, September, 26.47; December, 23.15. Lard, September, 13.42; October, 13.47. Vabs, September, 14.20; October, 13.87. CASH PRICES.

OUTSIDE GRAIN MARKETS.
Duluth—Close: Wheat, September, 1.49%; December, 1.40; May, 1.53.
Winnipeg—Close: Wheat, October, 1.49%; December, 1.46%; May, 1.59%, Oata, October, 2.60.
Kansas City—Close: Wheat, September, 1.85%; December, 1.48%; May, 1.45%, Corn, September, 1.81%; December, 1.48%; May, 1.45%, Corn, September, 1.48%; May, 1.45%, Corn, September, 1.42%; December, 1.46%; May, 7.51%, Corn, September, 1.46%; May, 1.51%, Corn, September, 1.51%, Corn, September, 1.51%; Corn, September, 1.51%; Corn, September, 1.51%; December, 1.40%; May, 1.52%; May, 1.52%, Minneapolis—Close: Wheat, September, 1.49%; May, 1.52%; December, 1.49%; May, 1.52%, PORTLAND MARKET.

PORTLAND MARKET. PORTLAND MARKET.

FORTLAND (Or.) Aug. 11.—Wheat, strong, no trading; spot bids unchanged to 2 higher. Bluestem, 1.17; fortyfold, 1.14½; club, 1.12½; Red Fife, 1.13; Red Russian, 1.12.

SAN FRANCISCO MARKET.

EVA P. NIOST WIRET.

[PY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 11.—Wheat, teady, no trading. Barley, firm; December, 1.63; May, 1.68% asked. Afternoon session: Wheat, steady, no rading. Barley, firm; December, 63%: May 1.69

PRICES ON LOCAL GRAIN EXCHANGE.

These quotations are in car lot

STOCK PRICES ON CHICAGO EXCHANGE.

OATMAN STOCKS IN SAN FRANCISCO.

LIVE STOCK MARKET AT VARIOUS CENTERS.

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.)

CHICAGO, Aug. 11. — Hogs, receipts 15,000; unsettled, 10 to 15 above yesterday's average; bulk, 10.10@10.65; light, 10.10@10.75; mixed, 9.90 @10.75; heavy, 9.75@10.75; rough, 9.75@9.95; pigs, 8.40@9.90. Cattle, ecceipts 2000; steady; native beef cattle, 6.90@10.60; western steers, 6.65@8.60; stockers and feeders, 5.00@7.85; cbws and heifers, 3.50@9.25; calves, 9.00@12.65. Sheep, receipts 7000; weak; wethers, 6.60@8.50; lambs, 7.40 @11.25.

KANSAS CITY MARKET. BANSAS CITY MARKET.

[BY A. P. Night Wine.]

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 11.—Cattle, recipts 1000, steady to weak; prime ed steers, 9.25@ 10.25; dressed-beef teers, 7.00@9.00; western steers, 6.50@ 98.75; cows, 4.50@7.25; helfers, 6.00@9.50; stockers and feeders, 6.00@7.55; bulls, 6.25@6.50; calves, 6.50@ 1.00.

DULLS AND SHORTS GIVE PRICES BOOST.

OLDERS OF LONG CONTRACTS DISCOURAGED, HOWEVER.

Outside Buying Becomes More Negligible as Session Advances, Resulting in Lowered Range. Weather a Little More Favoral in Eastern Part of Belt.

TIMES, Aug. 11.—The early better-ment in prices was due chiefly to realizing by shorts and rather active efforts of some of the local buils. Outside buying, however, was of a negligible quantity, and the failure of the mensurate with the world.

Liverpool cables, due 6 lewer on October, January and March, 5% lower on May, came 1% lower on January, and 1 lower on January, and 1 lower on March. Spots were not surprise easter; sales, 6000 bales;

LISTED NEW YORK BOND QUOTATIONS

Adantic Cone. Line 4s.

Raltimore & Ohio Conv. 4\footnote{s}_s.

Raltimore & Ohio Conv. 4\footnote{s}_s.

Rathichem Race! Sa Ref. Da California Gas Sa Rechichem Steel Sa Rechichem Steel Sa Rechichem Steel Ref. Da California Gas Sa Chenayenke & Ohio Conv. 4\footnote{s}_s.

Chenayenke & Ohio Conv. 4\footnote{s}_s.

Chicago, Ruriington & Quincy Joint 4s.

Chicago, Ruriington & Quincy Joint 4s.

Chicago, Ruriington & St. Prull 4s.

Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Deb. 5s.

Eric Cour. 4s "j"

Hudson Manhattan Adj. 5s

International Faper 5s.

Lake Success 4s.

Mondana Power 5s

New York Central 5s. "W. L".

New York Central 5s. "W. L".

New York New Haren 6s.

New York Railway Adj. 5s.

Ponnsylvaria 4s

Futtlern Pacific Conv. 4s.

Suttlern Railway 5s.

Form Pacific Conv. 4s.

Futtlern Pacific Conv. 4s.

Futtlern Pacific Conv. 4s.

Futtlern Pacific Ss.

Suttlern Railway 5s.

Form Pacific Conv. 4s.

Futtlern Pacific Conv. 4s.

Suttlern Railway 6s.

Futtlern Pacific Conv. 4s.

Futtl

RAW AND REFINED

SUGAR QUOTATIONS. TBY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]
YORK, Aug. 11.—Raw sugar, 5.77; molasses, 5.00, Befined,
td, 7.26.

Schools and Colleges

YALE SCHOOL

PRICES IN BOSTON

RANGE OF STOCK

STOCK QUOTATIONS.

. M. CLIFFORD

To Real Estate R. A. ROWAN

E. F. HUTTON & C

118 WEST FOURTH STREET

Private Wires Coast to Coast and All Southern Pain B. E. BURNS, Manager

Wm. R. Staats Co. MENICIPAL AND BO LOGAN & BRYAN

SHORFRS—STOCKS, BONDS, GRAIN, PROVISIONS, COTTON a blers All Leading Exchanges. LOS ANGELES OFFICE, 210 W. Sunset Main 5416 $5 Bankers Bond and Mortgage Comp.
Washington Building

J. J. Doran Company Citizens Nat. Bank Bldg. Members L.A. F

Schools and Colleges.

The Deane School Santa Barb

An Outdoor

School for Young Boys

Sand Botton

Prepares boys from eiffiteen years of age for the college preparatory school country. Graduates now of ing their studies in St. Thatchers, Andover, and Continuous outdoor life. baseball, riding, the entire Catalogue on application.

ST. ELIZABETH'S SCHOOL

GIRLS' COLLEGIATE SCHOOL

TATH YEAR
California, Stanford, Smith, Wellesley, Cornell, etc. Eighth General Courses in Business, Cooking, Ses Standardized Music Methods. Department of Expression and Interfor Lilian Burkhart Goldsmith. Miss

CUMNOCK SCHOOL

HOLLMAN BUSINESS COL

DR. HUTCHASON

COATS FOR ALL OUT-DOOR WEAR FOR MEN GOODYEAR CO., New Location 454 South Broadway

A Company of the Company of the Company

URDAY MORNING Jusiness

AL PRODUCE MARKET

BUTTER AND EGG OUOTATIONS

12, 1016.-[PART siness Page:

Abroad LOSING PRICES ON

TH STREET

DEALESS IN BON SENICIPAL AND BON CORPORATION SECURITIES OF TRANSPORTERS OF TRA

BRYAN

npany Members L.

AR FOR MEN & R CO.,

ASON

Citrus Fruits, Butter and Eggs-Current Trade-Local Produce Market. pany:) Following are prices, Za.b. DAILY EASTERN CITRUS to 1200 lbs., 75,67 9-10; seconds, 79 7 4-10; thin, 46,44; No. 1 fed cows MARKET QUOTATIONS.

Arab, S.B. Ex.
Pup
Black Hawk, A.H. Ex.
Paim Tree

EGGS IRREGULAR.

ted plates, 11; smoked jowis, 12; seca, 30.

LESH FISH — (Wholesale price pound; barracuda, 9; halibut, 0; rock ced, 597; rock bass, 69 and daba, 5910; saimon, 10,918; teral, 56; smelt, 8910; tuna, rp, 6; cockels, 7; bonits, 9; blue, 1, 7; sols, 8; mussels, 5; smoked ore, 12%; smoked enimon, 18; a solid, bulk oysters, 1.59 a red; quart oysters, 6.50 cos.; ornia cysters, 50 a hundred; lob-24997; scallops, 5.00 a gallon; ros, 30; whitebalt, 15,20; on trout, 25,927; yellowtail, 69; cked shrimps, 50; striped bass, 24,000. BUTTER IS FIRM; [BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE,]
NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—Butter, firm, receipts 10,136. Eggs, irregular, receipts 15,637. Cheese, firm; receipts 5170. CHICAGO MARKET.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Aug. 11.—Butter, higher, creamery, 25% 25. Eggs, receipts 7642 cases, unchanged.

UNLISTED BOND PRICES.

Cincinnati Market.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPAT
CINCINNATI, Aug. 11.—Market doing valencias; weaker on lemons account of

[BY DIRECT WIRE-EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.] (BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCE CLEVELAND, Aug. 11.—Three cars sold. Met firm on Valencias, weaker on lemous.

VALENCIAS.

A. N.W.B. Selected, V.C.-Ex.

mere marine of putter of control of the control of Judge Finlayson yesterday sustained the demurrer of the city of Los Angeles to the suit of Charles Seyler, Jr., to recover from the city license taxes paid under protest, under the ordinance providing for an occupation license. Mr. Seyler is assignee of local insurance agents who paid the tax, which covers a period of about three and a half years. During that time 521 payments were made.

The city contended that no cause of action was stated. Judge Finlayson held that the payments were involuntary for the reason that the ordinance expressly declares the agents could not carry on business unless the tax was paid.

The city also raised the question of the statute of limitations. The court found that of the 521 payment of 286 was not demanded until more than two years after the date of payment to the city. As to these causes of action the court held that the statute of limitations ran and the agents could not recover.

Grafonola Prices $15 to $20 If Satisfied THE ZELLNER PIANO CO. 808 So. Broadwa A great variety of business chances, and almost every conceivable thing that can be bought, sold, rented, exchanged or wanted, are advertised from day to day in The Times "Liner" section. advertisements are readable and interesting, and offer many opportunities for personal proht GOVERNMENT CROP REPORT.

TRIAL

State: August 1 condition 87, compared with the ten-year average of 96 United States: August 1 condition 82.3, compared with the ten-year 85.7. ORANGES.

98, compared with the ten-year average ondition 84.4, compared with the ten-year

Do You Know That August and September Are Most Delightful Months to Visit Chicago, the Eastern Cities and the Seaside and Mountain Resorts?

Go and enjoy the cool breezes of the Great Lakes and the Atlantic.

Low Round Trip Fares

Salt Lake Route Union Pacific System Chicago & North Western Ry.

More miles of double track than any other transcontinental line. Automatic electric safety signals all the way.

Los Angeles Limited

Lv. Los Angeles 1:25 p. m. daily Ar. Chicago 11:30 a. m. 3d day

Finest equipment. Fastest time. You arrive in the new Chicago Passenger terminal.

For full information and particulars apply to C. A. THURSTON, General Agent 507 S. Spring Street (Tel. F5184 and Main 628)

San Diego Exposition $4.00 round trip today

Main 8225

E. W. McGee, Gen'l Agt. 334 South Spring Street Phone Service Day or Night Main 738 Santa Fe Station

A5130

Good until Aug. 21

Another Number Ready.

The Los Angeles Times

Illustrated Weekly Magazine

Some of the Contents of this -Week's Number.

Romance of Early-Day Gold Mining. By Frank G. Carpenter.

Foreign and Domestic Fiscal Affairs.
Compiled from "The Americas."

Acquisition of the Danish West Indies.

By a Special Contributor.

Beating the Band.
By Eugene Brown.

The Down Gentleman and the Out Lady. By Mark Harmon

A Woman Warned. By F. Roney Weir.

The Wavering of Her Mental Attitude. By Monica Francis.

Laura Takes a Hand in Devel-

House-Boating, in Southern California. By Henry P. Combs.

Why the Film Went Into the Discard. By Owen Rhoades. The Saving Power of the Gentle

Muse. By Myrtle Danielson.

How Squirks Beat the Inte Revenue Officers. By Lemuel Lawrence De Bra-

Exhibiting Poultry East of the Great Divide.

By Henry W. Kruckeberg.

So Very Simple. By Glenn H. Wichman.

The Trail Which Was Too Well Marked. By Jessica Bird.

> It Got Away. By Mark Harmon,

The Noisy North. By a Special Contributor Some Old-time Campaigning

Methods. By Edgar White The Married Life of Helen and Warren. By Mabel Herbert Urner.

Care of the Body—Good Short Stories
—The Eagle—The Lancer—California Land of the Sun—"Home, Sweet Home"—The City and Home Beautiful—Poetry, Humor, Current Cartoons, Etc.

Big and Beautiful Halftone Illustrations.

Ready for Readers Saturday

BIG UNION OIL TRIAL CLOSES.

on New Legal Points.

will Give His Finding Facts this Morning.

Cause will be Held Open ding Developments,

ON NEGRO EDUCATION.

heme will be Subject of Meetings in Local Church Tomorrow, The African Methodist Episcopal this church is organized. Special services in this connection will be held in the Los Argeles church, both morning and evening.

The African Methodist Episcopal Church maintains treated to the control of the control Confessed "Skylight Burglar

Church maintains twenty-five schools and colleges in which all branches of educational work are taught and in which academic courses are offered as well as theolog-morrow will be for the purpose of especially attracting attentions to these educational institutions.

D ESENTS EFFORTS TO BOSS OFFICE.

The search of the first of the region of the region of the first of the region of

FACES PRISON.

HELPS OTHERS.

Does Kindly Act. Preparing Defense, He will Talk no More.

Neither Wife nor Accomplices

ilved a life of superficial spiendor in a downtown hotel, shed his pose of mystery and reticence yesterday. As a clerk might open his desk in the morning to proceed with the routine matters of the day, John Morgan went actively and decisively about his business of preparing for/the penitertiary or winning a release.

Behind him was the tension of interogation. "I'm through, boya," he said to the detectives. "You might as well talk to yourselves as to come falking to me." Then he was through, with a remark he had other things to consider. He summoned an a sent and arranged for forwarding $25 to the wife of a brother in the East. She is about to become a mother, and Morgan thought of her. With his life a wreck before him and the outline of prison walls siready solidifying in his vision. He arranged for his clothing, his laundry and little details of his personal life.

GOSSIPS TELL TALES.
As soon as the day came yester and the cliff of the personal she had been in the city began trickling to police headquarters, is to the had been in the city began trickling to police headquarters, is to the had been in the city began trickling to police headquarters, is to the had been in the city began trickling to police headquarters, is to the had been in the city began trickling to police headquarters, is to the had been in the city began trickling to police headquarters, is to the had been in the city began trickling to police headquarters, is to the had been in the city began trickling to police headquarters, is to the had been in the city began trickling to police headquarters, is to the had been in the city began trickling to police headquarters, is to the had been in the city began trickling to police headquarters, is to the had been in the city began trickling to police headquarters, is to the had been in the city began trickling to police headquarters, is to the had been in the city began trickling to police headquarters, is to the had been in the city began trickling to police headquarters, is to the had been in the

CUT FREIGHT SCHEDULE.

The Public Service.

BETTER TAKE ALL

EFFICIENCY BOARD SENDS ITS

Abolish Commission Rather than Deprive it of Properly Qualified Director, is its Opinion—Budget Message to City Council Again street. From Hill street to Figueroa street.

City Engineer Hamiin was instructed by the Council yesterday to establish grade and curb lines on Ninth street from the east side of the river to Soto street in anticipation of a subway under the railway track crossing Soto street.
The City Council has instructed the Board of Public Utilities to request the extension of the 5-cent car fare-service to the Eagle Rock city limits.

CCHOOL TRUSTEES THAN CHOP HEAD. ORDERED TO ANSWER

RULING IN HAWTHORNE CASE

Resident of District Charges Of-ficial Misconduct and Neglect of Duty, Asking for Removal of Two Men—Suit Said to be After-

VENICE RECALL ISSUE.

A mandamus suit to compel C.
Y. Burns, City Clerk of Venice, to certify to the sufficiency of petitions for the recall of J. J. Lewis and Carlos L. Smart, and asking for an election for their successors, was filed by William E. Beecham, a taxpayer of Venice, yesterday, through Attorney Roy A. Linn. It is alleged that City Clerk Burns has refused and neglected to certify to the sufficiency of the petitions.

The recall petitions were filed with the City Clerk June 28 last. The Lewis petition contained 572 names of electors and the Smart petition 595 names, which is said to be more than the required 25 per

Like Buckskin"

Few indeed are the

WASN'T FREE.

WASN'T FREE.

MARRIAGE ANNULLED.

When he discovered, July 30 last, that a final decree had not been entered in the divorce suit of his former wife, Katherine G. Youns, Thomas W. Young ceased to live with his second wife, Inez Hogue Young, and yesterday he filed suit to annul the latter marriage.

He margied Katherine G. Young January 23, 1912. She was granted an interfocutory decree, and believing that the final decree had been entered, Mr. Young married linez Hogue at Riverbank, July 7, 1915.

IN AND OUT ABOUT THE COURTS.

WOMAN TO TELL ALL?

ing Opium Traffic in City Ex-pected as Result of Clews Furnished Federal Au-thorities by Women.

ABOUT THE COURTS.

NEEDS GUARDIAN. At the age of $5 years and with a life estate of $259 acres in Ventura county. Nancy L. Crowley requires a competent person to look after her property. Yesterday her daughters. Nannie B. Hutchins and Cora E. Cumpton, petitioned the probate court asking that the former be appointed Mrs. Crowley's guardian.

INCORPORATIONS. The Progressive Education Association, incorporators; J. D. Gordon, W. H. Rogier, C. A. Spera-bass, A. Lively, Store Open Till One o'Clock Today A BUSY HALF DAY

-All purchases made before the store closes today will be delivered vicity delivery boundaries today—to suburban points Monday.

Bakery Goods -Baked by Hamburger Bakers in the great, white, sanitary Hamburger Ovens-Streusel Coffee Cake, 10c each.

-Almond Filled Coffee Cake, 25c

each.
—Coffee Rings, 10c each.
—Kranz Keuchen Coffee Cake, 25c

each.

—Peach Cake, 10c each.

—Cheese Cake, 10c each.

—German Apple Cake, 10c each.

—Layer Cakes, assorted, 35c each.

—Angel Food and Sunshine Cakes, 35c each.

—Angel Food Cakes, 15c each.

—Home-made Bread, 10c loaf.

—Vienna Rolls, 10c dozen.

—Home-made Cookies, 10c dozen.

—Home-made Bismarcks, 20c doz.

(Hamburger's—Main Floor—Today)

Pure Candies

Maple Walnut Nougat, 24c lb Sturdy Oxford Bags, $3.50

—Made of black Keratol, walrus grain; cloth lined; double-sewed edges, reinforced with sewed-on corners; 16 and 17-in. sizes, $3.50.

(Hamburger's—Fourth Floor—Today)

Freshly Dressed Hens 59c

Knitted Bathing Suits $3.95

Sand Toys for Little

With the second of the second

THE

Chinese Dragon that Comes from Its Lair in Los Angeles on Festive Occasions.

A Shady Pool on the San Gabriel River.

tion to the

? Pages

These Roses N

We desire to call your attention to the fact that the present is a most proposed time for the planting of all Roses. Set out now you can depend on a splendid display of blooms during the months of October and November. The plants will become firmly established, and in a condition to receive the full benefit of the Winter rains, which means a magnificent show in the Spring of the coming year. The quality of our stock is too well known to require comment. The plants are heavy two year old balled stock, guaranteed to grow: guaranteed true to prove quaranteed to give satisfaction. grow: guaranteed true to name: guaranteed to be the best of their respective colors in commerce today; guaranteed to give satisfaction.

Prices include delivery to any point in Los Angeles or suburbs within the radius of our delivery system. These points include Glendale. Pasadena, Sierra Madre, Alhambra, San Gabriel, Whittier, Beverly and Hollywood.

Price of any of the following magnificent varieties:—

Each 50c—Per Dozen $5.00—6 Plants $2.50

You may make your selection from amongst the following:-

CAROLINE TENTOLT—Silvery pink.
MAD. CECIL BRUNNER—Baby rose Pink.
CLARA WATSON—Shell pink.
COUNTESS OF GOSFORD—Bright satiny FLORENCE PEMBERTON-White, gver-

FRANZ DEEGAN—Deep rich vellow.
FRANZ DEEGAN—Deep rich vellow.
FRAI KARL DRINGHISKI—Pure white
GEN. McARTHIR—Hright red.
GRINS AN TEPLITZ—Dark red.
HARRY KIRK—Grange vellow.
HIGH DICKSON—Dark red.
JOS. HILL—Copper and Salmon.

J. B. CLARK—Crimson.
KAISERIN AUGUSTA VICTOBIA—Pure white LADY BATTERSEA—Cherry crimson,
MY MARYLAND—Soft pink,
MRS. JOHN LAING—Shell pink,
MARIE VAN HOUTTE—Vellow, MAD, LEON PAIN—Salmon pink, MRS, A. R. WADDELL—Copper and Salmon,

MILDRED GRANT-Light pink.
MRS. AARON WARD-Indian yellow.
MARY, COUNTESS OF ILCHESTER-Rosy MAD. CONSTANTE SOUPERT-Yellow MAD, SEGOND WEBER—Salmon pink.
MAD, ABEL CHATENAY—Salmon.
PINK KILLARNEY—Pink.
PRINCE OF BULGARIE—Salmon and

PAUL NEYRON—Deep rose.
PRESIDENT CARNOT—Light salmon pink.
PINK COCHET—Deep rose.
PHARISAER—Salmon.
PEACE—Lemon yellow RG—Cream
PERLE VON GODESBURG—Cream
PERLE POR—Copper yellow.
ULRICH BRUNNER—Cherry red.
WHITE KILLARNEY—White.
WH. SHEAN—Deep rose.
WHITE COCHET—White tinted pisk.

WINNIE DAVIS-12 Fine Climbing Roses ROLINE TESTOUT—Light pink CIL BRUNNER—Salmon pink, ANCIS CROUSSE—Rich crimson, ENRIETTA—red, AISERIN—Pure white, GONTIER—Rosy carmine,

ESS DE AUERSTADT—Deep yellow. ALLEN RICHARDSON—Orange yel-

INVITATIO

We extend to all of our customers an invitation to visit our nurseries and trial grounds at Montebello. At the present time the fields are a wealth of color. Our fine strains of Zinnias, Asters and other seasonable plants are now at the height of their glory. If you have under consideration the addition of any plants to your garden a visit to our nurseries will more than repay you. You will gain ideas which will be of service to you in attaining the best results. A visit to our grounds will prove an object lesson of what may be accomplished in the scientific culture of flowers and plants. Open Sundays. Everybody welcome.

A Message From Our Floral Department

When in need of cut flowers, floral designs, wedding decorations, etc., our florist department is at your service. The enormous increase in volume of this department of our business bespeaks the satisfaction given to our customers. We make a specialty of shipping to distant points: By skillful packing our goods reach the most distant points in a fresh and crisp condition. Do not hesitate to write, telephone or telegraph us your wants.

9# & OLIVE STS LOS ANGE NURSERIES . MAIN 1745 - 10957

ABSOLUTELY PURE

but keeping it PURE after leaving our hands

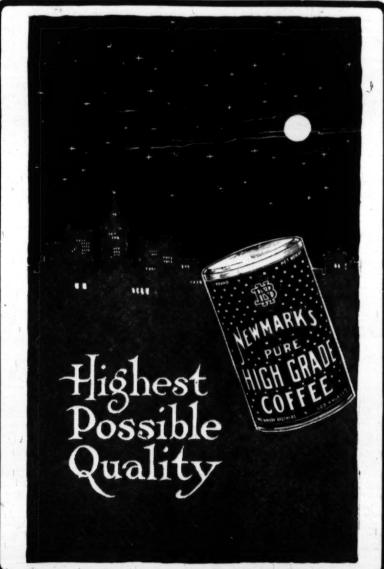

Therefore Do Your Share By Refusing

Substitutes

SEND THEM BACK Substitution is an insult to your intelligence.

Sammon

President rePresident rePr

32 igh Pros-Visit to a in the first the confermanagers had of the Comtand Conciliaterefore up to a to make, a proposition as represed arbitas that they managers had o arbitrate to Secure that I pass on it.

The proposed of the conference of the mediation pp. Judge Wilad G. W. W.
nded meeting nagers at the noon, but the recede from as announced at they would agree tomoration of their n try-to bring ne whole connanagers had o arbitrate to 'Secure that' il pass on it.' try to secure r us by 10 niag."

IPLAINS. ained that the the railroads a rights and railroad emlargers of d concessions you owned a vanted you to whether or d Mr. Garretannagers want tration things for for thirty Carrying Water Up to Acoma.

· 194]

THE COUNTRY.

Y BENIN AND ECONOMICAL WIFE FROM

Saturday, August 12, 1916.]

So Very Simple.

BE GLENN H. WICHMAN.

consummate charm and grace that Jasper obvious truth, and she did it with such presently he began dabbling in a small way, and with corresponding success.

"One must have money to keep things coing, Jasper, dear." Mrs. Fairfax found many "one to "opeat this perfectly and she also did it with such de mysteries of the stock exchange and

and intormed poor, dear,

she wanted him

CONTINUED FROM PAGE FOURTEEN, CONTINUED FROM PAGE TWENTY-ONE

islands. Fact No. 2 is that the people want ceremony to the telltale saddle and the Trail was Too Well Marked.

Los Angeles Times

capture, that they intended to hang him.

Willis doubted, for the first time since his canyon to the almost treeless settlement,

As each moment took them farther down the tinued their ride, silently, toward the town.

horses started onward.

The man was surprised when they con-

Danish West Indies.

their mother country a handsome revenue.

They, especially St. Thomas, once afforded

But why was Denmark so anxious to get

HIS NUMBER

No Longer Profitable.

to belong to the United States.

INDEX T	O CONTENTS OF T
The Eagle The Lancer California, Alluring Land of the Sun	Acquisition of Danish West Indies Laura Takes a Mand is Developments Laura Takes a Mand is Developments Good Short Stories in Migh Sheeras Houseboating in Southern California The Saving Power of the Gentle Muse The Trail Which Was Too Well Marked Why the Film Went Into the Discard

GOOD LITTLE POEMS.

The Worshipper.

Ever have I been a worshipper Of all the changing gods. Strange beings in the twilight have I honored, earth.

To Ra have I given glory in the sunlight, And praised him in the waters of the Nile. On the peaks and in the deep caverns of Asia I have bowed before the Dragon of the Sun And Siva sitting in darkness.

Yea, when the waters lay deep upon the con- Fishin' for pick'rel-deathless charm! tinents

I worshipped Ea in Eridu;

And with the sunrise kneeled to Shamash in Sippara.

To Oannes, rising amid the islands of the

Have I made obeisance;

And bowed down before Baal in Babylon.

Before Assur have I borne fire and water: And lifted the Serpent in the wilderness, Following Jehovah.

By winding rivers and by inland seas of the Kassites Have I adored their strange gods;

And have come up out of long darkness singing of Pharamond.

I have heaped the red fires of Moloch in the And razed them for the shrines of the White

Yea, I have chanted with the abbots in Appenzell.

Britain and in Staffa have I builded sanctuaries; And have vanished with the Druids of Stone henge And their beacon lights upon the Celtic hills.

Amid far waters I planted the True Cross beneath the palm trees And held the crucifix to the lips of Monte

By the long waves on a frozen shore

I sought the liberty of God, singing His mercies. And now in these last days, Behold, I fling His banner to the stars, Giving glory unto the highest, World without end!

-[M. E. Buehler, in New York Sun.

The Babytown Express.

There are trains that roar and rumble at the call of human stress, But the fastest and the gladdest is the Babytown Express.

couldn't count the miles, For the track is made of fancy and the ties are laid in smiles.

The good old backwoods pasture gate is train and engine, too,

With Bud, on top, as engineer, to make the But my foundations still remain inflexibly choo-choo-choo!

Collecting hugs and kisses from the ones who have to pay. And sometimes, in a merry mood, she stops Like continental tides they lash against my the train and then Goes round among the passengers and takes To the fares again.

It's funny how the tourists, too, are willing that she should.

Because it takes a lot of fares to make the service good.

The Babytown Express makes stops to Of Jasons who adventured o'er the hungry

It waits at Cookie Station and at Noodles-in-

The noon stop's Milk-and-Crackers and again at half past four It halts at Bread-and-Jelly, nearest point to Kitchendoor. The day's last stop is Twilight, where the evening shadows fall—

Then they tumble in the sleeper—train crew, passengers and all. -[Indianapolis News.

"Fishin' for Pick'rel."

Breezes sleep, and the sun glares hot; Locusts rasp in the pasture lot; But by the pond, where the lilies float From the offshore end of the homemade boat, Dangling legs o'er the queer blunt bow Still for once in his life, I vow!-Wielding the bamboo pole with care, Whose remembrance has vanished from the Fishin' for pick'rel, the king sits there.

> Little he recks how great his wealth Boyhood and time and sunburned health, Sitting there on the old scow's seat, Ripples kissing his dust-brown feet; The spattering splash of his luckless frog, Lately caught on a near-by log, The only sound in the noonday calm;

Would that men from the busy street, Worn of mind and with weary feet, Longing for solace, only knew Nature's tonic! I'm glad I do: Open air, 'neath a cloudless sky Pond, with weeds, where the "big ones" Bamboo pole with a ten-foot string Fishin' for pick'rel-like the king! -[Harold Willard Gleason, in Youth's Companion.

Silver Sickle.

Silver sickle of the sky, Tell the sowers what you reap, What is garnered up on high.

Do the seeds that in us lie Blossom on the cloudland steep, Silver sickle of the sky?

Yearnings vain we thought must die Out of sight and buried deep, What is garnered up on high?

Do their beauties yonder heap, Silver sickle of the sky? When your blade shall by and by

Here unseen of any eye

Through the ripened glory sweep What is garnered up on high? We who sow all vainly cry

For the harvest which you keep, Silver sickle of the sky, What is garnered up on high? -[McLandburgh Wilson, in New York Sun, Rocky Mountain Range.

The Netherlands build high their dykes to breast the scourging scud, Cherbourg, her massive bulwarks to stem the virile main: But I resist the prairie-lands which smite me like a flood-I am the bronzed breakwater of the oceanic

It runs from Dawn to Twilight and you The storms blow from the prairies-strive to flay me and consume bare my granite bosom, to prohe my adamantine bulkheads, they are white with foam and spum

Big Sis, the sweet conductor, takes the The plains from hot horizons and from hasins far and strange eak like a pampas-surf in whispers blurred and bold;

Frontal Range, tear away my flesh and bare my skeleton of gold.

fonely prairie-beaches are bestrewn with silent graves,

And many a shattered Argosy lies stranded on the shore

To seek the Eleece which Stratton found deep buried in my ore.

[H. G. Barnett in-Countryside Magazine.

[Judge:] An old railroad man sat with a friend on a hotel plazza as a string of chappies went by in their flashy togs.

friend. "Empties," said the old man.

HUMOR.

21

[Chicago Journal:] "Any sharks around

"Not in the water," answered the other guest, with a significant glance around.

[Pittsburgh Post:] "I fear that Algernon does not really care for me."
"Why, you got a letter today, girlie."

"Yes, but he only wrote eighteen pages." [New York Sun:] Knicker: A defeat is when the enemy drives you back home Outlate: Or else when you don't dare to go home.

[Puck:] Skinner: I have nothing but praise for the new minister. So I noticed when the plate came around.

a man's golf.

[Judge:] "I knew your grandfather," be- limping ever since. gan the bore, "when-

"Haven't you got over it yet?" snarled Cyrus K. Savage.

[Pittsburgh Post:]. "I'm thinking of investing some money in musical comedy. silverware for the officers' mess.' Just getting a few facts."

What you need is some figures.

charging an account to profit and loss?" "The word profit in that phrase," said the head book-keeper, "is sarcasm."

[Judge:] Bogey: Do you think that golf a fishing in his mother's pail.
terferes with business? "Not so simple at that," declared the amainterferes with business?
Green: No, but business raises hob with [Pittsburgh Post:] "She knows how to make a short suit count." ing bridge.

[Chicago Journal:] "I live in the country."
"Do you provide railroad fare?" asked the prospective cook.

[Kansas City Journal:] "I'm not happy in everybody." unless I have an engagement every evening. "Me too; with a couple of broken engage ments to patch up the next day. (Puck:] Visitor: So there was a big crowd out to see the circus parade?

Uncle Eben: Yes, it was quite a novelty. Most every other parade you see nowadays passes a bundle of cancelled checks."

is in the nature of a protest agin something. [Louisville Courier-Journal:] "You can't altruist?"

order me around." declared the new sales-"I take orders from nobody."

"You demonstrated that on your last trip," said the boss, coming in at this juncture.

[Detroit Free Press:] "Pa, what is com-

"Common clay, my boy, is what you get when you pay a man to haul you a few loads of good black dirt."

[Chicago Journal:] "What are you-a panhandler? "Not in these progressive times, mum.

(Kansas City Journal:] "I know a pitcher Robert: Laura, is it love that prompts the can strike 'em out with either hand." you to say that, or are you merely collect"That's nothing. I know of a fellow who ing postage stamps?" has made a big strike-out record with his [Boston Transcript:] Old lady: Here's a penny, my poor man. Tell me, how did you beome so destitute?

I was always like you, mum, a-givin' away vast sums ter the pore an' trying that cake you made today.

[Browning's Magazine:] "I saw you at po'ly, ma'am. He's got dat exclamatory the circus, Dobbins." "Yes, the children-

"Oh, don't give us the old excuse!" "The children were all away in the country, and I had a chance to take in the show

[Woman's Home Companion:] Teacher: Now, children, here's an example in mental arithmetic. How old would a person be whe was born in 1888?

Pupil: Was it a man or a woman?

[St. James Gazette:] The girl at the exchange, after you have waited fully ten minutes:

They don't answer. What number was [Punch:] "Why don't yer see Dr. Smiff abaht it." "Is 'e a qualified doctor?"

"I dunno. But I 'ear 'e's done wonders wiv animals."

[Christian Register:] Briggs: That was

May us fragility for a first tra-a great dance. I hope I made an impression on that giri. Griggs: I guess you did. She has been [Life:] "Has the gun complement for the new battleship been decided?

"Gracious! no; the board of strategy hasn't finished choosing the design for the [Passing Show:] Farmer Baggs: thought I must wait behind an' tell 'e I'm [Detroit Free Press:] "What is meant by terribly sorry you be a goin' to leave us, harging an account to profit and loss?" zur. Us 'ave changed so many times since Passen Green died, and always for the wuss!

[Detroit Free Press: J Simple Simon went

teur sportsman. "I've spent time and money getting to a place where the likelihood of catching fish was no whit greater."

ake a short suit count." [Birmingham Age-Herald:] "How often "You bet; whether she's bathing or play you hear men say, If I had $1,000,000 I would be satisfied."

"Yes, and it's surprising the amount of mental concentration fellows of that sort can bring to bear on borrowing a quarter."

[Louisville Courier-Journal:] "I've got

"I have tried. But it gets tiresome when you have to look for it with a microscope

[Birmingham Age-Herald:] "Ah, a package of old love letters, tied around with a faded pink ribbon: I could shed tears at the sight of them."
"Piffle!" For true pathos nothing sur-

[Washington Star:] "Is your husband an

"I don't think so," replied young Mrs. Torkins, "and I almost hope nobody askes him to join. Charlie has so many uniforms now that I can hardly take care of them

[Louisville Courier-Journal:] "I fear my brother's wife is a trifle selfish."

"Doesn't she share the family joys and "Yes; but she figures on taking about 90 per cent of the joys and 10 per cent. of the [New York Times:] .Laura (as her lover

I'm a humble follower of the fireless cook-is about to start on a tour around the er." world:) My dear Robert, promise that you will write to me from every town you visit. Robert: Laura, is it love that prompts > [Life:] Mrs. Willis: Wake up. John! Wake up!

Mr. Willis: What's the matter?

Mrs. Willis: I hear a harsh, grating noise think someone is trying the door. Mr. Willis: Nonsense: it is some rat [Boston Transcript:] "Ma husban's very rheumatism."

"You mean inflammatory, Martha. clamatory is from exclaim, which means to cut out.' "Yes, ma'am, dat's what it is. He hollers if anyone goes near him."

and enjoy merself."

81

Los Angeles Times

Saturday, August 12, 1910.]

trated Weekly Magazin

TEN CENTS.

er. nted.

from stir-then she

ally. was SATURDAY, AUGUST 12, 1916.

1781-1916.

Tall Pines, Huntington Lodge Grounds.

tion to the I employees ident in the Freedom T. Trades. In IKE.

? Pages

So Very Simple.

A PLAIN AND ECONOMICAL WIFE PROM THE COUNTRY

BY GLENN H. WICHMAN "My boy," said the eminent lawyer to deceased client's twenty-three-year-old nephew, "allow me to give you a word of advice. Someone has wisely said that it is but three generations from overalls overalls. You, young man, are the third generation and it is for you to prove that this epigram is not even a suggestion of the truth. You follow me?"

The young man dolefully nodded his

"and so," continued the eminent lawyer, "I would call your attention to this fact: Your grandfather, who laid the foundation for your present fortune of $300,000, was a city-bred man who went to the country to choose him a wife. He realized that a man's success depends largely upon the frugality of his helpmate. His only son, your uncle, followed in the footsteps of his parent. Like his illustrious sire, his wife was a simple woman and came from the country. Do you follow me?"

Again the young man nodded his head, and this time there was a smile upon his lips

Thus we come to the proposition. I cannot put it too strongly, I cannot impress it too indelib mind. I cannot call your attention to it with too much vigor; young man, I beseech you, aye, ? implore you, to follow in the footsteps of those who have gone before you."

And the young man, thinking that the eminent lawyer had spoken wisely from the fulness of his years, followed his advice and straightway took himself to the country in a search for something simple.

Twenty-four hours after arriving at the home of Farmer Johnson he said to Miss Johnson:

"There is one thing I admire about you girls who live in the country—you are simple about everything you do."

And Miss Johnson, who had been admiring the creases in the new boarder's trousers all afternoon, answered:

"Indeed, it must be refreshing to your jaded nerves; like a tubbing to a man who en playing golf all the afternoon.

And the young man's forehead puckered with misgivings at this remark, but when on the following day, he saw the farmer's daughter darning her papa's socks he de-cided that she was in very simple, and, as she was very pretty, would consequently make a good wife.

Two months later they were married and after the honeymoon settled down in an hlish sisted of a cook, a three-story house and an income of $10,000 per annum.

One week after they moved in Mrs. Jas-irfax kissed her husband and then

"Jasper, sweetheart, I must go shopping tomorrow.

And as the result of her having gone showing certain and sundry packages, both great and small, arrived at the house next "at evening Mrs. Fairfax appeared at the dinner table looking more charming than her husband had ever seen her look She was so sweet and pretty and before. His meal went away nearly untasted. Soft! His stomach had drilled into the background.

"One clothes, you know," observed Mrs. Fairfax a few days later as she leaned over her husband's shoulder and watched him check over a few bills. "So it seems," observed Jasper.

'One must be like other women," continued the former Lena Johnson.

"What women?"
"Why the women yo read ut. of course, you silly!"

What other women have you never spoken to her in such a harsh tone before.

'Don't you ever d the magazines? All those stories by Rupert Blues, Governor and Rex Beach. They all tell Porous about women who matter, and how they dress and how they act and all about 'em."

in bed and whispered such a choice sentiment into her husband's ear that the next v to acquired a limousine. The next week they moved into a new 1 more pretentious house and two months later their names appeared in the society columns of a well known daily.

Before th year was more tha. two-over Jasper had begun to investigate and with corresponding success.

"One must have money to keep things going, Jasper, dear." Mrs. Fairfax found many to epeat this perfectly obvious truth, and she did it with such consummate charm and grace that Jasper invaria''y did e she wanted him to do.

One day Mr. Fairfax considered it expedient, aye, imperative, to take a little flyer on the market. Two days later he walked home, entered the house with fal and informed poor, dear, pretty Mrs. Fairfax that they were in a very bad way. She cried a little, kissed him a lot and then announced that they must try again.

A month or so Mr. and Mrs. Fairfax got off the train at a little station somewhere west of the Mississippi.

"Lena," said Jasper to his wife, "if anybody in this town ever asks you for any particulars about me tell them that I have a passionate fondness for the carrent magaes and that I am just crazy about simple minded people!"

The Fear of Death.

Data on the subject collected by eminent authorities indicate that few persons about to Europe. They were thus enabled to buy is cited the case of the African explorer. who was partially devoured by a lion. He declared that he felt no pain or fear, and that his only sensation was one of intense curiosity as to what portion of his body the creature would take next.

Rustem Pasha, Turkish Ambassador at London at one time, used to tell of an attack made upon him by a bear during a hunt in the East. The beast tore off a bit the Turk's hand, a part of his shoulder and a portion of his arm. Rustem solemnly averred that he suffered neither pain nor fear, but that he felt the greatest indignation because the bear grunted with so much satisfaction while munching him.

Grant Allen, whose scientific habit of mind gave weight to his words, says that in his boyhood he had a narrow escape from drowning. While skating he fell through ice over a place whence several blocks had the day before been removed. He was carried under the thicker ice beyond, and when he came to the surface tried break through by butting his head against The result was that he was stunned, then numbed by the cold, and so waterlogged that artificial respiration had to be employed to restore him. These are the impressions as recorded by him with reference to the pain he suffered:

"The knowledge that I have thus experienced death in my own person has had a great deal to do with my utter physical indifference to it. I know how it feels. had only a sense of cold, damp and breathlessness, a short struggle and then all was

"I had been momentarily uncomfortable, but it was not half so bad as breaking an arm or having a tooth drawn. In fact, ing is as painless as falling asleep. It is only the previous struggle, the sense of its Minister to Washington was begun at a approach, that is at all uncomfortable. Even this is less unpleasant than I should have expected. There was a total absence of any craven shrinking. The sensation was merely the physical one of gasping for gust of Denmark breath."

Feats of Endurance.

[Stray Stories:] What is the limit of human endurance?

A bomb-thrower has hurled bombs continuously for forty-one hours.

There are numerous striking and more A clubpeaceful record-breaking feats. swinging champion once swung his clubs for forty-six hours without a moment's rest.

A young Braxton athlete once swung a blacksmith's hammer for twelve hours on Then this same modern Samson end. labored a punching bag continuously for fifteen hours at the average rate of 145 punches a minute.

round and round a billiard table, playing jected by the Danish Parliament, which was each wall being composed of a different mixgame after game, and covering sixty miles, for twenty-four consecutive hours.

bells of St. Martin's, Birmingham, for eight present negotiations. hours without pausing.

A certain Polish lady danced, with only momentary rests, for thirty-four hours; have so much leisure time on his hands as another case lime has been added. A while an Italian dancer danced for fourteen he used to." 'grouting' of cement has been poured over hours, at the rate of eighteen waltzes an islands. Fact No. 2 js that the people want to belong to the United States. No Longer Profitable.

Danish West Indies.

(CONTINUED FROM PAGE POURTEEN,)

But why was Denmark so anxious to get rid of these islands?

They, especially St. Thomas, once afforded their mother country a handsome revenue, Not many years ago Charlotte Amalie was a hive of industry and the market of the West Indies. The decline of this commerce was the indirect result of the perfection of steam vessels and of the abolition of slavery. Before our Civil War sailing ships carried on the commerce of the surrounding seas. Vessels then could not make long routes, and St. Thomas, on account of its convenient location and excellent harbor, became the trading center of the West Indies. The perfection of steamships made direct shipments possible. The English, French and Dutch in the West Indies thereupon began to send their agents directly to this continent and to die have really any fear of death. There in their home markets and have their goods sent directly to their colonies without pass ing through St. Thomas. It was a sore blow to the little island when the Royal Mail Steam Packet Company of Southampton later transferred its workshops to the British West Indies. The old commercial importance of Charlotte Amalie entirely dis- Morgan today? appeared, chiefly from this cause, thirty-five

The decline of St. John and Santa Cruz, began, however, as early as 1848. In that year slavery was abolished therein by Denmark, and the production of sugar rapidly Sufficient labor could not be ob fell off: tained. Weighed down by hard times, the people of all three islands have of late years grown more and more dissatisfied. Upon the whole, however, Denmark seems to have been good to them. She has not burdened them with taxation, although she has been accused of slight partialities to the native Dane as against the subjects of other blood born in the colonies. It is well known that Denmark's expense in maintaining the islands today is much greater than revenue from them.

Want to Join Us.

As far back as 1857, when our State Department endeavored to acquire the islands, vote was taken among the people of St. Thomas and St. John to determine whether they wanted the islands to be sold to us Two thousand voted in favor of and less than thirty against the proposition. Uncle Sam will offer their mother country $25,000,000 for the three islands. This will not be a steep price, regardless of the fact that Secretary Seward offered $7,500,000 for St. Thomas and St. John. A dollar went much further in those days than now. Mr. Seward was very eager to make the acquisition, and his secret negotiations with the Danish dinner given just before Lincoln's assassina-The treaty of purchase was fully tion. drawn and presented to the Senate, but that body dilly-dallied with it, much to the dis-

Ill luck frowned upon the negotiations al-While a joint commost from the beginning. mission appointed to visit the island; was holding its first meeting in the government house at Christianstead a terrific earthquake and tidal wave damaged the town and scared the commissioners clean out of their wits. The assassination of the President and murderous assault upon Secretary Seward held up the negotiations for an additional time. Since these fizzles Denmark has refused to open negotiations unless first assured that on we will pay a price agreed upon. It was be-once rumored that Santa Cruz coulú not be to us without the consent of France.

In 1902 President Roosevelt sought to purchase the group for $5,000,000 but the treaty, A few years ago two Frenchmen walked after ratification by our Senate, was remany, whose objection to the transfer has proves most suitable to the English climate. A band of change-ringers once rang the been greatly feared by Denmark during the

"You don't say so! What is he doing?" "He's taken to rolling his own cigarettes." is one wall made of earth alone

Trail was Too Well Marked.

CONTINUED FROM PAGE TWENTY-ONE

ceremony to the telltale saddle and the horses started onward.

The man was surprised when they continued their ride, silently, toward the town. As each moment took them farther down the canyon to the almost treeless settlement, Willis doubted, for the first time since his capture, that they intended to hang him. With the certainty that they would not leave him in the canyon came a wave of relief; and with the relief, a touch of bravado, which he had lacked entirely since his realization of the simplicity with which his carefully made plans had been defeated. Quietly and easily the men rode on, the dust which rose from the shuffling hoofs of their horses and the smoke of cigarettes hanging about them in the sunshiny canyon.

When Mary's brother, riding before them, gave a quick exclamation of surprise, the men looked up, and Willis, in his newlyfound bravado, laughed aloud. For before them, astride a panting, lathered bay pony, was Mary herself, her face darkened with hatred for the captured man.

"Mary!" said her brother, sternly, "Go back! You must!"

The girl opened her lips to reply, when Willis, with a mocking, awkward bow over the horn of his traitorous saddle, answered: "Good morning to you, my dear. How's Jim Unheeding the warning of her brother, the girl rushed her little horse straight to the center of the group, and reined in, close to the buckskin. For a moment she seemed unable to speak, but she glared up into the face of the grinning man. Then she lifted her heavy rawhide quirt, but her brother leaned from his horse and caught her arm. Her pony quivered and crouched, expecting

"Mary!" warned Joe again. She turned her head at his stern voice and looked at him wildly and piteously; then struggled to free her arm.

Willis, who had dodged back his head when the girl raised her quirt, and had attempted to slip from the saddle, found himself jerked into place by rough hands. He looked over the girl's head at her brother.
"Go ahead, let her hit me!" he taunted.

"I don't give a damn what happens, now that Morgan is dead!"

At his words the girl twisted away from her brother and rose on tiptoe in the stir-"Dead!" she cried out, and then rups. laughed, hysterically. Why, you "Dead! fool, you didn't even do a good job at shooting. Jim is alive—alive! And I'm going to marry him tomorrow!"

Her clenched fist raised the limp quirt and the air with a vicious whirled it through twist as she struck Willis cruelly across the face. Then she spurred the bay pony madly down the road toward town.

There was silence among the men as she rode away from them, while the roused horses stirred uneasily. One of the men began swearing softly, under his breath.

"Come along," said someone, finally, "We'll have to hurry now if we catch that train." So they rode forward again.

Mary's brother looked at Willis. swaying in the saddle, his head hanging limply forward. His eyes were closed, and his forehead in a great re' welt across showed the mark of the quirt.

Mud Houses for English.

[New York Sun:] The possibility of using mud as a building material and so solving the urgent problem of providing cheap country cottages in the rural districts and housing accommodation in the areas where there has been a sudden influx of war workers is being made the subject of an interesting experiment by the new household and social science department of King's College for Women, University of London.

Six mysterious looking walls have just been erected in the grounds at Camden Hill, believed to have been influenced by Ger- ture of mud, with a view to testing which

In each case the earth has been subjected to a different process of preparation. In one case waterglass has been added, in another [New York World:] "Algie says he doesn't soft soap and to the earth and soft soap in the mud wall in yet another case and there in cl vhile given ty be l on t ented d to round

[222]

d at the San Francisco fair. We he sine has lo have a CUENTLY we have been organizing—to spiel the same of reibler teorganizing—the Amphion at the same to make that that the teorganizing some swell music for East but I have been in the configuration ball and if we'd practice up that the bear of the configuration that the configuration of the configuration by about half a score of the highest they do not come out of their own English nobility. He has made sack-pockets. There is but one considerfuls of money in the show business by ation that restrains public officials in musical talent plus infinite application.

BE EUGENE BROWN.

Beating the Band.

The other day there appeared here that makes them give thought to in this city of Los Angeles a man from success depends in some measure on Klondike named Joe Boyle. He is still success depends in some measure on pect of being many times a millionaire, with the prosected being many times a millionaire of the way the taxes are spent. The before he dies. He went into the Klonmann tealist more than many office-holders on being many times a millionaire man tealist.

The duministry of Los Angeles a man realist many office-holders are not being many times a millionaire in the had ideas, that is many office-holders man tealist.

The dumicipal League of Los Antalians and a capacity for untiring apparent of the man of the prosection of the could be, but he had ideas, that is geles is a reform organisation of the talent, and a capacity for untiring apparent.

Hustrated Weekly.

Weekly, 103.00

RIECTS, SCOPE AND AIMS

10. La

urbertellen b 17 51.00. poe velf be sent 3 4-paid, for 65

(Cal.) P. O., under Act of March 3, 1679.

THE CITY AND THE COAST.

WITH the 1917 models showing, Los Angeles can get a good idea of how her streets will be trimmed

AGAIN the dahlias are nodding gracefully and flinging their bright smiles from a thousand gardens at their admirers of yesteryear.

IFE will be good so long as there is a flower for each season and Los Angeles is thrice blest in having many blossoms for every season.

THE tourist always carries a camera, whether he sees anything to shoot or not. In Southern California he is distracted, for he wants to shoot every-

OS ANGELES still enjoys seeing pictures as much as she profits through making them. Several big features have lately run three weeks each to crowded houses.

WINFIELD HOGABOOM has written a charming story of early California, called "The Daughter of the Don," which is about to be released as a ten-reel photoplay. Because its fair heroine throws us her rainbow kisses of promise across the centuries, she might be called "The Daughter of the Dawn."

NEW YORK people have been afraid to go to the theaters on account of infantile paralysis, and they could not go in the water at the seaside resorts for fear of sharks. Los Angeles has been so fortunate as to escape both these menaces. The most timid summer girl out here has nothing to fear from a man-eating shark.

The Times has recently been impelled to institute a comparison between San Francisco and Los Angeles. It was not done to belittle San Francisco, nor not done to belittle San Francisco, nor to enlarge the reputation of Los Angeles. Comparisons are made to strengthen the minds of San Francisco people engaged in a terrible struggle to rid themselves of the tyrannous domination of labor-union organizations unrestrained in the violence to which they resort to carry out their ends.

In this work it is not necessary to go into the merits of the demands of the labor-union leaders, for no matter how legitimate the demands may be they become illegitimate when to gain their ends those who make the ends those who make the demands break the laws, resort to violence, commit arson and make brutal attacks upon their fellow-men, going as far as to commit murder.

The Federal government has recently published a statement showing the course of various, industries in Los Angeles for the five-year period, 1909-1914. In some industries the report shows an increase in the five years of from nine to sixteen concerns engaged in them. Another shows an increase of from twenty-one to thirty-four. The meat packers' products doubled; so did those of the lumber firms and those of the printers and binders. In 1909 there were 113 firms engaged in automobile building, which in 1914 had increased to 214. Fifteen firms engaged in the making of men's apparel in 1909 increased in five years to thirty-eight. Twelve engaged in making women's clothing increased in the five years to twenty-seven. five years to twenty-seven.

Such advance has characterized Los Such advance has characterized Los Angeles industries at every time an analytical account has been taken during the last thirty years. San Francisco has made no such strides in its industries, and the reason is that in Los Angeles the open-shop principle is maintained. This has brought here not only a great amount of capital to be invested in industries but a great many of the most sober, industrious workers in various industries in the country. There is a public opinion country. There is a public opinion here so virile that every civic officer feels compelled to do his duty to main-tain law and order and to put down all violence and law-breaking.

This is exactly the opposite of the condition that has ruled in San Francisco, where in no industry of any importance is any nonunion man permitted to work at all, where the lawbreaking unions dominate public opinion, intimidating peace officers from doing their duty and putting strikers in the saddle in every trouble-making that occurs in that bewildered community.

The situation in San Francisco comes out not because the business men of that city are any more in favor of the closed shop with its violence and violation of law than those of Los Angeles. It is simply that they lack the spirit and courage in the northern city that marks the character of those in shop in Los Angeles. For thirty years it has been the champion, not only of the industries of the city and of the communities around, but really it has communities around, but really it has been the sincere and effective champion of labor. To it, backed by the support of the substantial men of the city, is to be credited the creation of the virile public sentiment which pervades the community, demanding the maintenance of law and order in the face of all trouble, at all risks and costs.

War Blows Up One Fake.

T IS but a few years since a little coterie of self-conceived scientists started out to make rain at will. They proclaimed that the farmer would be no longer dependent upon the weather for his moisture, that the irrigation district would become neglected and its storage dams in the mountains would be things of the past.

The idea of these self-styled p losophers, or scientists, rather, was that by using heavy cannon and firing many shots the clouds would be con-densed and be made to pour down rain densed and be made to pour down rain at any given point at any time desired. Many a poor farmer here in California and elsewhere pulled the old stocking out of its rat hole in the farmhouse and emptied many good shekels into the pockets of these fakers in the vain hope of making brazen skies become covered with clouds and pour down the dew in copious quantities.

If there is one of these fakers remaining on the earth he must be keeping very still at present, and would fain hide his diminished head behind any old bush or any other concealment any old bush or any other concealment that would keep him out of the limelight of publicity.

If his theory had an ounce of truth under it the whole world would have been suffering a Noachian deluge during the last two years. Bombardment of great guns has gone on over hundreds of miles of territory, shaking all Europe from the Straits of Dover almost to Petrograd, and from the North Sea to the Mediterranean. Yet so far as contemporary history chronicles facts this unparalleled cannonading facts this unparalleled cannonading has not brought one more drop of rain to any spot on the map of Europe than $750,000. the normal precipitation.

closed shop with its violence and violation of law than those of Los Angeles. It is simply that they lack the ness for dogs and cats and his admissiprit and courage in the northern city ration for the work of the Humane that marks the character of those in Animal Commission, but he also holds Los Angeles.

What they have needed in San Frantitled to a certain amount of undiscisco for years is leadership, and this turbed slumber—that is undisturbed they have not found. The leadership by the wild or tame animals of his in questions like this always remains neighborhood. The Mayor intimates in the hands of the press. Unless the voice must somehow or other prevent the burly pet from trying out that voice at the same time his neighbor is storing up his beauty sleep.

If we cannot have the noiseless pup and the voiceless Tom we must ar-range for them a discipline that will forbid their encroaching on our neigh-bors' slumber.

Ideas Plus Industry.

So ME self-conceived philosopher has said that genius is nothing but an infinite capacity for untiring application. It would seem that this attempt to define genius would apply more appropriately to talent. It is also an obvious fact that many people, thoughtful otherwise, use language loosely. We would think the remark quoted above a case in point.

There is no doubt that talent, to make There is no doubt that talent, to make itself effective, requires untiring effort and unlimited application. Given talent and application, success is sure to follow in any man's career. Many of use are yery much inclined to find fault with society, and lay all our failure to succeed at its door. Society is not a concrete fact. It is simply an abstraction invented to represent humanity in the aggregate. Nature has been very niggardly in her gifts to many of us, and where this is so no amount of effort, no matter how continuously it effort, no matter how continuously it is applied, can lead to large success.

Those who find fault with society as the cause of their failure are wrong. Given a fair amount of talent, that is Given a fair amount of talent, that is brains, and untiring application, and success will be achieved ninety-nine times out of every hundred. This may be proved by reference to any walk in life to which human beings apply themselves to reach success. Going back a little way, we find John Robinson, born on a farm in Western New York, who left home without a dollar in his pocket and became one of the greatest show men in America. men in America.

Then there was William F. Cody, otherwise known as "Buffalo Bill," a western boy who began life as a messenger boy. He went into the show business and made much money out of his Wild West show. His first trip to Europe was said to have netted him

Another show man was Maj. Gordon T. Lillie, who left his home in Kansas Voices of the Night.

I F SOME genius will create an effective muffler or silencer for the dogs, cats and roosters of our otherwise peaceful and puissant people, he will make much money and at the same time confer a vast favor on a lot of peevish folk who like to sleep o'nights.

It does indicate a somewhat aggravating condition of affairs when the Mayor of a bustling city is compelled to break his routine in order to issue a proclamation directing the dogs and cats of the community to hereafter carry on their nightly conversation in whispers.

The Mayor admits his personal fondness for dogs and cats and his admiration for the work of the Humane Animal Commission, but he also holds the belief that every citizen is entitled to a certain amount of undisturbed slumber—that is undisturbed into the show business and now at a little over 50 years of age he is rated as a millionaire. Maj. Lillie was the discoverer of Oklahoma, which by untiring industry he wrested from a monoply of cattle men and converted into a State. Oklahoma City and Pawnee City in the same State stand as monuments to this man's talent for business. He was known in his early days as "Pawnee Bill."

Another snow man was Maj. Gordon to make his way on foot. Fate led him into the show business, and now at a little over 50 years of age he is rated as a millionaire. Maj. Lillie was the discoverer of Oklahoma, which by untiring industry he wrested from a monoply of cattle men and converted into a State. Oklahoma City and Pawnee City in the same State stand as monuments to this man's talent for business. He was known in his early days as "Pawnee Bill."

Another successful show man was Adam Forepaugh. His father was a Philadelphia butcher, and the boy used to deliver meats from door to door for his father's shop. Getting into the show business in a very humble canning the belief that every citizen is entitled to a certain amount of undistinguished and the show business in a very humble canning the dogs and the state of the show business and now at a littl

Was there ever a life more encouraging than that of Imre Kiralfy? He was a little boy when the revolution broke out in Hungary, and his father taking NEW YORK people have been afraid to go to the theaters on account of infantile paralysis, and they not go in the water at the searched resorts for fear of sharks. Los large both these menaces. The most imid summer girl out here has nothing of fear from a man-eating shark.

[Loadon Punch:] Farmer: Now, let me sent you can milk that cow.

[Loadon Punch:] Farmer: Now, let me sent you can milk that cow.

[Loadon Punch:] Farmer: Now, let me sent you can milk that cow.

[Loadon Punch:] Farmer: Now, let me sent you can milk that cow.

[Loadon Punch:] Farmer: Now, let me sent you can milk that cow.

[Loadon Punch:] Farmer: Now, let me sent you can milk that cow.

[Loadon Punch:] Farmer: Now, let me sent you can milk that cow.

[Loadon Punch:] Farmer: Now, let me sent you can milk that cow.

[Loadon Punch:] Farmer: Now, let me sent you can milk that cow.

[Loadon Punch:] Farmer: Now, let me sent you can milk that cow.

[Loadon Punch:] Farmer: Now, let me sent you can milk that cow.

[Loadon Punch:] Farmer: Now, let me sent you can milk that cow.

[Loadon Punch:] Farmer: Now, let me sent you can milk that cow.

[Loadon Punch:] Farmer: Now, let me sent you can milk that cow.

[Loadon Punch:] Farmer: Now, let me sent you can milk that cow.

[Loadon Punch:] Farmer: Now, let me sent you can milk that cow.

[Loadon Punch:] Farmer: Now, let me sent you can milk that cow.

[Loadon Punch:] Farmer: Now, let me substrained to find you can to the taking that if a man loves his dog he should not care that if a man loves his dog he should not care that it would not care that it would not care to wander over into his neighbor's to wander over into his neigh

Tolking and Contagions.

Tolking the terms were terms of the terms where the terms with the terms with the terms were tormered to the terms to the terms were tormered to the terms the terms to the terms to the terms the terms

Aids to Good Health. By a Medical Man.

THE HUMAN BODY: ITS CARE, USE AND ABUSE.

IL SOJOBUV SOT

HOME, SWEET HOME: BY A HOUSEKEEPE

For Wife, Mother, Daughter and Maid.

FOR THESE HOT DAYS. Pleasant Beverages days there is nothing more healthful and refreshing than the delightful beverages made from fruit juices and other tasty ingredients. The careful housewife or hostess should provide plenty of variety to suit the gredients. The careful housewife or hostess should provide plenty of variety to suit the capricious summer appetite, and it is hoped the following list may offer helpful suggestions. Lemonade and other fruit drinks are far better if made with a sugar syrup rather than with the dry sugar—that is, the sugar is first dissolved in water and boiled-for a few minutes to form a syrup, which is used to sweeten the beverage.

For variety, one may make delicious drinks by adding to the ordinary lemonade some crushed raspberries, grated pineapple, or any fruit in season that has a marked flavor of its own to impart tot the lemonade.

To one pint of good rich cream add one-half cupful of pulverized sugar, three eggs, the whites and yolks beaten separately, a pinch of salt, one cupful of any preferred kind of fruit syrup, one cupful of cracked ice, and one quart of ice cold water. Shake thoroughly or beat with an egg beater, and serve very cold. This will make sufficient for half a dozen people.

Blackberry Julep.

Take two quarts of fresh blackberries and two cupfuls of sugar, and cook them together with two quarts of water for twenty minutes. Strain off the julce, add to it one cupful of orange julce, the julce of one lemon, one pint of cold water and one pint of cracked ice. Just before serving add a pint of red raspberries and a crushed-sprig of mint.

Blackberry Vinegar.

Crush slightly three quarts of fine ripe blackberries and cover them with two quarts of best vinegar, let them stand for twenty-four hours, then strain through folded cheesecloth, squeezing them well. Pour this strained juice over three quarts of fresh berries, and let it stand for twenty-four berries, and let it stand for twenty-four hours, and strain, as before. To each pint of juice allow one pint of sugar, put into a jar, set the jar in a kettle of boiling water and keep the water boiling briskly for one hour, skim as needed, and when done and cold, bottle and seal. Two tablespoonfuls of this syrup in a glassful of cold water makes a very refreshing drink.

Ginger Punch

Chop one-half pound of best, preserved ginger, add to it one cupful of sugar and one quart of water, put all in an enameled pan and boil for fifteen minutes. Then add one-half cupful each of orange and lemon juice, cool, strain, and serve with crushed ice.

Mint Sangaree.

Crush two or three sprigs of fresh mint with a lump of sugar, add four tablespoon-fuls of grape juice and half a glassful of cold water, shake thoroughly and strain into a glass half full of cracked ice.

Take rich milk or half milk and half cream, add sugar to suit the taste and flavor with vanilla. If milk alone is used, add the whipped white of an egg. Put all into a serew-topped jar or bottle and shake until it foams, but not hard enough or long

To two quarts of rich sweet milk add ugar to make very sweet, then stir in one upful of strawberry juice (or other fruit nice in season) and a spoonful of roserater. Beat to a foam with an egg beater, and set on ice. Just before serving, add one oint of blanched and pounded almonds that

Dissolve one pound of white sugar in one pint of rich cseam, add one quart of water, one tablespoonful of vanilia, and one-fourth ounce of tartaric acid. Bring slowly to a boil, let bell for a moment or two, then pour into jars. Use one tablespoonful of this and one-fourth of a teaspoonful of soda to a glassful of cold water.

Ice Cream Cocoa.

Put a large spoonful of vanilla ice cream into the bottom of a tail glass, and fill up with chilled cocoa made with sugar and cream. Do not stir. Serve with long-handled

Egg Lemonade.

Make a good lemonade, but rather more tart than usual; take as many eggs as you have used lemons and beat them until thoroughly light, adding half a cupful of sugar to six eggs, pour into the lemonade, stirring briskly, and serve very cold.

Egg Shake (for One.)

Beat the white of one egg until stiff. Put the yolk, with two tablespoonfuls of sugar and one-half cupful of ice water, in shaker and mix until light and creamy. Add the white and shake again. Add two tablespoonfuls of lemon juice, a little vanilla and grated lemon rind, and again shake. Pour nto a glass and heap whipped cream on top.

Dissolve one cupful of sugar in one cupful of water, add six whole cloves, an inch piece of stick cinnamon, ginger root the size of a wainut, and put all over the fire to boil for six minutes. Let cool, then add the juice of two lemons and three granges, and strain. Add one drop of oil of peppermint, and a little juice of boiled spinach to color it green. Serve chilled.

MILADY AND ATTRACTIVENESS.

Study Your Good Points.

[Pittsburgh Gazette:] There are two little rules which, when understood and learned, ought to form a basis for any womnearned, ought to form a basis for any wom-an who wants to look attractive. The first is bring out your good points and the sec-ond is conceal your bad ones. In other words, the art of dressing depends upon your remembering that you are an individ-ual and determining exactly what kind of an individual you are.

Choose Graceful Footwear.

Cold-bloodedly considered, no woman with road, short feet can improve their appear ance by encasing them in a short vamp shoe that accents their aiready too wide and too short appearance. But that is exactly what the woman with the fat, pudgy little foot does. Watch her in the subway—there are dozens of her all unconsciously bringing out their very worst points.

If you happen to have a graceful, slender foot, it is distinctly worth your while to keep it well shod and accent your good points. If you have an awkward foot, make it as inconspicuous as possible.

COLOR AND GOOD TASTE.

Proper Combinations Essential.

[New York Evening Telegram:] It has been well said that color is the salvation of the impecunious. A good color sense will save many dollars in dress allowances, and save many dollars in dress allowances, and enough to make it buttery. Serve in large the woman who can choose and blend her colors perfectly is the true economist in dress. To be able to contrast the right blue with the right plant, the soft gray with just the proper proportion of emerald-green, or of boiling water, then mix in one gill each of seerlet, or of black and white to make it lemon julce and raspberry vinegar. Add three gills of very cold milk, stirring thoroughly, and strain through a jelly bag.

To two quarts of rich sweet milk add sugar to make very sweet, then stir in one cupful of strawberry julce (or other truit the sugness) and a second of seerlet, or of black and white to make it the gown that has cost a great deal is so often somehow all wrong.

To two quarts of rich sweet milk add sugar to make very sweet, then stir in one cupful of strawberry julce (or other truit the seeseon) and a second of the sugness woman.

The patting does not suffice. The cheek muscles require deep, firm pressure. The pressure. The pressure. The pressure about be given slowly, with the tips of the fingers, the hands straight, and resumble some than anything else the kneading of the fingers, the hands straight, and resumble some than anything else the kneading of the fingers, the hands straight, and resumble some than anything else the kneading of the fingers, the hands straight, and resumble some than anything else the kneading of the fingers, the hands straight, and resumble some than anything else the kneading of the fingers, the hands straight, and resumble some than anything else the kneading of the fingers, the hands straight, and resumble some than anything else the kneading of the fingers, the hands straight, and resumble some than anything else the kneading of the fingers, the hands straight, and resumble some than anything else the kneading of the fingers, the hands straight, and resumble some than anything else the kneading of the fingers anything else the kneading of the fingers anything else the kneading

The colors of the moment, by the way, are lovely in the extreme, and not at all difficult to live up to. The dark rich shades are the most correct. Dark greens, blues, have been soaked in orange juice. Serve in rich browns and lacquer reds are among the flesh up to the surface and feeds the small glasses with appoins.

Cream Soda.

Dissolve one pound of white sugar in one

The surface and feeds the favorities, and to them the Bordeaux shades shrinking tissues. At the back as at the have somewhat given place of late. These front of the neck, this process should condark colors are not only handsome but tinue.

HOME ENTERTAINMENT.

[Woman's Home Companion:] The guests were arranged in a circle, and each was supplied with a pencil and with a card bearing the heading "Characters from Shakespeare." Beneath this were the figures 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, the remainder of the card being left blank.

I started the game by saying that I had in mind the name of a well-known Shakespearean character which contained nine letters, which they were to guess. First, the letters, which they were to guess. First, the lady at my right was asked to mention some letter which she thought might be contained in the name. She said B; but as there was no B in the name, I passed on to the next

She gave E, which was the fifth letter in place below the figure 5 on their cards. The same lady then ventured A, which found its place below the 9. Her next guess was T; and as this was wrong I passed to the third player, and thus continued around the Scoring the Points.

When by and by to the E and A there was added a D in the fourth place, that was sufficient to furnish a clew, so that one of the company divined the rest and called out "Desdemona," thus scoring one point. Another lady then started a name, for Another lady then started a name, for which she directed the players to put down seven figures. The name turned out to be Shylock. Then followed Rosalind, Wolsey, Brutus, Cordelia, and other names, until each player had had one turn at propounding a name. The one scoring the most points was declared the winner and was presented with a volume of Shake-

FOR GIRLIE.

The Neatly Tallored Suit.

[Dallas News:] A girl in a neatly tailored alt, even if it be of the mode of year before ast, is sure to look well if her hat is smart and becoming, her boots neat and well chosen and her gloves fresh and immaculate. If I had a limited amount of money to spend on clothes, I think I should be tempted to spend most of it in pleasant de-

Graceful Collars

It is always worth while to wear graceful collars that emphasize the pretty contour of a throat; or well cut skirts that suit the swing of a finely poised figure. In choosing the details that shall bring out your good points and in managing the larger matters that shall throw your awkwardness into the background you will find you have made a definite step toward looking attractive.

CARE OF THE PERSON.

Patting Supersedes Massage.

[Lina Cavalieri in New York American:] eeks require drastic treatment. The muscles being large and heavy, it requires strength to call the blood through the in-tertangling meshes of muscles and to feed all the multiple tissues. For this reason patting does not suffice. The cheek mus-

The New Way

Boss Curtain Cleaner
All Hand Work Jaio W. Woahl
Work Of Specialty. Phase 14643—
L. L. WHIPPLE, Proprietor

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

[Philadelphia Press:] To clarify fat which has become dark put it in an enameled saucepan with water and half a teaspoonful of carbonate of soda. Boil for twenty-five minutes, cool and drain off the

When making doughnuts, if the sugar is dissolved in the milk before adding to the mixture the cakes will not absorb the

To keep milk toast from becoming soggy serve the boiling buttered milk in a covere pitcher, so that each person may himse our it on the toast.

HEARTSEASE.

Quicken the Understanding.

[Unity:] Sinners do not need scolding by the prophets of the Lord. They get enough of that from their associates. Every word of condemnation, expressed silently or audibly, adds to the sinner's burden. Those who are in darkness need a light. Ignorance disappears when understanding is quickened. Darkness, ignorance, sin, are not real and should never be thought about as having any power to hold or control men. When we think about them as powerful and real we add our thought-stuff to their darkness. ness, and "how great is that darkness!"

The True Happiness.

if happiness hae not her seat And center in the breagt, We may be wise or rich or great, But never can be bleat; Nae treasures nor pleasures Could make us happy lang; The heart ay's the part ay
That makes us right or wrong.
—[Robert Burns.

KEEP COOL-WEAR A CALIFORNIA SUN HAT.

ventilates. Can be taken apart. Dandy for tings. Made of jungle grass, trimmed in black, own, Alice blue, navy blue, pink and tan, tree sizes—Women's, Missey and Children. For sale at department, dry goods and hat stores, your dealer can't supply you send your order d his name. We will mail direct on receipt of cice. Our descriptive circular explains every de-il. Send for one.

CALIFORNIA SUN HAT CO.

OLIVE TREES OLIVE TREES

Special low price in lots of 500 or

English nobility. He has made actifuls of money in the show business by musical talent plus infinite application.

The other day there appeared here in this city of Los Angeles a man from Klondike named Joe Boyle. He is still young, but a millionaire, with the prospect of being many times a millionaire before he dies. He went into the Klondika some years are a poor as a man dike some years ago as poor as a man could be, but he had ideas, that is talent, and a capacity for untiring application. His story was told in this magazine recently in one of Frank G.

magazine recently in one of Frank G. Carpenter's letters.

Then here in Los Angeles a few years ago a woman who had kept a lunch stand in a Michigan city started the first cafeteria in Los Angeles. She recently sold out her business with a net profit of $40,000.

There is no need of multiplying these instances. Life is full of them as a comb of honey or as an egg of meat.

comb of honey or as an egg of meat. The honey in the comb is the best illustration, for it comes from the hive where the tireless bees store up their sweets, "gathered from many an open-

The Navy Forever.

WE DO not intend to rob W American army of any of its glories or attempt to conceal a single chapter in its illustrious career when we head our article with the navy

The American navy has never been a very large affair, but if there is another navy on earth with as many heroes to its credit in proportion to the men engaged, or with as many victories in proportion to the battles fought, we do not recall it, and we are pretty well acquainted with history.

We have not an adequate navy now to take care of our interests against to take care of our interests against possible attacks by some of the great powers who have provided themselves with more ships, more largely equipped and more numerically manned than our own. The word numerically in the last sentence is used deliberate-ly, for it is our well-founded opinion that no navy on earth is better manned in proportion to its personnel than our

The other day there came from Washington a dispatch recounting the exploits of some of our ships in practice on the sea. The Texas, one of our battleships, stands with a record of 93.7 hits out of 100 shots fired. The battleships every public office from the lowest in the smallest city up to the expenditures that go through the treasury of the United States. The taxpayers are fleeced and robbed at every turn, not so much by downright dishonesty as by careless indifference on the part of those charged with the expenditures of these moneys, simply because ation that restrains public officials in the expenditure of public moneys or that makes them give thought to economy—that is the idea that party success depends in some measure on the way the taxes are spent. The party's success depends upon this matter more than many office-holders realize.

The Municipal League of Los An-

The Municipal League of Los Angeles is a reform organization of the down-to-date, modern kind, established some years ago by rather noisy reformers. It may have done some good in the years of its existence, but it has not accomplished that for which its organizers intended it.

We read with interest the other day excerpts from a discourse delivered before the league by Dr. Harry A. Garfield of Williams College. He said: "There is nothing that touches you so broadly as the budget. The art of good government begins with the budget. You need a change of heart among your officials. As citizens you have a right to know what is done with every dollar of your taxes. This knowledge can be obtained only by co-operation between yourselves and your city officials. The matter of budget-making is entirely outside of the ordinary run of affairs, and for it you need an enlightened and intelligent civic body."

Dr. Norman Bridge followed, speaking of the foolishness of lessening the budget when consideration was given to growth in population of the city. He said: "It is easy for a city government to make a great showing in its budget. They can cut it down and said: "It is easy for a city govern-ment to make a great showing in its budget. They can cut it down and make it appear as though they had ef-fected a great saving, but they really have effected a great crime."

The taxpayers of Los Angeles are very generous. They are in for every proper improvement and ready to pay heavily for anything that goes for the betterment of the community. have been a little easy-going in this in the past thirty years, and the officials have taken advantage of this, consciously or unconsciously, to increase taxation until the people have been forced to cry out for some relief.

The Functions of Dust.

little is said of its benefits. As a matter of fact, dust plays an important role in nature. Without dust there could be no blue sky nor any diffused light; man's only light of day would be that directly radiated by but the bearer of its condensations, the dust. Were it not for atmospheric dust there would be no clouds, no fog, no rain,

Beating the Band.

this fall we might be able to nose out the job. We felt rather sore at the way we ere treated at the San Francisco fair. We illy organised the band to accommo the exposition-seven of our artists being to arrange a season's contract the manageent didn't seem to be crasy over the ideathat is, not our way. But they must have been crasy, because they hooked up with sa, Creatore, Pryor, Ellery, Innes and other foreigners, and never gave us a call. All they said was that "they had placed our application on file."

Now wouldn't that dent your conk?

There we had gone and spent $8 aplece with Shears and Sawbuck for a uniform of scarlet cheesecloth, trimmed with white chiffon and blue chevrons. It was a regalia that could be seen and heard for nine city blocks and would have been a distinctive feature of the big show. As director of the band I had my own togs made of Swiss sheesecloth, so that they would be still more light and airy. But it made no difference. The harpoon went into us just the same.

We kept up our practice for several weeks, to the intense interest of our neighbors, who admired our staying qualities at any rate. Then Hod Skinner, who played the K-flat cornet, got a job at barking for the dog show, at San Diego and busted up our programme of instrumentation. You can't run a cornet band on a piccolo and trombone and so the band languished almost to the point of dissolution. There we had gone and spent $8 aplece

But things look better now.

Hod Skinner is back on his old beat. His wife said he could come home if he would cut out the booze and forget the fairy he met at Coronado. 'So he jumped a jitney and arrived here with his silver-throated music-maker. Also we have a newcomer in the neighborhood in the person of Llewellyn McGregor, who not only performs on the saxophone, but has a wheeze of bagples on which he produces the most wonderful melody. He says it is the most militant music in the world, and we believe him. The bagpipe works both ways. It makes men run to get away from its frenzied harmony. The bagpipe is the only reason in the world why a Highlander can chase a German out of his trench. The bagpipe is a sort of a surgical operation set to music.

we to music.

We welcomed McGregor's saxophone, but we told him if he attempted to play the bagpipes at the inauguration ball there would be war with Mexico sure. He said he wouldn't think of playing them unless he wore his kilts, so under the pretext of safety first we made him surrender his plaids and I locked them had been as a part of the made of the pretext o

93.7 hits out of 100 shots fired. The battleship Arkanasa came last of sixteen ships engaged in the practice, and shot ships of the view of the view of the sun.

Identify the sun the sun the sun the sun that strength the sun the sun that sun the sun that sun the sun the sun that sun that sun the sun that sun the sun that sun t

I have been in California, except with the box.

A good trombone player should have prehensile lip like a moose or a tapir, he also has to have a pretty good reach with his fins, especially when he is doing has ment or undersea music. Therefore it that an active and alert trombone artist he scant time or opportunity for any other is strument, least of all a snare drum, which would be in the way just as the performs was unswallowing a foot or two of his bloved brass. I am told that the trombone one of the most venerable tools of harmen in the most ancient literature it thrive under the name of the sackbut and the nam if now wears is a weld of words meaning an elephant's trunk with a pump in a which is a fair description of what it resembles to the careleas observer. When was a mere infant I fancied that a trombon performer had to be a wizard. It seems to me that a portly and phlegmatic Dutch man who could nonchalantly poke a coupl of yards of twisted brass tubing down his gullet must be a necromancer with the a cent on the neck. When I grew up I didn want to be a pirate or a preacher, I wante to be a trombon player. Lo, I am he.

When the Amphion Cornet Band goes the inauguration it will be able to put over some swell music, including "Listen to the Mocking Bird" with twitter effects and medley of American patriotic airs written be Scotchmen for the English army.

Mocking Bird" with twitter effects and a medley of American patriotic airs written by Scotchmen for the English army.

Our organization is not as large as the Marine Band, but as a compact little company of music makers we have the world by the ears. Sometimes when we meet for practice, in order to get quickly through the book, each member will play a different tune. While Heck Saunders is finishing up "Dixie" on his piccolo, I will be going strong on "How Can I Leave Thee." on my trombone. The neighbors say the effect is indescribable and that our oand will doubtless get the engagement on resyrrection day for waking up the dead.

The night we rehearsed at Skinner's house

the dead.

The night we rehearsed at Skinner's hous Prof. Pillsbury, who lives next door, had upinched for disturbing the peace, but Pillsbury is an old grouch with no soul for musi No matter how great or good you are th neighbors are the last to admit it. Jac Van Groove, who lives next door to me, aske me to let him know when the band woul be practicing at my house. "Do you wan to ask in some friends?" queried I. "Not be a darned sight," answered he, coarsely, "want to arrange to be in Santa Monica tha night."

h on anything played the lyre they named the band and back East Heck Saunders used to ensations, the Amphion after me. I didn't exactly see the able to play his piccolo while wearing he cospheric dust connection, but they explained that my beginning the leader of the organization they are mittens.

I fancy that the proudest moment in its, no azure wished to honor me in a small way, and so next President's life will be when he cound, the trees, we let it go at that.

Would be obadd condense, as a one-man-band, but now that I have only into the robust notes of "Come Where he fur of the alide trombone and if snare drum I can't Love Lies Screaming."

E. T. double up with myself very well. It is hard That will be something worth while.

"HOME, SWEET HOME." BY A HOUSEKEEPER.

THE HUMAN BODY: ITS CARE, USE AND ABUSE.

Aids to Good Health. By a Medical Man.

Infections and Contagions.

ONSIDERABLE confusion exists in the ONSIDERABLE confusion exists in the minds of most people as to the correct meaning of the terms "congious" and "infectious" diseases. In edical parlance the terms were formerly arefully used and carefully distinguished, indicating two very different types of seases, but at present the words are used terchangeably, without even a shade of difference in their meaning. Indeed, the bods "contagion" and "contagious" are prolescent in medical literature, the newords "contagion" and "contagious" are bsolescent in medical literature, the new-r terms, "infection" and "infectious," being

"Contagion" is a word of ancient origin, and as applied to disease suggests a condition that is transmitted by actual contact, such as in touching the afflicted person with such as in touching the amicted person with the hand. This type of disease was sup-posed to be entirely different from the epi-demic forms, which were transmitted through the air, or some other medium, and not dependent upon actual contact. But the discovery that microscopic plants and animals, comprehensively known as germs, are the cause of diseases, altered the view of disease-transmission very materially. Contact with germs was necessary for the transmission of any disease, and the specific cause of the disease remained the same, whether the germ was transferred by means of actual bodily contact, through ingestion of food or drink, or inhaled in the

Since the germ itself, rather than its par-ticular method of transmission, is the im-portant item, and as the term "contagious" was not sufficiently comprehensive, and and "infections" were coined as a matter of descriptive expediency. And these terms have gradually replaced the older ones in most of the recent medical literature.

Sallvary Superstitions.

One of the popular and undoubtedly con mendable crusades at present is that waged against the spitting nuisance. Yet curiously ough, the task of the crusaders has been made difficult by certain superstitions about saliva which, although reminiscent of the Dark Ages, still persist among an amazing number of apparently intelligent persons. America, thanks to its tobacco-chewing proclivity, is pre-eminent among nations in the matter of profuse and accurate expec-toration. But this country is entirely out-classed by the European nations in the mat-ter of superstitious beliefs about the curative effects of the salivary gland secretions. As an example of this, Dr. Howard D. King cently cited the following: "In parts of otland warts on the hand are supposed to vanish with great celerity should they be anointed each morning with the first spittle rmed by their owner's salivary glands after awaking. The most extraordinary part of the story is that there seems to be a degree of truth in it. In America the curative power of spittle is vouched for by many of the intelligent classes. The wounds of dogs are said to heal best if treated solely with the internal content of the second content of with the injured animal's tongue.

"In county Meath the cure of warts is ac-complished by first spitting upon the hearth immediately after arising; following this, a second installment of saliva is applied to the wart. In applying the spittle to the wart the second finger must be used. The use of the first finger would be disastrous."

Prof. O. F. Hunziker of Perdue University, who is an authority on food values, commenting upon the fact that the average ass of milk each day, asserts that we are eglecting our opportunities to utilize the est, cheapest, and most nourishing of all "Statistical records show," says Prof. Hunziker, "that the average person in this country consumes about two-thirds of a pint of milk per day. If the consumer were fa'cross channel neighbors. The frequency miliar with the true value of milk as a food, of the resort to suicide, therefore, seems to it is safe to say that the daily consumption be due to temperamental rather than of milk would be doubled. This increase in physical peculiarities. In any event, life the consumption of milk would mean better appears to be more attractive in its last nourishment, more normal digestion, more stages to Englishmen than to Frenchmen, vigorous development, larger bony structure, just as it has the outward appearance of better health, more vital energy in the perbeing less so in the earlier years of life.

ormance of all kinds of work, mental and infant Mortality Rate Zero, hysical, and a smaller monthly board bill Persons and societies in "The above assertions are no longer a ducing infant mortality are asserted for a smaller by the state of the state o

"The above assertions are no longer a matter of assumption but they are facts amply proven by experiments and by experience. Milk has no equal as a food for man and its equivalent cannot be purchased at as low a price in the form of any other animal food nor can its combined beneficial properties be found in any food which mother earth offers to man.

"Milk is a compilete food for the systematics."

mother earth offers to man.

"Milk is a complete food for the sustenance of the human body. It contains all the necessary food elements, and nature has placed them there in the proper proportion for young and old. The food elements in milk are present in such form that they are more digestible and more easily assimilated than the same food elements in other forms of food products."

Where Fools Rush In.

the characteristics which distinguishes huamples of this human peculiarity have been brought into the limelight recently in the form of suggestions for checking the epidemic of infantile paralysis. The newspapers have been deluged by these suggestions, most of them coming from persons who confessedly know nothing whatever about the disease, but who, like Mark Twain's magician, Merlin, "actually believed in his own magic."

The New York Tribune recently published some of the remedies offered, which included "hydrotherapy, vegetarianism, sugar and eggs, faith, salt water, and a vast number of other things, the letters usually beginning: 'Infantile paralysis, in my opinion, is bred from the same source as summe complaint;' or 'The prevailing epidemic is, I believe, a form of grip;' or, 'The present plague can easily be arrested by following these simple rules; or, 'The epidemic is largely psychological,' etc.

not possible and it would be clearly unprofitable to publish all these interesting They come for the opinions, or guesses. most part from well-meaning people who make no pretense whatever to the slightest experience and many of whom are quite willing to admit that they have never treated or ever seen a case in their lives. is interesting to observe that the most dog-matic are not at all embarrassed in confessing their ignorance, and the assurance that a great deal of thought and labor has been expended in studying the disease does not impress them in the least. They smile patiently at all doubts about their qualifications and proceed to descant upon the vir-tues of their invaluable remedies. Most of these people in ordinary times make up the rank and file of the societies of antivaccinists, antivivisectionists, and so forth. They believe that the whole medical profession is in a conspiracy against common

An examination of records in France shows that "frequency of suicide runs parallel with age, and the maximum is attained in the most advanced period of life." The records throw some light on the question as to whether or not people cling tenaciously to life in spite of age and misfortunes, at least in France. But English statistics, and such American records as are available, in dicate that the outlook on life of elderly and unfortunate Englishmen and Americans is somewhat different from that of senile Frenchmen. For in Anglo-Saxon countries the suicide rate falls off rapidly after sixty-

The most frequent cause of suicide a aged Frenchmen is physical suffering. But there is no evidence that Frenchmen are more afflicted in this respect than their Persons and societies interested in reducing infant mortality are showing peduliar interest in a report, which is confirmed by the French Academy of Medicine, that during a period of ten years "no child under one year of age had died in Villiers-le-Duc, and no mother had died in childbirth." Since this record has never been equaled by any other town, the methods of this favored town for preserving the lives of its babies have become the object of thoughtful scrutiny.

ful scrutiny.

It appears that, prior to the tenure of a certain Mayor, the infant mortality rate in Villiers-le-Duc was from twenty to thirty per hundred. But this Mayor, although not a physician, introduced certain measures which were also carried out by his son, who succeeded him in office, which reduced this mortality rate to zero, and has kept it there for a decade. The essential features of the method, which might be carried out in any municipality, are as follows: There is municipality, are as follows: municipality, are as follows: There is strict supervision and sterilization of all milk, and a general medical supervision of all infants. In addition, "Every pregnant woman lacking the means to provide for her own welfare and that of her child, has a right to assistance from the village authorities. She is allowed a certain sum, and given competent medical attendance during her period of incapacitation. And, if she can show a healthy nursling a year old, she is entitled to a municipal grant."

There is nothing elaborate or particularly expensive in this programme, and yet it appears to have produced most remarkable Deafness and Seasickness.

There is one place where deafness has its advantages: this is on sea voyages. For deaf persons do not become seasick readily; and persons who suffer from congenital deafness are absolutely immune to this all-The peculiar manifestations of seasick-ness have been observed ever since the dawn of history; and for centuries efforts have been made to locate the organ in the body that is definitely responsible for this condition, and to find a means of preventing it. Yet, despite the number of observers and the long time period of observation, one vital but entirely commonplace fact es-caped detection—the fact that deaf and dumb people do not become seasick. This observation was first made a few years ago by Dr. W. James, and indicated conclusively that the structures of the ear, not the gas-tric apparatus, are responsible for seasick

This discovery has been confirmed by various experiments, during the course of which it developed that there is a direct relationship between the sensitiveness of the internal structures of the ear and the tendency to seasickness. It was found, for example, that persons who are nauscated by ear douches are peculiarly susceptible to the rocking motion of a boat. It was The discovery of the seat of the difficulty stimulated efforts to find a way of overcoming it. Thus, it was found that douching the ears with cold water would relieve the symptoms, but only during the actual douching process, so that the remedy was quite as bad as the disease. Indeed, none of the newer remedies seem to be any more effective than the old, although some persons ar said to get relief from plugging the ears with cotton at the beginning of the voyage.

TRUSSES NON-SKID PAD SUN DRUG CO. 759 South Hill St.

(The Christian Herald:) A young mother hearing her two-year-old crying loudly rushed to him and inquired anxiously, "What is the matter?"

"The dog bit me," was the tearful re-Sponse.

"Where were you when the dog bit you?"
"Boo hoo! I was—I was by—I was by—the dog!"

Well, sir, you've earned more since then,

The light of Learning—the light of Knowledge-which is Experience and the light of life, which is the light of the Sun. Because he knows the relation of light to the Eye and its functions the work of the Optometrist, aided by the mechanism of the Chican, the lenne grinder, becomes practical. About the lenne grinder, becomes practical and weaknesses of the Eye and preserbles the remedy.

After you have had your eyes examined by an occulsit and registered physician you are ready, if it is necessary, for the optometrist and the optician. Perhaps an examination will convince you that you do need glasses. If you do my resources are at your service. I carry all the lenses approved by scientific investigation for the alleviation and eradication of many causes of defective vision. Ne charge for examination.

C. C. LOGAN M. D.

ist and Optician, 341 South

NATUROPATHY

THERAFY, ONTHOPPENIC SUBGERY, PHYSICAL CULTURE, DEET, HYDRO-THERAFY including: Electricitight, Vapor, Hegbal, Pine Needle, Nauhelm and all other medicated Ratha. Treatment rooms and rooms for resident patients are sunny and steam-heated. Outside patients treated from 5 to 12 and from 2 to 5. NATUROPATHIC INSTITUTE AND RANTTARIUM OF CALIFORNIA, INC., 1519 S. Grand Ava. DE. CAM. SCHULTZ, President. Dr. Margaret Goetiler, Sapt. Phones: Home 2005; Encadway 2707. Tree Health Lecture every Thursday 5 p.m. Fubble Invited.

HARRY BROOK, N. D., former editor Times Health Dept., still teaches how to cure chronic diseases, through dietetic advice by mail. Send for pamphlet. Dr. Brook now edits BRAIN AND BRAWN, monthly, one dollar a year, ten cents a copy. Chamber of Commerce Building, Los Angeles.

Frank Lamb Willson, M.D., N.D. Practice limited to Eye and Nerve Disordera. Suite 424, Exchange Bidg., Corner Third and Hill Sts. A4418.

Glasses Properly Fitted.

DROPSY

A TOP TO STREET WHEN THE STREET

Real Life by the Great Western Sea.

FORNIA, ALLURING LAND OF THE SUN

The simple life! That is the party of the same and the property of the same and the party of the same and the same and the party of the same and the a waiting civilization by a modern Sir Walter Raleigh, and exploited by him as a sooth-

EADING between the lines of lette from my English friends, a tra-comic state of affairs is evident will be recalled that in the first en al days of the conquest of Belgium, as wretched refugees flocked into England their thousands, sympathy ran high and c. English homes were opened on side and desolate Belgians ensconced in. But international sympathy must rong and elastic indeed to stretch over still loud in their gratitude to England; but individual English families are feeling that perhaps they were unlucky in getting the wrong kind of Belgian, Belgians wondering wrong kind of Belgian, Belgians wondering if perhaps Fate was against them in sending them to that particular household. The laws of hospitality tremble on the brink of disruption, and the cry goes up "How long?" Nothing will help to hasten that longed-for peace conference more than this small but virulent factor. It will considerably modify England's once arbitrary vows on the terms of peace. It is a subtle, insinuating form of frightfulness that is slowly but surely working its influence—this invasion of the sacred precincts of the Englishman's home by his foreign ally. The lengthy visit of a mother-in-law is nothing to it. Familiarity breeds contempt

S INCE the masculine wrist watch has come to stay, isn't it about time that it was rescued from the effervescent indictment of being "effeminate?" Of course, we all agree that one can't hurl a more scathing taunt at a man than effeminacy, even svery side and desolate Belgians ensconced ing taunt at a man than effeminacy, even therein. But international sympathy must in these loquacious days of efficient woman-be strong and elastic indeed to stretch over hood, but why the wrist watch as the survey years of cohabitation under one preme indictment? Indeed, the man who roof. The whole mode of living, habits, food, dares to wear a wrist watch in face of this tastes, ideals of foriorn visitors are as ridiculous public opinion shows himself different as can be imagined. With the best rather considerable of a man. For the man will in the world, daily irritations, owing who drives a car, nothing could be more to the conflict of personal habits and points sensibly convenient than a wrist watch of view, evidenced themselves. We all and watch snatching becomes almost immost that even our dearest friends can and possible when the time-piece is strapped to outside when the time-piece is strapped.

ing habit of Indian feminism, accounting for the lack of addiction to "nerves," man linity would dub it effeminate and scorn patronize the seductive weed. But tobacco happened to come to us with a different form of introduction, and, behold, it be-comes a stern masculine preserve, upon which the female poaches at her peril. Things have come to a pretty pass when comes a stern masculine preserve, upon which the female poaches at her peril.

Things have come to a pretty pass when we have to bolster up our masculinity with such specious devices. I should say that the real test of masculinity is being able to annex any innovation that comes our way, wear what we jolly well like, and still remain indubitably men. The Bulgarian can wear frilly skirts and still shine forth a man. How many of us could do the same? The great masculine lordly Moor, with his immense shoulders, fine head, strong face and muscular physique would not be a tithe as impressive in our stupid coat and trousers as he is swathed in his flowing robes.

I am inclined to think that the man who affects a wrist watch, because he finds it more convenient, treating the jibes of his fellows with amiable indifference, is far more of a man than he who clings to silly traditions to uphold his sex. It takes a real man to wear a wrist watch, and it certainly takes indubitable masculinity to wear a nightshirt with anything approaching dignity.

the unknown author. It recalled a bitter experience of my childhood, when I had poured out my young soul in a poetic effusion to my best girl, and, by low underhand means, it became the public property of my unromantic family. They read it aloud, those fervid heart throbs of mine, in just the same manner that Dr. Burton read that foriorn, friendless play. That my child hands were unstained with the blood of my entire family is due only to the fact that they were all so much bigger than I.

The poor devil's prize play was not given even a sporting chance. I could undertake to make the Bible itself sound silly, if read as that play was read. That brain-offspring was murdered amidst the giggles of the crowd with no less callousness and less justification than Herod vouchsafed to the infants of immortal memory. Herod at least felt he had a logical reamon for killing off infants. Dr. Burton killed the prize play from sheer malice, butchered a helpless infant for a Channel holiday.

The Strength of a Flower.

[Youth's Companion:] A rock under by a growing tree that has found nt in what was at first only a sn crack is a familiar sight to most people. man to wear a wrist watch, and it certainly the force that a tree exerts in accomplishtakes indubitable masculinity to wear a ing this feat is tremendous but relatively nightshirt with anything approaching dignities in a new control of the most people.

Not Even a Sporting Chance.

WHEN Dr. Burton, a Californis college city, where I observed a wild sunflower that the channel force it was not the control of the most remarkable exhibitions of plant force I ever saw was in a western force of the most remarkable exhibitions of plant force I ever saw was in a western force of the most remarkable exhibitions of plant force I ever saw was in a western force of the most remarkable exhibitions of plant force I ever saw was in a western that the channel force of the most remarkable exhibitions of plant force I ever saw was in a western that the channel force in the channel force of the most remarkable exhibitions of plant force I ever saw was in a western that the channel force in the channe Hyery tew years the question of have ing Congress adopt a floral emblem for this country crops up. Just now some agitation has been started by a pairthive from one of the southern States, who wishes Kaimia istifolia, a sirtetly southern with a street southern with a street southern.

Gardens, Streets, Parks, Lakes. By Ernest Braunton.

MAKING THE CITY AND HOME BEAUTIFUL.

THE RANCH, THE ORCHARD, THE GARDEN

Rural Progress Reviewed. By M. W. Hartranft.

HE Ministry of Agriculture at Cairo, Tegypt, has recently sent another order for avocado trees to be shipped from the West India Gardens at Altadena this summer. The avocado tree (aligator pear) had not been introduced in Egypt until one year ago, the reports from which are entirely satisfactory. It is understood that the climate at Cairo is semi-tropic, and undoubtedly very much suited to the establishment of this industry. The order consists of thirty-six trees, divided into nine different varieties.

Early-bearing Avocados.

In a visit to some of the avocado nurseries last week we found many were enthusiastic over the performance of the Pueblo variety. At the Sherwood nursery near Altadena there are many young trees of this Pueblo variety that are maturing from four to six pears right in the nursery row. This also applies somewhat to the Walker's Prolific variety. The nurserymen are rather encouraged in their work by this early bearing of the young trees, because the output of many young trees, because the output of many young trees in the nur-sery rows this year will be greater than the selling price of the trees.

The possibility, however, that this early fruiting will tend to produce a dwarf tree should be carefully considered. With plums, apricots and trees of that character, it is well to look out about stunting the growth of the tree by early fruiting.

to the mountains. A score of homes were placed in jeopardy of destruction. One hundred and fifty men were required to prevent the flames from spreading over the moun-tains, and a great patch of over 100 acres in Golden and Clearwater canyons was burned over to lie naked and bare under the coming winter rains,

Regardless of pity and sentiment, such firebugs must be punished. The laws of the State of California are not nearly strong the State of California are not nearly strong enough to prevent the outbreak of fire in the foothills. The Federal Forest Reserve is carefully guarded. The private lands in the foothills have scant attention.

There are scores of men acting as State fire wardens who are voluntarily helping to keep this evil reduced to the minimum. However, the State law makes it impossible for these volunteer fire wardens to stop people from burning brush or grass on their own land, even though they are placing hundreds of thousands of acres obadjoining land in jeopardy. The State fire warden's hands are tied until the fire once crosses onto adjoining lands.

There should be a local convention of the fruit trees are very much questioned, as a border row in the garden where ple variety with limited quantity is al for, they are a joy indeed. The waist-high peach trees shown herewith have at-tained full growth and crowd the garden space but very little. Local nurserymen are preparing to meet the demand for dwarf trees next season.

tains to become reclothed with this forest

's e Pacific Coast stands alone in the pos-A landscape artist, smoking a cigarette chaparral. These hardy, but dwarf, forest to the mountains. A score of homes were blaced in secondry of destruction. One hundledge of the control of the control

Apples or Alfilerilla.

A correspondent at San Gabriel writes to this department, asking for information about a market for alfilerilla seed, of which he has about 100 pounds already and is ready to gather several times that quantity. The correspondent wants to know if the orchardists use it for green manuring. It appears that the seed houses use a limited quantity of this seed. To our knowledge it is not used to any extent for green manure. Alfilerilla is an excellent forage plant, and the cattlemen and sheep herders often buy the cattlemen and sheep herders often buy the seed to restock their hills with this particular growth, after it has been loosely pas-for these volunteer fire wardens to stop people from burning brush or grass on their own land, even though they are placing hundreds of thousands of acres of adjoining land in jeopardy. The State fire warden's hands are tied until the fire once crosses onto adjoining lands.

There should be a local convention of the State fire wardens in Southern California, and plans should be adopted to give publicity to the subject. A warning should be given that any one who took the responsibility on their shoulders of starting fires in the open during the summer would be vigorously prosecuted if they were so unfortunate as to spread fire onto adjoining lands by reason of their work.

Pending the enactment of further State laws on this subject, it would be a very wise thing for the County Board of Supervisors to pass an ordinance prohibiting the burning of brush or grass in the open without the supervision and permit of a local fire warden.

This ordinance would have a salutary at tog, which makes it easier for a young tree cent to San Fernando than either of the to live through the first summer or two.

"Where can I secure seed the cheapest to For the best pine trees to plant we quote carry on this work, and what kinds would from T. P. Lukens, the forestry expert at you start on?

"Where can the American Forestry mag-line be secured?"

Answering the last question first, the American Forestry magazine is published at Washington, D. C., by the American Forestry Association—subscription price $3 per year. This magazine should be in the hands of all men interested in this subject and on the table of every public library in the State.

The correspondent will find wild-flower and forest-tree seeds with the leading nur-serymen of Los Angeles, some of whom are making a specialty of this line.

In the matter of planting, there is not a great deal of difference between the results in the mountains near Los Angeles and those in the San Bernardino district. To make either pine or eucalyptus trees grow upon the hillsides and mountain slopes, one must be a keen observer of conditions and deeply interested in his work. About all that can be given in printed instructions consists in warning you that all pine trees should be at least two years old, and they should be at least two years old, and they should be transplanted two or three times before planting on the mountainside per-This transplanting from manently. This transplanting from the boxes to the nursery-row and retransplant-ing, gives opportunity for slight pruning of the roots and causes the formation of an enormous mass of small fibrous roots which insure a good establishment for the young trees in their final home. The ground must be thoroughly wet from rains, and the plant-ing should be done as early in the winter

We have found that the successful ex-perience in this work was accomplished with the bare-root system, but the tree roots were submerged in buckets of water and carried from the nursery in this way to the field, and at no time allowed to dry out. The planter must not have one man going along digging the holes, and another man g along and dropping the trees, lowed by a third man who comes along and plants them. To make a thorough success the holes must be properly dug, and the planter should lift the tree with bare roots from the water, and firmly establish it in the ground without delay of unnecessary

In the matter of planting eucalyptus, results are obtained much easier. The Red Gum (Terreticornis) and the Sugar Gum (Carnycalyx) are supposed to make a better growth on the interior hillsides than is the Blue Gum (Globulus,) but here in Los An-geles county we have found the Blue Gum did better on the interior hill slopes adjacent to San Fernando than either of the other varieties.

Eve Vacation Warm Weather and Poor Vision Go Hand in Hand.

For the best pine trees to plant we quote from T. P. Lukens, the forestry expert at Pasadens, as follows:

"For the hardest places the Pinus attenuats (Knob Cone) is the best of all, pinus Coulteri next.

"On northerly slopes or along the bottom of the canyon the Libocedrus decurrens (Incense cedar) will do well.

"Pinus halepenesis, of which there are a number on Henninger Flats, growing quite openly, but tall and many pointed cones on them, will grow well for you and go to make a variety.

ane of the best to plant, but there are no seed or trees to be had now; they are fruiting a little this year, and ripen in September."

No Loafers in Switzerland.

It is rather difficult in Switzerland to try to live without working. In that common wealth the people proceed upon the theory that & man who is unemployed is, if left to himself, liable to become a waste by being a charge and a tax upon the community. The Ewiss, therefore, consider the problem as an economic question to be solved by

The purpose is to assist the unfortunate unemployed to secure work, but not for the sake of his family but in the interests of the commonwealth. There is no toleration of the loafer. Begging is prohibited by the law, and vagrancy is classified almost as a crime

Should an unemployed person not make serious effort to obtain work, the authoria serious effort to obtain work, the authorities proceed to find it for him, and when they do he is compelled to perform it. It he refuses to work he is placed in the work house, where strict discipline is maintained, and every inmate required to work to his full capacity, receiving therefor his board and lodging and from 5 to 10 cents a day in wages.

There are in Switzerland institutions where temporary employment may be had by persons out of work through no fault of their own. They receive comfortable accommodations and some money compensation until they can find more remuneracetylene Lighting and Cooking for

SAFEST CLEANEST

Two and one-half to three million sers of Acetylene.
Write us for free information.
Oxy Acetylene Process for welding and cutting metals by the Oxweld Oxweld Acetylene Co.

CALIFORNIA, ALLURING LAND OF THE SU

Real Life by the Great Western Sea.

July Business.

JUDGING by the bank clearings, July was a good business munth in California generally. San Francisco shows considerable increase compared with the same month a year ago, the clearings being $277,981,616, compared with $226,806,967. Los Angeles shows a handsome increase too, with $100,528,932, compared with $92,315,114. In a list published by the California Development Board giving the clearings in nearly a dozen cities. Pasadena is the only one showing a falling off, and that is very slight.

Another business pulse is building recommendations of the state of the state and that is very slight.

Another business pulse is building records. The showing of these for the month is not quite so good. San Francisco leads, with a small increase over 1915. San Diego registers a good deal of increase. The same is true of Fresno. In percentages, Bakersfield shows the biggest increase, the building there for July, 1916, being a good deal more than twice as much has in the same month the previous year Los Angeles, which usually leads all the other cities in this respect, shows a slight falling off.

Mineral Discoveries.

Mineral Discoveries.

The great war prevailing in Europe has produced a very abnormal demand for nearly, every metal dug out of the earth, the increase for some metals being phenomenal. California is, as usual, coming to the rescue of world industries in supplying the deficiency. Nickel is a very rare metal, Canada producing the greatest amount of all the countries. Down in San Diego county a ledge of nickel-producing rock has recently been discovered. It is an iron-nickel sulphide yielding more than 4 per cent. of nickel. Copper is also present, and the indications are favorable for the discovery of platinum, in the same rock.

Near by in the same locality has been discovered a molybdenum sulphide usually known as molybdenite. It is found in a fine-grained grafile and yields about 1 per cent. of the mineral. Only one prospect is reported as located, but the surrounding country seems favorable for other discoveries of this valuable metal.

The Grand Canyon.

The Grand Canyon.

The United States Geological Survey has published a bulletin calling attention once more to the wonders of the Grand Canyon of the Colorado, or of Arisona. The bulletin says that the Grand Canyon is more than a mile deep and from eight to ten miles Mde. "The cliffs descending to its depths form a succession of huge steps each 300 to 500 feet high." The cliffs are the edges of hard beds of limestone or sand-stone. The intervening slopes mark the outcrops of softer beds. The series of beds is more than 2000 feet thick, and the beds is more than 2000 feet thick, and the beds is more than 2000 feet thick, and the beds is no early horizontal. Far down in the canyon is a broad shelf caused by the hard sandstone at the base of this series, deeply intrenched by a narrow inner canyon cut 1000 feet or more into the underlying granite. "The rocks vary in color from white and buff to red and pale green. They present a marvelous variety of picturesque forms, mostly on a titanic scale, fashioned mainly by erosion by running water, the agent which has excavated the canyon."

so much retief in the stifling summer days.

Small Beginning, Great End.

NEARLY fifty years ago there arrived here in Southern California a French Basque known as Francisco Grande. He brought the ime since, until his death some time ago. The other day the executor of his estate appeared in the Probate Court of Los Angeles and asked permission to distribute the accumulations of fifty years to his heirs. They amounted to $446,747.47. The deceased Frenchman, coming from an agricultural community, settled at Puente, where he probably went into the sheep business, as did most of the Basques who came to Southern California. They were for the most part a sober, thrifty people, minding their own business and making excellent citizens. As time went on, like many of his countrymen this one added to his agricultural holdings near Puente, and the result was that he died leaving an estate of nearly half a million dollars.

Beautiful Lamanda Park

Lemon Growers' innings.

The sizzling weather which has covered the East and the Middle West from Maine to Colorado, accompanied as it is by a very high percentage of moisture, has been a distressing experience to the people in that part of the country. With a temperature of from 80 to 100 deg. Fahrenheit and with a moisture of 98 per cent., the haman body does not breathe enough oxygen, but rather the lungs are filled with steam. This must be got rid of, mostly through the pores of the skin, and with the air full of moisture there is little or no evaporation.

This condition makes the call for cooling drinks loud and imperative. And this is proving a bonanza to California lemon growers. The California lemon has the monopoly of the markets of the country, owing to the cutting off of the supply from Sicily because of the war. Now the crop of the State is only about half the amount of lemons consumed in the country. So with two parched mouths yelling wildly for one lemon, prices naturally go up. The returns from the eastern markets show lemons selling there at about $6 a box, or quite twice the average price. These reports come from the auction rooms where little of the choice fruit finds its way, and actual sales have been made at $9 a box and upward. Blessed is the man who has a good California lemon grove when prices are like these. And the fruit is a blessing to the poor people in the East, in that it brings so much relief in the stifling summer days.

Beautiful Lamanda Park.

Our Harbor Grows.

Damanda, the name of a beautiful suburb of Los Angeles, is rather a hadly formed word. It is composed of the Spanish article "ia," meaning "the," and "Amanda," and the Panama Canal has been closed for a good many weeks during the past year. Then for two months at Los Angeles Harbor the place was named was the wife of the founder of it, the late L. J. Rose. Amanda means one to be loved, being a Latin participle with a peculiar idiomatic meaning in the language. The excellent lady after whom the park was named was certainly a most lovable woman, and her memory finds a fitting shrine in the beautiful city by the foothills east of Pasadena.

Our Harbor Grows.

SHIPS are scarce on all the seven seas, and the Panama Canal has been closed for a good many weeks during the past year. Then for two months at Los Angeles Harbor of eastern millionaires, led by Frank A. Vanderlip of the National City Bank of tated by foreign fongshoremen whose wages were five to ten times as high as they ever Ranch, information was given out that it well-clothed backs, and like Jeshuran of the Scriptures, "they waxed fat and kicked." To be sure they kicked their own lunch buckets of the park was named was certainly a most lovable woman, and her memory finds a fitting shrine in the beautiful city by the foothills east of Pasadena.

Lamanda Park is a foothill suburb both to the condition they had been accustomed to the constructed, which will connect very handsome design.

the First National Bank, with its columned front, tiled floor and mahogany fixtures. The building covers a ground space of 55.75 feet, is of brick construction, covered with white cement. A new office and store building has just been erected adjoining the bank, by the Vanderhoof Investment Company. It is of cream enameled brick with columned front, making it fit in very symmetrically with the bank building.

Lamanda Park has prospered during the last couple of years, with much building and street improvement. It has a bungalow section close in, while farther from the center of the city are some of California's finest country estates, the homes of retired people, some ranchers, others Los Angeles and Pasadena business men.

Way, and during the fiscal year ended June 70, there were handled at the harbor 312, 237 tons of freight more than passed through the harbor in the preceding twelve months. The total tonnage for the last fiscal year amounted to 2,051,735 tons. The inbound merchandise amounted to a total of 1,306, 075.35 tons, estimated to be of a value of 056,981,466. The total outbound domestic commerce was 643,851.32 tons, valued at a little more than $14,500,000.

During the fiscal year in question, 2787 ships of a net tonnage of 3,223,023 arrived. When the conditions become normal, a vast commerce may be expected to pass through the Los Angeles harbor in and out.

University Gym.

University Gym.

IT is a good sign for the times and the harbinger of a better manhood that no university in our day is minus a gymnasium. Sixty years ago there was quite a hubbub kicked up by American intellectuals when colleges began to install gymnastic paraphernalia. The cry was that the schools were meant to develop the intellectual and spiritual life of the young men in them, and that their physiques should seek development outside of schools or go undeveloped. They forgot the Latin proverb of "Mens sana in corpore sano." It took a long time to persuade the American high-brows to take a favorable view of the gymnastic training in the schools. But persistence won the day, and therefore it is not a surprise to read that at the University of Redlands a gymnasium is about to be built. This is a mew institution of learning in Southern California, but, new as it is, it had a gymnasium long ago which was burned down during the spring.

City of Gardens.

G ARDEN CITY has been known as the name and also as a sobriquet for cities time out of mind. Pasadena has put a new wrinkle into this idea by getting herself dubbed the City of Gardens. And there is a difference, if you will take notice, between a garden city and a city of gardens. Pasadena has many resplendent gardens that match anything in the world for their beauty of landscane gardening, of greensward and of match anything in the world for their beauty of landscape gardenins, of greensward and of flowering shrubs. There is perhaps none like the Bobili Gardens at Florence, Italy, nor none like the Pmcian Hill at Rome, but there are others with a flavor all their own, a peculiar glory of Southern California that makes them just as fascinating as anything abroad. Pasadena gardens are private affairs, too, and are being continually added to. The latest garden of this kind in Pasadena is that planned for E. H. Story to surround his new home on Hillcrest avenue.

It Will Be Worth It.

It Will be Worth it.

THE Associated Chambers of Commerce of Orange county expect to assemble at Fairview August 29 to hear reports from the Orange County Harbor Commission on a harbor at Newport Bay. It is expected that the report will show that the harbor can be built in good shape for $500,000. Newport harbor is not a new one on the map. After San Pedro and San Diego, it is the third historical one in Southern California. Lying as it does, surrounded by the rich lands of Orange county, sure to teem with a dense population in the future, it would appear as if the harbor was worth every cent of the proposed cost.

across the intervening canyons. This will mark the beginning of more extensive work planned by Mr. Vanderlip's syndicate to transform a large portion of the ranch into homes for people of great wealth.

Cool Spots by Wood and Stream

THE Angeles National Forest embraces a large slice of the mountain range that protects Los Angeles from cold northern blasts. It is an entrancing region full of fine woods, of babbling streams and cool mountain breezes. The fame of this national forest has gone abroad widely over the country, but the government intends to make the fascinations of the spot more familiar to the eyes and minds of the American people. Expert photographers have been sent into the region to make pictures, for film and other use, of the beauty spots in the national forest. These forests are used not merely for places for tourists to visit but also for actual settlement for people who wish summer homes.

THE Southern Pacific is right on the spot in the railroad race to build a line from Grafton to Greenspot. The Santa Fe is reported to be not idle, for work will be started at once on the line from Mentone, and this may go to Yucaipa.

Construction is to begin soon on the irrigation line known as the Chatsworth to San Pernando Valley. It will take 24,000 feet of four-inch pipe, and the initial outlay will be between $5000 and $9000.

The State Railroad Commission has granted authority for the issuance of capital stock by the Visalia Electric Railroad to extend its lines into the Tulare citrus lands.

tend its lines into the Tulare citrus lands.

Pasadens is to have two more handsome residences, one for George A. Weber, a Connecticut railroad man, to go at the corner of Sierra Bonita avenue and San Pasqual street, and to cost $30,000, the other for R. D. Davis on South Los Robies avenue opposite Alexandria Court to cost $40,000.

Work is being rushed on a three-story brick school being built on Fifth street at the harbor to cost $105,000.

The Standard Oil Commence of California in

The Standard Oil Company of California is reported to be about to begin the construction of a series of pipe lines from El Segundo to the Los Angeles Harbor.

The Sait Lake Railroad Company is ad-ancing its plans to build a branch line from ico Station to Santa Ana.

Plans are being prepared for the Southern California Edison Company for a three-story addition to its building on Fourth street just below Main, Los Angeles city.

The high price of sugar has stimulated the granting of two bonuses of 50 cents each to sugar-beet growers of Southern Californis. This gives the growers $1 a ton on an estimated crop of $50,000 tons of beets.

A big deal is reported in Yolo county real estate including 25,000 acres at $500,000 to be subdivided and put on the market. Of course Los Angeles capitalists are in the

The assessment of the city of Santa Ana for the fiscal year is $6,786,460, an increase of $133,185 over last year. Fullerton is as-sessed at $4,278,705, an increase of $645,850 over last year.

The receipts at the Los Angeles postoffice for the month of July amounted to $181, $68.37, an increase over the same period last year of $12,250.52.

Redondo Beach had great days last Satur-

HE RANCH, THE ORCHARD, THE GARDEN

HOME BEAUTIFUL. KING THE CITY AND

> By Ernest Braunton. Gardens, Streets, Parks, Lakes.

A National Flower

EVERY rew years the question of having Congress adopt a fioral emblem for this country crops up. Just now some agitation has been started by a patrictic but very narrow-minded Representative from one of the southern States, who wishes Kalmia latifolia, a strictly southern shrub, adopted for our national flower. A few benighted florists and horticulturists in the village of New York and in other little towns thereabout also indorse the "wicky." For there are several species of Kalmia in that little southern neck of the woods, all much alike, and one is called wicky, surely a dignified name for a floral emblem for the mightiest nation on earth. Other names for these species are lamb-kill and calf-kill, for the foliage is poisonous to live stock. Why not feed some to the one who seeks to thrust his own little local scheme on the whole country? No Kalmia will thrive in more than one-fourth of the United States.

What we need, and earnestly desire, is an emblem that is national and not sectional—something comparable to our "blooming heagle, don't you, know." A few years ago something comparable to our "blooming heagle, don't you know." A few years ago the golden-rod was suggested, and it surely is representative, for some of the many species grow luxuriantly in every State in the Union. But it is a weed, and when it is in blossom it is the vilest of all flowers for is in blossom it is the vitest of all nowers for producing hay fever and asthma in thou-sands of our patriotic citizens. A columbine society has for years tried to thrust its flower upon us, but it does not succeed in many sections; nor is it impressive or suf-ficiently enduring. We must have something tried and true.

Now comes a veteran iris grower and wishes us to adopt that flower, the national emblem of France; but this one point alone disposes of the iris, fine flower that it is. We might, with good warrant, urge our California poppy, for it thrives gloriously in every State in the Union if fresh seeds are planted every spring. But we do not wish our Uncle Samuel to consider it to wear on his official lapel for one second, except on special occasions and in honor of the Golden State, it is so distinctly Californian, so typical of the Golden West. It blooms so continuously, by thousands of acres, when nearly all other States are unmantle of snow, and shivering humanity is interested in live coals or hugging a steam radiator, that it never could be a steam radiator, that it never could be typical of a less glorious clime than Cali-fornia; so that we shall always enjoy an uninterrupted monopoly of our own glorious golden emblem. But we feel for dear old Uncle Sam, and, without being able to offer him anything tangible, we sincerely wish some section of our great domain could of-fer him something as typical of the nation fer him something as typical of the nation as Eschecholtzia California is of the Golden without any stimulus if the soil is in good without any stimulus if the soil is in good physical condition and rich in plant food. The soil is in good to transplant clumps of Matilija poppy from if it is not the 'mums should not have been one part of the garden to another, and placed in it. Other plants that are farther wishes to know how to proceed. The task is easily accomplished. In late perhaps some robbing of superfluous or abnormal side growths. For, be it rememing rain comes, dig holes where you wish bered, the great development is to take to set the plants. Dig out all the roots you may place at the top, so that growth elsewhere can to a clump. The state as deep as you may

A CHOICE GROUP OF HOUSE PLANTS

Seed-sowing Season.

Of all the year there is no better time for seed-sowing than the present. For whether it be seeds of trees, shrubs, vines and creepers, or annuals and perennials, those sown now have a chance to germinate under the stimulus of heat, and later development will progress faster and more vigorously with the cooler days of autumn. Then, too, at that time we will have fine. vigorously with the cooler days of autumn. Then, too, at that time we will have fine, thrifty plants that will brighten the scene when all else is brown and sere—when "the melancholy days have come, the saddest of the year." It is, too, a good time to plant out those flowering plants produced from early sowings, for the warmest weather will on have passed

Autumn Dahlias.

Lucky is the garden owner who has been able to hold dahlia bulbs until now without having them shrink or grow, for they will reward present planting with a fine fall crop of flowers. If this saving of bulbs has not been accomplished there are good plants to be had which have grown from cuttings, confined in pots and await planting only before expansion into sturdy plants, that will yield fine autumn flowers. Dahlias that produced a good early crop may now be cut down and will yield another splendid lot of blossoms before frosts will come to nip

Gladiolus Season.

Chrysanthemum Culture.

The first mums planted should now be ready for feeding, for they will be two or three feet high if well grown. There is no better food than liquid fertilizer, made from dairy stable manure to which water has been added. After standing twenty-four hours or so it will, be strong enough to use, and should be diluted to the color of weak coffee and poured around each plant. Use weak and seldom at first, and still weak but oftener as the season progresses. Keep this up until color shows in the first buds, when all fertilization and cultivation should cease. But water more coplously than ever and see that soil about the plants is kept well wetted to a good depth.

'Mums that have been lately planted will need nothing but water and cultivation, without any stimulus if the soil is in good physical condition and rich in plant food. If it is not the 'mums should not have been productive of the very best, for the summer, until of late, has been a cool one and therefore favorable to slow but heavy growth of both flower and foliage. Though nearly all the writer grows are of his own breeding over a period of many years, a few named varieties of many colors are sparingly, grown. Of these no finer color may be found than in Burbank's value is low. The plant is weakly in growth, the stems crooked, and but one flower opens each day. Because of lack of vigor it quickly falls a victim to the baffling disease lately prevalent. Burbank has produced better sorts.

Moving Matilija Popples.

A correspondent complains of inability to transplant clumps of Matilija poppy from one part of the, garden to another, and wishes to know how to proceed.

The task is easily accomplished. In late place at the top, so that growth elsewhere can to a clump, just as deep as you may serves only to divert vigor from the desired profitably delve, and avoid as much as postilip-top" activity. If you wish giant mops sible bruising and breaking them. The tops of color the earliest plantings will now be should first have been cut off at the surready for the first disbudding. This work face of the soil. Quickly transplant the requires care or you will knock off all buds, roots to the new location and water very heavily. Then leave them al-heavily. Then leave them alone, unless rains do not come in two or three weeks; then give them a good soaking and leave alone for all time. Give no fertiliser, and do not disturb the roots or cultivate the soil except to keep the weeds out. The plants will not tolerate petting and cod-when the time arrives for the plant to com-mence active growth, cut off all the tops close down to the soil and allow a new top to grow. The writer once dug out a single root, growing straight down in the soil, the terminal just about to leaf out at the surface. It was at least a half-inch through and two feet deep, with no laterals and very few fibrous roots. It was broken off at the lower end at two feet deep, removed to a new location and planted as before. It has now, in three years, producd a veritable thicket ten feet across.

New Law

a star

The present is a good time to tear up that old lawn. Dig the soil up deeply, shake out every little piece of Bermuda grass, allow the soil to dry for a week or two, and turn over occasionally to expose every part turn over occasionally to expose every part to the sun and air.

Then spade in a liberal quantity of well-rotted manure. It cannot be too well rotted or too many times spaded to mix it well with the soil. Also pulverize the soil as much as possible.

ERNEST BRAUNTON,

Landscape Designer and Horticulturist.
237 Franklin St., Les Angeles.
The price of a good plan is soon forgotten; the price of a poor one never is.
Bites selected, advisory garden calls made; complete plans, specificatious and plant lists

President raircoad entre present raircoad entre pas atribute for the first passes of t

the situation is tonight that treement were in the treement were in the treement were in New York d in New York d in close touch Thile evidentity siven up hope y be reached, on the merits and be confirmed by the treement of the confirmed can be confirmed and be confirmed can be confirmed to be confirmed can be

Visit to igh Pros-s Being a as our attito in the contenparagers had of the Conciliosergors up to proposed tabres that they paragers had of arbitrate to Secure that if pass on it

try to secure that the railroad enplaces of the railroad end concessions
you evened a rained you to whether of
d concessions
you evened a rained you to whether of
d concessions
you want a rained you to whether of d Mr. Garretanagers want ration things for for thiry
the mediction
p. Judge Wilud G. W. W. med meeting
hagers at fine
raceds from
p. Judge thy roceds from
p. Judge thy

[Seturday, August 12, 1

The gold of that day was discovered in the fortune. The cold of that day was discovered in the fortune. The cold of that day was discovered in the fortune. In August, 1899, the man on Honsenz Greek, cooks, one of the cooks, one of whom received $100 per washed sixty-three ounces of gold, worth be the real took and thought of the cooks, one of whom received $100 per washed sixty-three ounces of gold, worth be the real took and $100 per washed sixty-three ounces of gold, worth be the real took and $100 per washed sixty-three ounces of gold, worth be the real three ounces of gold, worth be the real took and $100 per worth $100 per

D WEEKIS

NEAN (O) DE O) PER DAYRED (C) DIA CE (C) DE DENTINE IN (C)

Ups and Downs of the Klondike. By Frank G. Carpenter.

Early Fortune Hunters.

Year men were rushing to the Klondike from a very direction. They staked out both as wild as those of Swift-water Bill. He liquor and cigars that the ship had, and sides of Bonanza. They laid out claims ran through his money as fast as it came. How the wastern his millance and the wind provided by everyone, and I under the was cheated by everyone, and I under the was dead broke. Shortly after we started town the stand. At the was cheated by everyone, and I under the was dead broke. Shortly after we started town the stand. At the was cheated by everyone, and I under the was dead broke. Shortly after we started town the stand. At the was cheated by everyone, and I under the was dead broke. Shortly after we started town the stand. At the was cheated by everyone, and I under the was dead broke. Shortly after we started town the stand. At the was cheated by everyone, and I under the was cheated by everyone,

As the story goes, it was one of the Indians who had gone to the creek for some water who saw the gold shining there in the sand. They took up some dirt on the edge of the creek and washed it; and they got $20 mouth a for a time it seemed as though worth of gold within a half hour. Carmack then laid out claims for himself and the three red men, and each claim brought a fortune which all too soon slipped through its owner's fingers.

"Like Wildfire."

As the story goes, Swift-water was took his wife to Ban Francisco, where he bought a house and gave it to her. He gave her other moneys, and when he was about at the end of his fortune he told me she had cost him a quarter of a million. With had cost him a quarter of a million. With had be one of the fortune which all too soon slipped through store to store and bought every egg in the town. He then remarked that if Gussie was and they were in despair, and talked of saying: 'And that is all I have for it. I will go back wanted more eggs she would have to eat out of his hand, or if she stuck to his rival to her other moneys, and when he was about at the end of his fortune he told me she ther other moneys, and when he was about at the end of his fortune he told me she ther other moneys, and when he was about at the end of his fortune he told me she ther other moneys, and when he was about at the end of his fortune he told me she ther other moneys, and when he was about the end of his fortune he told me she ther other moneys and when he was about the end of his fortune he told me she ther other moneys and when he was about the end of his fortune he had cost him a quarter of a million. With that he pulled out of his pocket a garter, which had a diamond clasp as big as the the mine, and showed it to me, saying: 'And that is all I have for it. I will go back was so rich that the claim pout and going back home. After a town. He then remarked that if Gussie was a different to be a started to work. When he had cost him a quarter of a million. With that he pulled out of his p and give averages rather than particular.

Widening Our Markets. By Henry W. Kruckeberg.

EXHIBILING EVAL OF THE GREAT DIVIDE.

Don't use in the breeding pen a Housan performance of individual birds and pens. that shows 'a top-knot' where there should But, in apite of this, it presents conditions be a handsome crest; nor one with four out of the usual. What have our Minorca toes instead of five.

Don't use a Brown Leghorn that is more

Dont's Along Poultry Way.

Don't use a hird in the breeding pen that nows any signs of being knock-kneed.

Don't use a specimen that has a tendency to carry tail the least bit awry—a fault dedisod by the standard as "squirrel tail."

Don't use a bird of doubtful production; rigor, with average good production, is the safe suid-

Don't breed a Brahma whose beak is oval instead of flat, and whose shoulders are

Don't bother with Barred Rocks whose

Don't use a Brown Leghorn that is more black than brown; nor one that is yellow or mealy rather than seal brown. Don't use a male that is dainty at the feed trough; nor one that is not attentive to the hens; service and vigor is what you want. Don't breed from a Mediterranean male whose wattles are shrunken and small; nor one of any breed whose head appendages

Don't use a bird in the amooth-legged va-icties that has stubs or feathers on shanks, or one with scant feathering on the feath-red-leg sorts.

Don't use a Black Minorca that shows

Better try to prevent the presence of insect foes and diseases than to cure them.

The bird that visits the neighbor's yards, and especially the garden, is invariably a cause of neighborly trouble and acrimonlous

Cool houses and plenty of roosting room are conditions that maintain health, development and productiveness.

Did you ever consider that empty and dirty drinking-fountains tend to lessen egg-

A daily cleaning out of the droppings is better than a weekly clean-up.

Literally, there is no nonsetting breed of poultry. Broodiness is an elemental characteristic of bird life, more pronounced in the heavy breeds than the lighter ones.

Avoid the caretaker who is not kind an gentle to the hens when with them. The contented one is usually the laying bird. Sudden changes of feed may lead to troble, hence the ration should be change reschally.

gradually.

To look over the neighbor's fence and note the fine appearance of his birds is to become conscious of the fact that you are not doing the best in the care and manage ment of your own.

It is said that a swinging coop with a slatted bottom will quickly break up broodiness in heris. It surely ought to.

A good dog is a valuable acquisition on the poultry farm, being a delightful companion during the day and a faithful guar-

大学 なに動物でき

How Squirks Beat the Internal Revenue Officers.

BY LEMUEL LAWRENCE DE BRA.

turer, swung around and faced his partner.
"Ah!" he exclaimed, fabbing his trimming knife into the work-table. "I have it!"

Stump Tobin, the partner, moistened the p of a freshly-rolled cigar and smoothed the wrapper with awkward fingers. He lum-bered to his feet and yawned prodigiously. "I told you that you'd get something if you didn't quit smoking your own cigars," he

'No, no!" Archie hastened to say.

Stump dramatically fell back a step. His bleached-out, watery eyes widened with feigned astonishment.

Great heavens, Archee-bawld! How did "Don't be frivolous, Stump. This has nothing to do with my head, which is bald, nor yours, which is empty. The point is: I have an idea. You know that diamond pin in Levinsky's store I've had my eyes on for six months?"

"Well, I'm going to buy it—$15 down, and $7 a month for ten months."
"Why not pay cash and get it cheaper?
You got a lot o' dough."

"Ah!" beamed Archie. "There's where my idea comes in!" He ambied closer to his partner and spoke in a low voice. "The first payment I'll make today; and I'll even that up by cutting down the expense account of our salesmen. Then—"

"But you do something like that every month. That ain't—"

Wait a minute! The internal revenue "Wait a minute! The internal revenue tax on cigars, as you know, in $3 a thousand. Now, Uncle Sammy is rich. I am going to beat him out of the tax on 2500 cigars every month for ten months. That will finish up the installment payments. Thusly will I get my diamond cheap, very cheap."

"Archee-bawid," said Stump Tobin slowly, "that ain't no idee at all. That's a Hell-Lucy-Nation. You'll never wear no diamond.

Nation. You'll never wear no diamond You'll wear' handcuffs. For the revenue of You'll wear' handcuffs. For the revenue of ficers will catch you at your little game and they'll raid the place and seine everything. They'll put a padlock on the door and will nail barrel staves over the windows. Then, there's a mortgage on your house and nail barrel staves over the windows. Then, when there's a mortgage on your house and you're in jail, then, I say, you'll feel cheap, Archee-bawld, very cheap."

"But we'll fool 'em," persisted Archie. "I know a Chinaman who'll take the 2000 unstamped cigars every day and pay us full price for them. He can do that pecause he uses them to refill stamped boxes which held brands that sell for 10 and 15 cents. The other 500 we can use in our retail store, distributing a few around in the half-empty boxes every day. As for the government book, leave that to me. I can dope up an internal recent.

ITH-a sudden jerk of his shiny bald into his coat and hat and glided out the head, Mr. Archibald Squirks, door down the street. In a few minutes he wealthy and thrifty cigar manufactured with a diamond pin in his cravat, swung around and faced his partner. He stuck his thumbs into the armholes of his vest, leaned over the counter, and ad-dressed his partner:

"My good man, can you tell me where I can buy a decent, self-respecting cigar?"

Slowly Stump's eyes traveled from the dice box up Archie's vest to the diamond, lingered there a moment, then traveled

Very cheap, Archee-bawld, very cheap wled as he went on rattling the bon

To keep down expenses, Archie and Stump had made it a practice to work in the fachad made it a practice to work in the fac-tory a few hours every morning. While they rolled wretched tobacco into what they un-blushingly termed "cigars," a cheap boy at the retail counter sold "choice brands" at prices which varied according to the appearance of the customer.

It was half past eleven the following morning when Archie arose from his work-table, motioned for Stump to follow him, nd led the way into the store.

"Now, Mr. Tobin," said Mr. Archibald Squirks, "my great scheme has begun to commence to start to get ready to go. I have concealed in my pockets twenty-five of ligh grade cigars, made of the finest our high grade cigars, made of the finest blend of tobacco by skilled workmen in our up-to-date, sanitary, dirtless, dustless, profit-less factory. Instead of putting them into a box and pasting on a stamp sold by Uncle Sammy at monopoly prices, I simply dis-tribute them into several half-empty boxes already stamped. There! Uncle Sam will pay for my diamond in tax money he doesn't get. Go to lunch."

Stump shrugged his shoulders depre-catingly and left. When he returned a half-hour later, his face showed considerable agitation.

"Do you know them two guys who just went out?" he demanded.

"I do not!" snorted Archie; "and they don't know a good cigar from a speckled banana. They fumbled over every cigar in the case before they bought one."

"Did they ask any questions?"

"Nope. But what's the matter?"

"That big fellow is Revenue Inspector Jim Mann. The other fellow is another government sleuth. If they've been fooling around that showcase, it means they've got you spotted. They're onto your little game already."

Socks!" he wailed. "Uncie

Sammy's diamond is gone!"
"I saw it in the pin this morning when you came to work," said Stump thoughtfully, but with more curiosity than sympa-You must have lost it between the work table and the counter. We will—"

But Archie was already on hands and knees searching the floor. They hunted eagerly, then thoughtfully, then frantically. But the diamond was not found.

"Eighty-five dollars gone!" cried Archie miserably. "I am an unlucky dog. I have a great idee. It works out fine. I get the diamond. I fool the government. And then I lose the diamond—Uncle Sammy's diamond, Did you——"

mond. Did you—
"Shut up!" hissed Stump suddenly.
"Here comes them In-fer-nal Revenue men!"
Archie promptly subsided. Stump, being the more diplomatic of the two, stepped forward to greet the officers.
The Inspectors glanced over the cigars in the case. They looked at each other significantly. The fall man, whom Stump had in the case. They looked at each other sig-nificantly. The tall man, whom Stump had designated as Inspector Mann, drew back designated as inspector Mann, drew back his coat and displayed a star.

"We're Revenue officers," he said crisply.

"We are going to look over your stock."

"Welcome, gentlemen, welcome," smiled Stump Tobin. "Have a cigar."

The officers ignored the proffered cigars. "I think we'll take several before we go," said Inspector we go," said Inspector Mann, coldly.

Before the partners had recovered from that shot, the officer had examined every cigar box and tobacco caddy on the shelves.

He turned to the show case, selected five boxes, wrapped them up, and handed the package to Brown.

"I guess that's all, Brown" said he.
"We'll take them right to the office. Mr. Tobin, you and Mr. Squirks come right along and—Tut! Tut! You can talk all you want to when we see the Revenue

At the Revenue office, a little, man with steel-gray eyes examined the cigar boxes rapidly. He asked Inspector Mann for a statement of the case.

"We entered their store yesterday noon," said the officer, "and found that a few newly-made cigars had been placed in each of these boxes and." of these boxes and-

"Nope. But what's the matter?"

"That big fellow is Revenue Inspector Jim Mann. The other fellow is another government sleuth. If they've been fooling around that showcase, it means they've got you spotted. They're onto your little game already."

"Rot!" exclaimed Archie; but his face had paled slightly. "They can't get me. They bought a few cigars out of properly stamped boxes. What can they do?"

"I don't know," replied Stump thoughtfully. "I know, however, that it's mighty risky business taking cigars out of these boxes and—"

"Ho, ho," exploded Archie, half rising from his chair. "You think you're smart, don't you, Mr. Deetective? I suppose you examined them stogies with a microscope?"

"Certainly not," fared the officer. "Any fool could see that the cigars originally packed in the box showed where they had been pressed against each other, whereas those you put in yesterday were perfectly round and smooth."

Mr. Archibaid Squirks gasped and collapsed weakly back into his chair. "We pretended to blooking for a sattery premises without paying the govern-isfactory cigar," continued inspector Mann.

risky business taking cigars out of the factory premises without paying the government tax on them. You had better be care ful."

Notwithstanding this warning, more unstamped cigars were distributed the next inner, he asked if the two officers had been in. He was told that they had not.

"Maybe they didn't suspect anything.
but—" He broke off abruptly and stared at Archie's cravat. "You've lost the diamond out of your pin!"

Archie whipped the pin out of his tie and stared at it. It was true. The diamond Squirks, wealthy and thrifty cigar manufacturer, performed a very painful opera
"We pretended to be looking for a satintactory cigar," continued Inspector Manu.

"While fingering them, we marked the boxes with our fingernalis and counted the boxes contained more cigars than they did their families.

Mollie, aged 9, and Nancy, a year younger, were trying to outmatch each other at this game, and Mollie yas several points aheful in the contest.

"Oh, you should see my mother's fan!"
she boasted, thinking to make her victory what is factory with and the cigars in "each box.

tion on his wallet and handed the Agent $100, the amount of his fine. The Agent $100, the amount of his fine. The Agent returned the seized cigars, and Archie, followed by his partner, started back to their

Take these with you," said Archie husk ily, pushing the package into Stump's hands. "I'm going to see Levinsky about the rest of the payments on the diamond Stump was perched on the stool, calmly rattling the bones, when Archie returned, white-faced and trembling.

"Ah, this is a terrible day," he groaned.
"I lose my diamond. The Government fines me $100. And now, Levinsky, when he finds I have lost the gem, makes me fork over every dollar of the amount I still owed."

With an indolent flop of his big paw, Stump rolled out the dice, looked them over leisurely, then raised his face and blinked at his miserable partner.

"That was a great idee you had, Archeebawld," he droned; "but I had a better one. I brought back those cigars and tore them to pieces. Except the one I'm smoking, I ripped every one up. In the next to the ripped every one up. In the next to the last one, I found this piece of glass."

He drew a small object out of his pocket and showed it to his partner.

"My diamond!" cried Archie joyfully. "Uncle Sammy's diamond has come back. Give it to me, quick!"

"No I recken I won'!" drawled Stump.

"No, I reckon I won't," drawled Stump, as he returned the gem to his pocket, "You dropped it while at work and rolled it up in a cigar. The Government seized the cigars you had smuggled out of the factory. They were returned, not to you personally, but to the firm. Hence, according to the law, the Reviled Statutes, the Doctrine of Nux Vomica, and all others who may be consarned, the diamond is mine because I found it first."

This calm announcement left Mr. Archibald Squirks speechless. Stump Tobin's clgar slowly traveled to the other side of his mouth. Then he dragged out:
"Very cheap, Archee-bawld, very cheap."

Original Sea Serpents.

[Chicago Journal:] The national m at Washington contains a notable display of the bones of several species of extinct mammals, which, if seen alive in the ocean, mals, which, if seen alive in the ocean, would be called huge sea serpents. They were carnivorous and their long, slender jaws were armed with formidable teeth. Although a few remaining individuals of the group may have given actual basis for the sea serpent stories, these extinct animals were not reptiles, but mammals which, like the whale and seal and otter, had happened to evolve in an aquatic environment.

Ups and Downs of the Klondike. By Frank G. Carpenter.

ROMANCE OF EARLY-DAY GOLD MINING.

quantities. Pockets worth hundreds of do-lars were not uncommon. In August, 1899, in a claim on Honanza Creek, George T. Cof-fey took up two shoveifuls from which he washed sixty-three ounces of gold, worth be-tween $900 and $1000. This included three auggets, each of which was worth $100. A miner by the name of MacDonald took out $94,000 from a forty-foot patch of ground two feet in thickness, and it is said that some of the miners of Bonanza Creek were diesatisfied when gravel went less than a dollar a pan. In ordinary regions 5 cents a pan is considered good, and, as I have said, the earth they are now mining in the valleys of the Klondike and Indian rivers does not run more than 30 cents on the average to the cubic yard.

Hit Only the High Spots.

In the early days no one thought of getting out all the gold from the earth. The miners sought the rich spots only. Today every bit of the valley is being worked over winers sought the rich spots only. Today every bit of the valley is being worked over by the dredges, and that in such a way that all the precious metal is saved. In fact, you can fire your gun at a bird anywhere in the dredging ground, and be sure that the shot will be recovered when that ground is mined. You can throw a red cent into the heart of a ten-acre field that is to be upturned by these machines, knowing that the cent will come out with the gold. The Canadian 5-cent pieces are thin silver coins half as big as a nickel. These have been thrown into the fields and later on caught by the dredges. A common amusement is to take a dime, sawing it in halves, and then bet whether the dredge will reclaim one of the pieces. The man who bets in the negative holds one of the halves. The other is buried in the earth, or thrown down among the gravel and covered. Just as soon as the spot is dredged the missing half comes out with the gold.

All sorts of characters came to the Klondike in the early days. With such types as the Lucky Swede, Swift-water Bill and Frank Slavin, the prize fighter, came business and professional men from all parts of the United States. There were also correspondents and writers of one kind or another. Joaquin Miller came to mine gold and write poetry and newspaper articles. Rex Beach was here, and so was Jack London. Jack London was at one time a partner of Swift-water Bill, and it is said that the two owned a claim that eventually produced over $1,000,000 in gold.

pieces. The man who bets in the negative holds one of the halves. The other is buried in the earth, or thrown fewn among the gravel and covered. Just as soon as the spot is dredged the missing half comes out with the gold.

All sorts of characters came to the Klondike in the early days. With such types as the Lucky Swede, Swith-water Bill and Frank Slavin, the prize fighter, came bustness and professional sens from all parts of the United States. There were also correspondents and writers of one kind or another. Joaquin Miller came to mine gold and write poetry and newspaper articles. Rex Beach was here, and so was Jack London Frank Slavin, the prize fighter, came bustness of Swift-water Bill, and it is said that the two owned a claim that eventually produced over $1,000,000 in gold.

Jack London began the work on the property. He made a fire and thawed the muck on the top of the gravel, and started towork his way down. As night came on he left the tools in the soft mud. Before morning the thermometer dropped to 60 deg, below zero, and when he again started towork he would have to than out his tools and that this would burn up the handles. He left in diagust, and, as the story goes, Swift-water Bill got the money Jack London's wealth came from the liter ary material he carried away as the result of his experiences, and the ame may be said of Rex Beach, who has written so many good stories of Alaskan life.

Fortures Lost as Well as Made.

Indeed many books might be made of the ups and downs of the Klondike in those early days. Meg came here beggars and went away millionaires her body of the came of the durch was well and the province of the first week amounted a week, and him has phrase is known as "wide on your." There were scores of saleons, gambling houses and dance hall was decreased to the was more almost the work of the first week amounted to $750. The gambling houses had employees who were paid from $15 to $20 at 2000. The second of the work are sufficient to the province of the first week amounted to $75

One of the leading restaurants, which has a seating capacity of thirty-two, employed three cooks, one of whom received $100 per week, and the others $1 per hour. The waiters were both men and women, the latter receiving $100 per month. That restaurant was held in a tent, 20x40 in size, and the rent for the tent was $900 per month. A Time of Good Wanne.

A Time of Good Wages

A Time of Good Wages.

From an old bulletin of the United States Department of Labor, I have other prices and wages at Dawson in 1898. Carpenters were receiving $15, and common laborers $10 per day. Skilled woodworkers got $17 a day, and journeyman tailors $1.50 an hour. The ordinary charge for a sacque suit was $125. Barbers made from $15 to $40 a day, each receiving $5 per cent, of the receipts of his chair. Four such shops were in operation, and their prices were $1 a shave, $1.50 for a hair cut, and $2.50 for a bath.

During that winter newspapers brought in over the trail sold for $2 apiece. A weekly newspaper was started, known as the Yukon Midnight Sun, which cost $15 a year, and a little later the Klondike Nugget was issued weekly, and single copies of it cost 50 cents. Job printers got $1.50 an hour, and the charge for printing bill heads and business cards was $35 a thousand.

Banks were soon established, and they did a big business in buying gold dust and putting their notes into circulation. The first eight days after it opened its doors the Canadian Bank of Commerce bought $1,500,000 worth of gold dust. It paid $14 an ounce upon the receipt of the dust, and the balance, less certain charges, after assay. The Bank of British North America also had a branch, Both these institutions are still in Dawson, and they are buying gold dust today.

Gold Under the Bank.

Gold Under the Bank.

THE CHASE FOR AN ESCAPING MATERIALIZED IDEA.

BY MARK HARMON.

"Why not?" queried Kallister, with a grotesque, absent stare. "What are we but ideas? Ideas—"

"Nevertheless, results must coly. As for materializing thousething—" I jit a fresh cigar.

"Why not?" irritatingly. Then he lient for a long time, puffing at an ab-arge pipe.

"It can be proved," he went on obstinately, "that all creation is an idea—that thoughts are things, or, rather, that things are thoughts." His eyes, always too large, dilated excitedly as he looked at me. "It can be proved!" The frail body of the man was quivering. Small reason—over such a futile quivering. Small reason—over such a futue theory.

"No doubt you're right," I coincided. Then, changing the subject: "Where did you get hold of that image—idol—whatever it is—on the mantel there? Did the devil try to hew out a human figure as he'd like to have it? Ugh!"

Ugh!"
"It represents a half-supernatural creature inhabiting mountain forests. I don't remember the folk-lore name. The carving came to me from a university friend in Germany. It was done by a peasant lad who claimed to have seen the demon."
"What impossible, knotted arms," I interjected. "Longer than an ourang-outang's!" Kallister nodded.
"The thing was supposed to leap upon unlucky folk and strangle them. In other stories it has a vampire nature. They gave it the strength of many men and a dreadful fascination not to be resisted by a mere human."

human."

"It would be like a squat-bodied spider rushing out," I rejoined. "Think of a forest road—night—and that! Where did those old tales have their origin? Look at those fangs! Why, you can almost get an evil glimmer from the eyes! Yet very likely the peasant who did the carving never looked upon features more disturbing than his own." "As I said!" Kallister reverted to the original theme. "Literally, we create what we will."

"Eh?" I mocked. "Is it creation—to carve such devilish unrealities—and in lifeless wood, too?"

such devilish unrealities—and in lifeless wood, too?"

"What if I carve the thing in what you call flesh and blood?" he cried impetuously. "You shall see—here and now!"

They were uneasy words. What was he about to do? Apparently take a nap, for he wheeled a low couch toward the center of the room, directly in front of the fireplace. Here he stretched his slender body, his pongerous head rising oddly from the soft, black leather. In front of us a French window looked upon a lawn where scattered trees and shrubs were touched by the white light of the October moon. The window stood ajar. The room had been smoke-heavy.

Kallister had a tendency to become morbidly silent on occasion, so now I left him to his mental devices. Often the struggle with some problem seemed too much for his physical being. Suddenly he spoke—in a voice strained, yet triumphant.

"Come!" The tone was imperative. "Close—close!"

close!"
Quickly I responded. He lay motionless, arms rigid at sides, staring at that hideous gnome, looming somberly above!
"Quit that!" I said roughly. "You'll be believing it's alive! Get up and take a turn outdoors before we sleep."
He seemed not to hear. One hand came up like a mechanical pointer, the index finger tense—expectant.

Something alid off the head of the couch, striking the floor with a thud. Afterward it ran clumsily by my feet, throwing one backward glance from two weltering, red coals as it scuttled through the window. Kallister was sitting up.

"Where is it?" he cried. "Don't let it get was sitting up.

"Where is it?" he cried. "Don't let it get away, man!"

"Gone!" Sweat was cold on my forehead.

My teeth chattered. "Out the window. Something went out the window, Kallister,"

I repeated dumbly. "Something with awful

The black speck kept its distance until we had passed the last house and were following the rounded curve of the first high hill. It grew larger. We were gaining—or was it marking time? As we lost sight of human dwellings it resembled a horribly large toad running along on its hind feet.
There is an abandoned shaft on the side of the second hill. The tunneled opening, dark even in daytime, pierces into the depths perhaps 200 feet above the road. The entrance is visible through a vista of sines.
The blotch scrambled up the ascent with incredible swiftness. Kallister started after. "Don'ti" I begged, my voice a husky scream. "It'll go into that hole. We'll break our necks! Give it up—let it go!"
He turned a weird face toward me.
"Stay if you like!" he rasped out. "I must follow—it's mine—my own thought!"
"It's unclean—it's ugly, Kailister! It'll get you for sure! Why didn't you think something right? It'll get you!" I quavered.
Violently he shook himself free, but I was at his hepis until we were within twenty yards of the place where it waited. The mouth of the tunnel was a daub of black on the cold white panel of the hill. All at once Kallister! There came a terrible, strangling gurgle out of the echoing hole.
"Kallister!" I shrieked. "Kallister!"
Then, after a deadly silence—"Kallister!"
Listening, I could hear—for a time—the dragging of something heavy, down into the recesses of the mine.

Stock in Trade.

Stock in Trade.
[Youth's Companion:] "Where's Mr. The voice was brusque and peremptory;

the kind of voice that made the one ad-dressed—if he were of ordinary flesh and blood—instantly antagonistic. Yet Sally Lambert, leaving her typewriter and stepping across to the railing, answered as if the request had been made with the finest Freda Scoville, at her own typewrites, watched the scene with puzzled eyes. It was the third time within a week that Sally had Freda Scoville, at her own typewriter, watched the scene with puszied eyes. It was the third time within a week that Sally had gone out of her way to be courteous in the face of rudeness. Only a month age she would have snapped off the head of anyone who spoke to her like that; and now she only looked amused. Freda's curiosity was at the boiling point.

She satisfied it the next day. Sally's "chum," who worked for Morgan & Morgan on the floor below, happened to be out with the grip and Sally walked home alone. Freda overtook her in a few steps.

"Sally Lambert," she cried, "I've got to know! I shall have nervous propitration if I don't. Are you in love?"

"In love!" Sally echoed. Her bewilderment was so genuthe that Freda promptly abandoned her useless theory.

"Then what has come over you? I never saw anyone so changed in my life. Two weeks ago you'd have given that man who came in yesterday as good as he gave—or better! But you went out of your way to be nice to him. You're doing it all the time!"

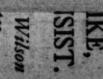

Sally looked at her eagerly. "Have I changed like that?" she semanded.

"I should say you had," Freda retorted.

Sally drew a long breath, and a quisnical little amile curved her mouth.

"Mr. Winthrop called me down," she said. "He told me that my work was good, but that my manner antagonized people, and that I never could get ahead unless I changed it. I was furious. I almost resigned then and there; but I couldn't trust my voice. And meantime he talked on. He told me that I had common sense; that courtesy was one of the most valuable business assets; that there was no reason in the world why I couldn't make my stock is trade as large as I wished. It was a matter of watchfulness and practice, that was sall. I didn't believe it. I know I was brusque—we all are; it runs in the family. I decided to prove that I couldn't be anything else!"

Bally stopped and the quiszical smile deep-coultry Aphorisms.

Hetter try to prevent the presence of hetters when with them. The bird that visits the melchious his hence to the bene when with them. The bird that visits the melchious yards, contented one is usually the laying bird that visits the melchious yards, contented one is usually the laying bird the try to prevent the presence of Avoid the caretaers when with them. The bird that visits the melchious south the manifest of the may lead to tree as a several breeds it should not have a supported in the contents of the prevent the manifest of the may lead to tree and of helphority troubles and action of helphority troubles and actions of helphority troubles are actions of helphority troubles and actions of helphority troubles are actions of helphority troubles and actions of helphority troubles are actions of helphority troubles and actions of helphority troubles are actions of helphority troubles are actions of helphority troubles and actions of helphority troubles are actions of helphority troubles.

finores and Ancona breeders. The figures er; such bears can be kept tor larging but researched cover the summary for the year, the cockeres had breeding pen a Housenied cover the summary for the year, the cockeres had breeding pen a Housenie, the presents conditions has a handsome cred; nor one with four the manes. What have our Minores toes instead of five.

Don't use a trown Logicum that is more seriously way.

Don't use a trown Logicum that is more pecialists to say in rebuttal?

Don't use a trown Logicum that is more pecialists to say in rebuttal?

EXHIBITING EAST OF THE GREAT DIVIDE.

Widening Our Markets. By Henry W. Kruckeberg.

NE of our prominent and successful breeders of Mediterraneans asked the writer one day this week how many blue ribbons California exhibitors would have to win at New York's Madison Square Garden show to make the venture profitable. In more ways than one, that is an elastic question, depending upon a number of factors and conditions for a same and safe opinion. Something would depend on the breed and variety to be exhibited. If one that is universally popular and in general demand over a wide area of country, we should want to win not less than three blue ribbons on a string of birds filling their particular class. To win less than this number would give some other exhibitor a running chance to win an equal number of firsts, who would undoubtedly be several hundreds of miles nearer his market than the Californian, thus in an advantageous position to dispose of stoceby reason of less than three firsts would not give the California exhibitor the edge over his eastern competitor. Obviously the larger the winnings the greater the advantages in the way of newspaper publicity, which has a value beyond any direct sales larger the winnings the greater the advantages in the way of newspaper publicity, which has a value beyond any direct sales that the showroom might afford. To capture only one or two firsts would hardly make a sensational impression on the secular press, though in poultry journalism it would command the recognition that its importance merits; in the farm weeklies and in the dailies it would not, in our judgment, be sufficiently weighty to be featured by illustrations of the bird and appropriate word descriptions of the winning specimens. And since liberal publicity is the breath of business life to the winning exhibitor, it is always of the first ing exhibitor, it is always of the first mportance that he make a killing in his alley. Really this has a value beyond immediate sales in the showroom and any cash awards that his exhibit may win. Hence the importance of going in for first blood.

To enter the competing classes in a big national show is no child's play. penses are usually heavy, particularly for California breeders who enter the New York and Boston shows, our two really ational fixtures. Beyond the care in breed-ng and grooming the birds, the transportation charge are always an ... portant item, to which must be added the cost of a personal attendant to and from the show, for certainly no one would go into an enter-prise of such magnitude without the per-sonal supervision of some one who "knew the birds" intimately, hence be in a posi-tion to maintain them in the pink of con-dition. The venture would also call for a few reserve specimens of both sexes, for few reserve specimens of both sexes, for fear that here and there a bird of the original selection may arrive out of con-dition, or meet with some untoward ac-cident while in transit. These contingen-cies should be carefully considered by Pacific Coast breeders who have the itch-ing palm to win at Madison Square. It is indeed a great game. To win on a popular breed is glorious, but to lose—aye, there's the rub. But this applies to all shows, the difference being one of degrees rather than fact.

On the other hand, we are firmly of the On the other hand, we are firmly of the opinion that a New York winning that will predominate on a popular breed will prove a splendid investment for even a California breeder with sufficient stock to draw from to supply the increased demand that it will stimulate. But the venture should be approached with caution and judgment. To proached with caution and judgment. To go against the best that there is in the United States and Canada also demands an abiding faith in the quality of one's breed and strain. If the corpuscles in your blood are red, and your sporting proclivities can lose as cheerfully and as bouysatily as they can win, this game is one to enlist your best ambitions, and to all who take the plunge while the water is fine, the Times Illustrated Weekly glories in their spunk and extends them the right hand of fellowship with the hope that the California birds capture the major portion of the blue birds capture the major portion of the blue ribbons.

THE PETALUMA AUTOMOBILE TRAILER.

Wherever an industry finds its greatest development, there also will be found the facilities for carrying it on economically and with efficiency. Thus many of the larger poultry plants in the Petaluma district not only enjoy automobiles, but they have added to their usefulness by the addition of two-wheeled trailers, as shown in the illustration, the upper view indicating the poultryman leaving his ranch, the trailer loaded with cases of eggs, and the lower one ready for the return trip with a load of feed and supplies. By this means he secures cheap transportation without in the least encroaching on the general usefulness of the machine. Obviously the utility of these trailers for the transportation of farm and orchard products and supplies must commend itself to every owner of an automobile who may be engaged in agricultural operations.

off-colored Blue Andalusians, and this eggs of each clutch separate or marked spring made up two pens, one with seven alike. In each clutch of thirteen eggs that black (12 to 15 months old) hens with a hatch is expressed the certainty of the regular white Andalusian cock of the sa age, and from the same pen of regular all-blue fowls, I also made up another pen composed of eight white hens, same age as the above, with a black cock a few months older. I have a number of incubator chickolder. I have a number of incubator chickens from these two pens mixed with others from regular blues, but I selected twenty-four eggs, and with two broody hens set them, which brought out twenty chicks, two of which perished, hence I have at present out of this lot eighteen fine chicks all blue, but of course they are of various shades; but none are black or with and black or white feathers. The stock from black or white feathers. The stock from which these wasters were bred is considered the leading strain in this part of the country. My original birds came from Mrs. Griffith about six years ago and I have replenished the blood with a new cock about every other season from the same strain.

"This is as far as I have gone along lines whereby I might determine whether a permanent blue color could be produced in the Andalusians that would 'stay put,' and from reading the article by Alice Harper in last Sunday's Times Illustrated Weekly, I thought you might be able to give me sime information that would help in taking the next step. I trust I have made myself sufficiently plain so that you can see inst where I am at, and if you can give me any advice that will help I will be greatly obliged. I am willing to carry along a pen or two of these chickens for several years without any thought of gain and will thresh out this problem if possible.

To this letter our valued correspondent alike. In each clutch of thirteen eggs that hatch is expressed the certainty of the breed. If in each clutch, there is one white hen and one black cock, or one black hen and one white cock, there is a certainty of blue fowls if these are mated. If one and one white cock, there is a certainty of blue fowls if these are mated. If one breeds a blue hen to a blue cock, he must keep the clutch of eggs separate and incubate them all. If they all hatch, there has to be half as many blacks as blues, and half as many whites as blues, because so many combinations as to color are possible and obligating upon that clutch of eggs, and from the black and white fowl come the best blue Andalusians. The scientific breeder does not breed the blues at all, because they throw all shades of blue and not an even intense blue.

"The only way the Mendelian can tell what eggs to incubate is to keep a pure strain of black and white birds coming on all the time. The blacks and whites will forever breed true, and one can have pens of blacks and pens of whites for breeding best blues, and then he can know what he is getting. To select twenty from eggs from a pen of Andalusians one might think he had a fast color because all his chickens were blue or bluish, the Mendelian knows he happened to choose unfortunately for the future of his flocks.

"When all the eggs of one clutch do not betch, or when there e more than thirteen eggs in the clutch, it is not easy to see the Mendelian law work, but one who has watched the law in operative. In breeding any breed of fowls, it is not scientific to breed by pens but by individuals of a pen, birds capture the major portion of the blue ribbons.

To this letter our valued correspondent any breed of fowls, it is not scientific to halloe Harper replies as follows:

"To breed Andalusians with certainty and here is where the mistake is made. If the model have of July 29, A. J. Corey, a heritance, one must not study pens but fact it is misleading to speak of a breeding funcior and breeder of Blue Andalusians, individual heas. The type depends upon pen, unless one means a pen of idle writes as follows touching an experiment individual valor. The Mendellan possibilibreeders care-taken as a colony while idle. "In breeding bearing on the Mendellan law: ties are stored in the one clutch that "I see no way to help Mr. Corey with hatches, and a scientific breeder keeps the Mendellan because he did not breed by utch of hen, but selected eggs from dif-Talle and Comba

Talis and Combs.

In a recent issue the editor of Farm Poultry asks the question of Charles Barron and George A. Cosgrove, both strong advocates of egg-laying contests and excessive fecundity: "Will Mr. Barron or Mr. Cosgrove say that the good layers are invariably squirrel-tailed? Will they say that the greatest layers have the worst squirrel tails, and the most unsightly combs?" The question brings up some curlous phenomena. What influence tails and combs have on good performances we have no means of knowing, though it has been commented on that good layers often carry tails and combs that are anything but standard in shape and carriage. Birds in a wild state usually carry their tails at an angle that is considered low, though, to our notion, a low-tailed bird always carries an impression of cowardice and want of vigor and stamina. Your fighting Games invariably carry the tail high, but are not in the laying classes. Long, keel-shaped bodies—the type of the good layers—signify low tails; but even in this direction there is a limit. In some of the types of Leghorns and Minorcas the tendency to low tails has been somewhat overdone, leading to a race of birds that are almost anaemic. Pictures of heavy-laying hens at the egg-laying contests often show high squirrel tails, and also large combs. both of which are at variance with the rules and specifications laid down in the standard. Does this imply that low tails and standard combs are inimical to proliffeness?

The Ancona versus the Black Minorca.

by all you the sho mis hes tur cen dia as interest a depth of in grant g

dik the Fra nes

res oth and Res don ner the duc

ert; on wor left ing low wor his har stor Jac

The Ancona versus the Black Minorca.

From a report of the Missouri egg-laying ontest we learn that 100 pounds of feed contest we learn that 100 pounds of feed produced 300 eggs when fed to Anconas; 268 when fed to Leghoras; 251, Wyandottes; 230, Orpingtons; 225, Campines; 203, Minorcas; 201, Rhode Island Reds; 188, Plymouth Rocks; 179, Langshans. Furthermore, when all the eggs were weighed it showed that the Anconas laid the largest eggs of all the breeds tested; and also the largest percent, of eggs during December, January, February, March, April and May. In the face of the fact that the S. C. Black Minorcas have long enjoyed the distinction of laying the largest eggs, the above testimony

MIDLAND FOOD No. 2

The Wonderful Chick Grower If you want your chicks to develop quickly and grow strong, there is nothing made equal to Midland No. 2 for making young chicks into fine young pullets as quickly as Midfand No. 2.

Try It and Be Convinced.
Price Per Sack $2.25.
Aggeler & Musser Seed Co.
115 North Main Street

Hauser's Organic Fertilizers

Ground Tankage—Dried Blood. Fine Blood Meal—Bone Meal-Ground Sheep Manure. Commercial Fertilizer... Commercial Fertilizer... Nitrogen and Phosphoric Acid derived from organic sources only. Car Loads or Less. Write for prices.

HAUSER PACKING CO.

BALED SHAVINGS 25c BALE Clean, sifted. No dust. No redwood. For an orchard muich, extite bedding, chicken nests or scratching material. MILLER HIVE & BOX CO.

Los Angeles, California

Home 10439 201 North Avenue 18 East 118

[216]

President ven represents railrend em Congrese part de prevent the bed by a strik brotherhood present $0 peac. The first and or large pet in a few days as the strike per large pet in a few days and the strike pet large pet larg

as our attitile condition in the first tile condition
of the Condition
were first by a fo make
of the Condition
were first by a fo make
of the Condition
were first ty to secure the railroad
of rights and
rights and
rights and railroad on the series of de concession you swand
a railed you to whether of Mr. Garret anagers want tration things for for thirty the mediation
yo, Judge Wilod G. W. W. whether
the railroad
agree tomorat announced art they would agree tomorat they would agree tomor-

T ONE corner of the Capitol grounds . "We!" Interposed Jane in faint denial, eddies of Growd did not bother—a buge the bill from the camp. T would not bother a crowd of electrons the protection of electrons are into the was lonesome. They had scraped account the protection of the was lonesome. They had scraped account the protection of the cleanest two months ago on this very corner in the protection of steady, hard of manifest of the handy manifest or tomorrow—not particularly. And care of the handy manifest of the hand of steads, hard would make a heap of difference to her to the pose sate over to be protected of an angelia of the pose sate over the protection of steads, hard would make a heap of difference to her to the pose sate over to be protected of the pose sate over the protection of steads and smile dispersion." It would make a heap of difference to her to the pose sate over the protection of steads and smile dispersion, and you it has could hand it could make a heap of difference to her to the pose sate over the protection of steads and smile dispersion, and the could have the could make th

Unexpected Developments. By Mark Harmon.

THE DOWN GENTLEMAN AND THE OUTLADY

FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC FISCAL AFFAIRS.

Industries After the War. Compiled from The Americas."

In the leading article, Wifliam S. Kies, vice-president of the bank, writes of "The American Investor and the Opportunity in Poreign Financing." He says:

"The manufacturing industries of the War damages to all property in parts of the in us war zone have appeared from men of some authority in Europe.

"The manufacturing industries of the United States are approaching a point where they will soon find it a problem how to make good use of facilities that have been required and paid for out of extraordinary wrofits during the last year and a half of mormously remunerative war business.

"This country was never before in anying like the strong industrial position, as gegards well-constructed plants able to turn ut great volumes of product, at low unit agest volumes of product, at low unit obtains, as now. Many of our best industrial maganies handled munitions business, or one contracts for supplying extraordinary miness on a wise basis whenever any incase of business of buildings or machinery is necessary, on terms such as to enable on to pay for the increase immediately to fithe profits, on the theory that the surplant capacity could be 'scrapped' after abnormal demand was over.

The earnings of some of these companies to been such as to have been in Gamman and the first thirty-two days of Seigium and the first thirty-two days of

out of the profits, on the theory that the surplus plant capacity could be 'scrapped' after the abnormal demand was over.

"The earnings of some of these companies have been such as to have permitted the declaration of dividends as high as 40 to 50 per cent, had the profits been distributed to stockholders. But the managements of these companies have pursued a sound, conservative financial policy. They have not declared extravagant dividends but have been content to make amall increases in the rate. The large extra profits have been used by them in well-distributed permanent improvements which will hereafter mean a reduction in costs of normal production.

"We have also done something in the way of a permanent expansion of the sales of our manufactured articles abroad, and this expansion of export can be counted upon as a progressive growth. However, the industries and the business community of this nation capacit afford to nesslevi any appropriate.

progressive growth. However, the industries and the business community of this nation cannot afford to neglect any opportunity to increase the foreign outlet for its manufactures. With the right kind of co-operative effort between labor, capital and our government, it will not be an impossible undertaking for America to make a foreign market big enough to absorb every pound and every follar's worth of the full capacity which we have got for virtually no expenditure of the ordinary capital of the country. If the manufacturing and investment public will rise to the opportunity we can not only draw a permanently increased income from what we gained so cheaply, but we can push the national productive ability to a still higher level.

"There has never before been an oppor-nity such as the present one for leaders of justry and careful investors to utilize the relus and momentum of a period of high-ak business activity in this country in con-mation of prosperity." Justrice After the War.

An especially valuable article is one on "What Will be Required to Rehabilitate Europe's Industries." This is the result, as announced, of a painstaking study of conditions. It is too comprehensive to be adequately quoted, but a few salient features can be presented:

"Europe has before it, when the war ends, a work of hurried rehabilitation of crippled industries on a scale the largeness of which few perhaps realize. There is the war area in France and in Belgium, 19,595 square

HE July number of The Americas, the masterly financial and industrial publication issued by the National City steel construction materials, cement, lumber, and of New York, contains a comprehensive etc., that Europe will need, or even of the rvey of our domestic and foreign financial total amounts of capital represented in the oblems.

In the leading article, William S. Kies, of Belgium and the first thrity-two days of View Regarding Mexico," The Americas the war, in Belgium, at a round billion dollars.

"R. Billiard, an economist, stated December only a certain amount of Latin sympathy 15, 1914: "Ten billion francs will suffice to preconstruct our cities, our means of transportation, our destroyed factories and to indemnify us for our commercial losses and for those by theft.

"However, a practical forecast of what Europe is going to do in rehabilitation, and what will be needed for it, is something different from an estimate of war losses based on costs and conditions at the time of the invasion. Conditions and costs have changed. There is likely to be more detruction of buildings. But even if there is not more destruction, it is generally believed by practical men here that the end of the war will find the machinery in factories that have been in German hands of very little further use, if it is there at all. It is common report that what textile machinery in factories that the end of the further use, if it is there at all. It is common report that what textile machinery in factories that the end of the further use, if it is there at all. It is common report that what textile machinery in factories the head of congresses do not obtain wide enough publicity. It would have to be told that South American sepole believe that it is a necessary to the security of the sovereignty of their states to have a strong, independent state situated where says:

"It would be easy to count up these de mands on the production capacity of Europe and upon its remaining supply of capital, by rough estimates, to well beyond $5,000,000."

"It would be easy to count up these de mands on the production capacity of Europe and upon its remaining supply of capital, by rough estimates, to well beyond $5,000,000."

"It would be easy to count up these de mands on the production capacity of Europe and upon its remaining supply of capital, by rough estimates, to well beyond $5,000,000."

"It would be easy to coun regarding various industries, the writer says:

"It would be easy to count up these demands on the production capacity of Europe and upon its remaining supply of capital, by rough estimates, to well beyond $5,000,000,000. In attempting to judge how much of the machinery and other industrial reconstruction Europe may try to provide without calling upon American industry every one of these other demands counts for its full value. Every laborer, every tool, every dollar used to rebuild houses or reads, or to rehabilitate agriculture subtracts directly so much from the resources of men, material and capital for quick restoration of the manufacturing industries. It seems reasonable to expect that American industries will be called on to do a very large amount of the rebuilding of factories and railroads. In fact, European business interests expect it to be so and are already making inquiries."

It is shown that Chile is recovering pros-

Reports from Chile indicate a stee reports from Chile indicate a steady improvement in the business and financial situation. The country is feeling the handicap of shortage of ocean shipping and practical georg are being made to improve things in this regard. Private lines of ships owned by American interests are arranging increased service. A new company is to enter the compiled from The Americas.*

China's record year for exports, in spite of interference with shipping. Demand for stilk, tea, natural dyes, antimony and other Chinese products, also higher prices, raised the total of exports. A drop in imports was a ecounted for by a boy-cot of Japanese goods and by the fact that, owing to shortage of dyestuffs, colored cottons were not obtainable in usual quantities and at reasonable prices, and as white is the mouraing color in China, the undyed materials could not be marked.*

Referring to the "Latin-American Point of the States of t

Up to July 1 the total production of the 1915-16 sugar crop in Cuba was 2,857,973 tons, of which 2,134;813 tons had been exported, 47,177 tons consumed in the country and 675,984 tons remaining on hand, grind-ing operations still being continued by four-teen centrals, principally located in the east-ern end of the island. The corresponding figures at the same period in the years 1914 and 1915 were as follows: Centrals Produc-Experts Consump-Stock.

the resources of men, material and capital for quick restoration of the manufacturing industries. It seems reasonable to expect that American industries will be called on to do a very large amount of the rebuilding of factories and railroads. In fact, European business interests expect it to be so and are already making inquiries."

Reviewing the news of international commerce The American refers to the economic pact of the allies, the full text of which is published. As remarked editorially, "the document must be read through in its entirety to be appreciated." Three paragraphs are of particular importance:

""" the allies will complete the messures aiready taken.

"By making the grant of licenses for expectal guarantees such as the limits to enemy territories might take place conditional upon the existence in such countries of control organizations approved by the allies; or, in the absence of such organizations, by allied consular officers, etc."

"The allies declare themselves agreed to conserve for the allied countries, before all of service. A new company is to enter the expect that the compania such amplies that Chilean capital is not idle it and 1915 were as follows:

"To show that Chilean capital is not idle it to service by rail.

"To show that Chilean capital is not idle it to grad that the Compania Sud American and Paporose to build eight vessels for fortnightly argue have asked the coverament to guarantees a loan of 2,500,000 pounds sterling with which it proposes to build eight vessels for fortnightly are profused that the Compania Sud American de Expercis de profuse of which, however, will not be available of roftinging during the piel-for grinding during the piel-for grinding during the profuse overament to guarantee a loan of 2,500,000 pounds sterling with which it proposes to build eight vessels for fortnightly average are are areal subscended as profuse of principal subscended as profuse of the full text of which is profuse a loan of 2,500,000 pounds as the limits of the full text of which is

Dest-known scenic item you would probhat it man and the burried out of the year.

The clarks of Liberty, which item to a the clarks of the clarks of Liberty, which item to a the clarks of the clark of the clarks of the clarks

Realism and the Camera Man. By Owen Rhoades.

WHY THE FILM WENT INTO THE DISCARD.

" 'Bhoes,' replied the ambassador,
" 'Lemme see 'em.'
"The major opened the sack and displayed his stock. The voter looked at the shoes hungrily. "What you doing with 'em?' he asked.

"'Just my fit,' he says; 'what do you want just thinking that you might want to go over be nice for you to walk in.'

"You bet, they would; I'll be there, and thank you very much, Tom.'

"They shook hands, and Maj. Moody

"'By the way, Simpson,' he said, 'Bill Moberly is standing for the Legislature. He gave me the shoes to pan around so the fel-lows could get out to vote.'

the wearers of the new shoes were to vote for—he didn't need to. The settlement went for—he didn't need to. The settlement went solid for Moberly. Every pair of shoes fetched a vote, and two lame men rode in on the horse the major had thoughtfully provided. Moberly's majority was almost exactly the same as the number of pairs of shoes distributed over the settlement. The thing became known after the election, and all thought it was a terribly clever scheme. They didn't call it bribery and corruption; they spoke of it as 'lectioneering."

until death. It was during the Civil War, when the national forces were quartered in Ington has long since gone off the map.

Macon, in command of Gen. Lewis Merrill.

The oddest lectioneering campaign, howmerrill was merciless in his method of ever, was in the 50's, when Frederick Row"stamping out the rebellion." He ordered land and Roderick Shackleford were runthe execution of ten Confederate prisoners, some mere boys who hardly knew what war was a Democrat, well educated, a fine talkwas, and told Maj. Moody, who commanded the militia, to take his men and burn up old Bloomington, the county seat, a town from shy of those accomplishments of statecraft

"Attamping out the rebellion." He ordered land and Roderick Shackleford were runthe execution of ten Confederate prisoners, ning for the State Legislature. Rowland
"Aw, you're fooling!"

"The settler did so, and strutted about which the first companies for the Confederate prisoners, who hardly knew what was as Democrat, well educated, a fine talk was, and told Maj. Moody, who commanded er, and in every way qualified for the posttion. Shackleford, who was a Whig, was
"You but, thinking that you might want to go over to wer it. He knew everybody in Bloomington. One day a farmer came in thank you very much, Tom."

"Top bot, they would, I'll be there, and thank you very much, Tom."

"They shook hands, and Maj. Moody tothe order and studied to leave.

"They shook hands, and Maj. Moody
the idea that saved Bloomington from that the way, Simpson, he said, 'Bill Moberty is wtanding for the Legislature, He leave me the shoes to pan around so the fellows could get out to vote."

"The major didn't say anything about who the wearers of the new shoes were to vote out—he would run for the Legislature, and bodied up a plan that would beat the torch
the wearers of the new shoes were to vote out and the major to the Missing days. In the morning out the rebellion." He ordered prisoners, ning for thes talk was, and told Maj. Moody, who commanded er, and in every way qualified for the posttion. Shackleford were runthe millis, to take his men and durn up old
the millis, to take his men and durn up old
the millis, to take his men and durn up old
the millis, to take his men and durn up old
the millis, to take his men and durn up old
the millis, to take his men and durn up old
the millis, to take his men and durn up old
the millis, to take his men and durn up old the says; what do you want to which the first companies for the Confederate prisoners, and then up on the horse are major to which the first him and the representation. Shackleford and to was a long to the first millis, to take his men and durn up old the millis, to

Some of the Legislators favored the scheme, but there was a red-whiskered chap from St. Louis who insisted on asking the Repre-St. Louis who insisted on asking the Representative from Macon county all sorts of questions, and when he got through he offered this amendment:

"Resolved, that instead of this State build-

"Resolved, that instead of this State building a river up to Bloomington we move that town down to a river the Lord has already built. It will be $2,000,000 cheaper."

In the laugh that followed, Shackleford's waterway bill went to its eternal sleep.
But he had kept faith with his people.

ngs War Has Introduced.

Germans introduced liquid fire.
Germans introduced asphyxiating gas.
Germans introduced lachrymose vapors.
French introduced air torpedoes disharged from seroplanes.
French introduced aeroplanes carrying は一個情報を

Germans introduced merchantman subarines. British introduced use of nets in trapping submarines.

Italians introduced avalanche warfare, creating avalanches by shellfire.
French and British invented antigas

Germans introduced steel arrows dis-charged from aeroplanes.—[Baltimore Star.

[Birmingham Age-Herald:] "Pa, what's the amende honorable?"

"That's the kind of apology, son, that makes the man to whom you offer it want to

The Daily Married Life of Helen and Warren.

BY MABEL HERBERT URNER.

HAT has be to offer you?" reasoned Helen. "He's thoroughly irresponsible. He can't give you a home—you admit he can hardly support himself."

"Oh, I know all that-and more," said Laurs, bitterly, stabbing with a hatpin the tell-draped sailor hat she had thrown on the couch beside her. "You can't tell me anything about him that I don't know. I've no illustons."

"You mean you're going to marry a man you can't even respect—just because in a foolish schoolgirl way you think you're in love with him?"

"I was in love with him. I'm not sure

"Laura, you're hopeless! I don't understand you any more. You haven't been your self for weeks."
"Longer than that—four months, to be exact." Then, with a tense abruptness:
'I've heard you say you don't expect women to be wholly truthful, that they all resort en to be wholly truthful, that they all resort to small evasions. But suppose someone you were fond of was untruthful in a big way, that her whole life was a lie—could you still be fond of her?"

"I don't think I understand," faitered Helen, with a rush of torturing suspicions.

"Suppose you found that for months I've been deceiving you. Could you forgive that?"

"Laure you don't mean—"

"Laura, you don't mean——"
"I've been married to Ed Marsten for over four months."

Through the open window came the rumbling street sounds, the lessening rumble of the early evening. Helen, sitting by her dressing-table, was bending double a flexible nail file. Her pressure tightened and the thin steel broke.

"Four months!" dasedly. "Then you were afready married the night you d'ued here

"He couldn't support me—and it would hurt my work if it were known that I was "And he was willing for this secrecy?"

with swift scorn for the man who would take a wife under such conditions. "Oh, no," wearily. "But what could he do

—he hasn't worked three weeks in six months. His people give him $50 a month —it doesn't pay for-his clothes."

"But, Laura, he's clever enough; he CAN ork. Surely he—"

"Oh, he speaks three or four languages and knows all the social tricks, but he can't hold down a steady job at $15 a week."

"You really mean you don't care as you did?" startled at the stinging note of con-

"Yet you're living with him?"
"I lived with him just two weeks. You learn a lot about a man in two-weeks, after you're married. Any infatuation I had for him—well, he's about killed all that. Now he's bounding me to come back to film," drawing a crumpled note from her waist. "He sent this by messenger last night:"

"I'm respecting your wish not to come to the house, but you must come to me. I'm waiting here at the Fiftleth street station, uptown sfile. Laura, I've got to see you. I saw Gardner today, and he's going to land, that job for me at $40 a week. I'll show you I can make good. Give me another chance. I swear I haven't drank a drop for three days. But, if you fail me tonight—well, you'd better come, that's all. ED."

"The first part isn't so bad," discriminated Helen, "but I don't like that threat. Did you go?"

. "Yes; and he'd been drinking. Oh. if I "I'm respecting your wish not to come t

. 'Yes; and he'd been drinking. Oh, if I could believe anything he tells me—but it's "The maid's out—I'll have to go," start-him," frowned Warren, as they returned to ing up at a peal of the door-bell. Then, at the library. "Looks like he's hanging the sound of heavy steps, "Oh, Warren's around much as ever." going. Who can it be; it's after 9," glanc-"I think he's asked her to marry him,"

Mumbling voices from the hall, and Warn called, curtly:

"Mr. Marsten to see Laura."

All the color left her face.

"How did he know you were here?" whis-

"Mrs. Burrows knew, but I didn't think she'd tell him. Oh, I can't see him—I don't "You'll have to now that he's here."

"Oh, he mustn't know that you know," excitedly. "He'll feel free to tell every

"Then go in quick, so he won't think you're talking about him."
"Come in with me; you do the talking," dragging Helen after her.
In the library Warren was making a an the library warren was making a desultory effort to entertain Ed Marsten, whom be thoroughly disliked. With forced cordiality Helen greeted him.

"I hope I haven't intruded," with easy grace. "They told me Miss Wilson was here, and I thought I'd stop by and take her home."

home."

The next few moments would have been awkwardly constrained had it not been for the inquiring entrance of Pussy Purr-Mew.

"Oh, here comes that wonderful cat." He stooped to stroke her.

Usually most diffident with strangers, she rubbed purringly against his hand. "There must be something good in him," thought Helen, "to attract animals."

In a dark, foreign way he was undeniably

In a dark, foreign way he was undeniably handsome. Tall, slender, faultiessly groomed, he carried himself with careless

"I think he's asked her to marry him," hesitated Helen.

hesitated Helen.

"Marry him!" Why, he can't make enough to buy his cigars. Laura's a fool in some things, but she'll not throw herself away on a dub that's all front. I'm glad we gave it to her straight that night at Shan-

Helen was at the window, staring down at the corner street light that blurred an orange haze through the darkness. Knowing his intolerance of any form of deception, she shrank from telling him the truth. And yet if she was to help Laura, if furthur complications should arise, he would have to know.

"Dear," twisting the shade cord, "she's so lonely—she's had such a long, discouraging struggle. I can understand how she might be persuaded to marry just for companionship, for some one to—to hold to!"

Well he's got about as much stability to for want of an adequate comparison. "And ahe won't get anybody else while he's dang-ling around."

ling around."

"Oh, it's so hard to tell you," coming over to a low stool by his chair. "Dear, can't you guess? Haven't you noticed a change in her?"

"Eh? Whai're you driving at?" loathing any form of indirectness.

"They've been married for four months."

Without looking up, Helen waited for his caustic, merciless denouncing of Laura's deception. For several seconds he said nothing at all; then he reached for his paper with a brief: paper with a brief:
"Bigger fool than I thought her."

"Four months!" dasedly. "Then you were afready married the night you d'aed here and he came to take you home?"

"The position, too; you mean that isn't gloves, tensely anxious to leave at once. She had hardly glanced at Marsten.

"No; we were married the next day."

"Yet he seems to care for you," re-readboth Warren and I had that talk with you and I begged you not to see him again."

Laura, still pale, was drawing on her

"Don't you think Laura's looking thin?

asked Helen, pointedly.

"The next day! The very next day after both Warren and I had that talk with you

"That's the strange part. He does love sh'll never take a day off."

"No; my landlady has an unreasonable to have her board money every how fond I am of her—and, oh, I want to me about it—I'm so worried. You know how fond I am of her—and, oh, I want to lie low. She's made a blooming mess of the difficulties that had con"That seems to be a falling of most land."

Through all the difficulties that had con"That seems to be a falling of most land."

Though all the difficulties that had con"That seems to be a falling of most land."

Though all the difficulties that had con"That seems to be a falling of most land."

"They were in the hall now, and the destruggle, Helen had stood leysily by her. scending elevator hurried their leave-takBut before the overwhelming disaster of ing.

"Thought you said she wasn't speing [copyright, 1914, by McClure Newspaper syeal.]

[215]

Industries After the War. Compiled from The Americas."

OKEICH AND DOMESTIC FISCAL AFFAIRS.

THE DOWN GENTLEMAN AND THE OUT LAD

Unexpected Developments. By Mark Harmon.

A T ONE corner of the Capitol grounds an avenue empties a crowd of electrics and limousines into the intersection of two busy streets. It is a kind of over's lane where trim, flirtatious runabouts corn the protection of steady, hard-working, espectable motor trucks and smile distintly at the ogling of plethoric touring cars.

There are some trees—a formal row—and tantly at the ogling of plethoric touring cars.

There are some trees—a formal row—and furniture in the shape of criss-cross—very cross—and uncomfortable wire benches. Mellow Jake, of the curb news stand, was interested enough in the couple on the second bench to talk about them to his own idle ears. Mellow Jake wore slightly shaded goggles, perhaps to soften the giare of the world at large, but he had never missed anything at all worth seeing in his fifteen years at that stand.

"He's It!" he muttered. "His last bone faded away a long time since. He ain't got thing at all worth seeing in his fifteen years at that stand.

"He's It!" he muttered. "His last bone faded away a long time since. He ain't got a thing to soak. He ain't got the price of a shave or a shine, and," surveying the object of his interest carefully from behind the goggles, "he ain't had breakfast ner lunch. Now her," cautiously, "y' can't be too sure about a woman. Sometimes when ones of 'em has gone I'r a week stretch with nothin' 'cept what abe can pick up at them demonstration booths in the big stores, she'll sit lookin' fr all the world like she'd just sent the chauffeur around the block with the gold fish to give the dear creatures a breath of fresh air. But y' can gamble this here girl is hungry. They're a pair. And he's in love! It'd be spoon time I'r true if there was anything to fill the spoons. Not a badlookin' couple," grunted the speaker "Course he's nothin' but-a tail guy with a big mouth and bigger ears. That's all a man ever is. But her now," (Mellow roamed along the paper covers for the right comparison.) "why, she's as pretty as that girl on the Pligrim Magasine—though not so much on exhibition. She's got more hair, an' it's a good fast black. She sits up straight like a lady an' keeps her hands to home an' them gray eyes front. Wonder just what's she's thinking o' him anygay.

Not so tearin' much!"

What didn't say," replied Jane wearily, with a nother renewal of color. "But I didn't call him what—you did. I wish you'd put it taking about him. He's pretty fine even if he is smiddle-aged. You'd better hurry and get. that money, boy. I'm tired. If a middle-aged. You'd better hurry and get. that money, boy. I'm tired. If a middle-aged. You'd better hurry and get. that money, boy. I'm tired. If a middle-aged. You'd better hurry and get. that money, boy. I'm tired. If a middle-aged. You'd better hurry and get. that money, boy. I'm tired. If a middle-aged. You'd better hurry and get. The first here now, don't the first hungry. I have a soot the first hungry in the first hungry in the ser

Inst what's she's thinking o' him anygay.

Not so tearin' much!"

Over on the second bench Jane Carey was being bothered by none of such sentimental questionings even though it was the balman breakfast and a 10-cent dinner today. Only a nickel dinner tomorrow—if she could get up the courage to spend the nickel. Jimmie din't notice the break. He arose promptly.

"If I had $50," groaned Jimmie May, "Sure I will!" he assented. "If it's "only fifty! I've a job in sight. I know I could land it. Hundred and fifty a month. Out of town. Think of it! Might as well be of bum prospects here to try for."

The letter was there. And, presently, he found himself in a corner where the

"We!" interposed Jane in faint denial. eddies of crowd did not bother—a huge the hill from the camp, the flushed a little. Jimmie was likable, temptation throttling him. there was a mine in a the was lonesome. They had scraped accumintance two months ago on this very correct in the cleanest, friendliest way.

Money in there—fifty dollars! It didn't y' can see nigh a the matter to Jane whether it got to her to there, seems like. On night or tomorrow—not particularly, And care of it—handy man—

"I came to this town to get a situation," she protested, "not to get married. And you haven't any the best of me, Mister Jimmie. I know where there's going to be one open pretty soon. It I had that same fifty I could wait for it, couldn't 1?"

"Unless that old coot drops in on you again," growled Jimmie, "the one who thought from your 'ad' you were a public stenographer—when you said you wanted any kind of work. Wanted to marry you!" Mr. May shorted. "What did you say his name was!"

Money in there—fifty dollars! It didn't matter to Jane whether it got to her tonight or tomorrow—not particularly. And it would make a heap of difference to her if he could land. He could unseal the letter carefully, get some clothes, fix himaself up a bit and go up on the morning train to interview Mr. Sunderland. A sure thing! It wasn't as if there was any doubt. The mine owner had offered to give him a trial. A fellow might try to pass muster all down at the heel and frowsy, but he sure couldn't get there without railroad fare. And it would be taking a big chance to go up there looking like a tramp. Any how, he hadn't a dime to bless himself with. He had tried to borrow of a loan ahark on a prospective salary, but this daring venture only produced a flare of crackling laughter accompanied by a contemptuous swirl of cigar smoke.

It was no go, unless—$50! It wasn't said it you showed up y' could amuse you dishoned to James a mand to prospective salary, but this daring venture only produced a flare of crackling laughter accompanied by a contemptuous swirl of cigar smoke.

It was no go, unless—$50! It wasn't said it you showed up y' could amuse you dishoned to James a mine in a thousand miles from the camp, T' wouldn't ke there was a mine in a thousand miles from there was a mine in a thousand miles for there, seems like. Old Davy Coo take Davy Coo tak anark on a prospective salary, but this daring venture only produced a flare of crackling laughter accompanied by a contemptuous swirl of cigar smoke.

It was no go, unless—$50! It wasn't dishonest, not under the circumstances, for he could get the place and draw fifty—tell 'em frankly he was hard up. Then slip it into the same envelope and mail it to Jane. Just a day's delay. A day's delay! By the same mail could go his letter asking her to marry him—with that job they'd be mighty happy. He'd make it up to her. He had a mental pic—"Dayy told me you came this morning." and mail it to Jane. Just a day's delay.

A day's delay! By the same mail could go his letter asking her to marry him—with that job they'd be mighty happy. He'd make it up to her. He had a mental picture of the proud awest mouth—of her lonely little figure on the bench at the corner. That picture drew him. He leaned against a wall deak in the postoffice lobby, holding the letter tightly in his hand. Then suddenly—the spring evening reached a finger of sunlight through a corridor window and touched a man opposite; a young man who was staring in unexpectant apathy at the general delivery windows;
f a young man who had gone a long way down the slope and had been bedraggied by many a rainy day in the going. The finger of sunlight pointed. Jimmie May turned on his heel, his mouth queerly twisted, and hurried through the revolving doors.

He was a man made new when he got hurried through the revolving doors.

He was a man made new when he got off the narrow gauge next morning and hired a pony to take him to Pretty Lady. That was the name of the mining camp perched far above. The old man who brought out the horse sketched the hopedfor employer laconically.

"Sunderland? Good man to tie to, Sunderland. Old bach, yeh—but got the best Jim-dandy of a stone and log house you could guess of. It's round this side of a close-clipped gray mustache.

"Davy told me you came this morning," he said. "Going to try life with us, th: I'll be giad to give you a chance at it. Dennison left me all in a heap so you can get busy tomorrow. I'll give you a note to my superintendent. He'll see that. you have a place to put up. And some of you youngsters are pretty short when you come up here, but we'll fix that."

"You're very kind—" stammered Jimmie May.

"You're very kind—" stammered Jimmle May.

"Not kind. It's just that I've been there. Come and meet my wife."

"They—er—told me—that is—" Jimmle permitted himself to be led. . . .

"That I was an eld bach, eh? I was. But no more. Oh, it was sudden! Went last night and persuaded the best little woman in all the world. Set an example to some of you boys. My dear, this is the young chap who is going clerking over at the camp. Want you to know all my young men."

"T'm very glad to meet you," said Jane graciously. For it was Jane—in riding outfit—more radiant—not hungry—but—Jane.

Jane. Yes, Jane!

A Woman Warned.

THUS FOREARMED, SHE LOOKS BE-FORE SHE LEAPS. BY P. RONEY WEIR.

BY F. RONEY WEIR.

Suddenly the room grew silent; so silent, indeed, that the ticking of the silly little clock on the mantel became as the beating of some great engine. Retta's heart throbbed with it. The marble Mercury who flung his winged heels on the corner of the shelf seemed holding his breath, while the spirit of motion left him and he cocked a Parian ear to what was coming next. Retta realized that her hands were ice cold, and she hoped that Harold Mars would not touch them; for if he did he would know that she alrendy knew what he was about to say.

But he did. He crossed over to her and took both her hands in his, and murmured passionately: "Retts, I love you. Will you

It is a fateful hour when a girl listens for the first time to these words. If she is young and temperamental she may, through sheer nervousness, give the promise which she will live to regret. It is the shock of the knowledge that any fellow-mortal thinks a leap than was that leap of his from a enough of her to wish her always by his side, through sickness and health, joy and long-grassed pasture.

For two years she had been away from mental vision of Great Uncle Henry stand-ing in slush up to his hip-pockets, fighting off bumblebees and shouting his favorite warning—which he himself had just failed to put into practice: "Git, Rettie, git! And alers look afore vab lean!"

"Oit, Rettie, git! And alers look alore yet leap!"
She had taken his advice at once, she remembered, thereby saving herself much suffering. She should take it now.
She trembled and attempted to withdraw

"Give me time to think," she breathed.
A little time to make up my mind."
"How much time, dearest?" asked Harold

Two days," she whispered, and, reluc-

"Two days," she whispered, and, reluctantly, he consented.

When he was gone, and the clock had ceased being a mighty engine, and had become a common, unreliable timeplece once more, and the Mercury had resumed his frozen flight, Retta ank into the stuffed rocker and thanked heaven for that opportune vision of good old Great Uncle Henry's misfortune upon that long-gone day when together they had rambled through Hunkin's negture.

and Kathleen—Mrs. Morris now—dear blonde little Kathleen, with her fragile fingers and dreamy eyes—all three were wives. Retta had neither seen nor heard from them since her return.

And here was her own fate staring her in the face! Well, she had no need to leap blindfold into the bog. The fate of her friends should decide her own.

Retta picked ber way cautiously over a broken doorstep and rang the Morris doorbell. A sound of hard rubbing and much sloshing of suds ceased suddenly, but a schild kept on walling, and a dog yapped sharply. Kathleen, herself, answered the bell. Retta could scarcely believe her own eyes!

Hollow, tear-stained cheeks; figure—oh, well, of course—but, really, a thread or two rigor, the dog yapped, the suds in the cooled visibly. Retta got away and home.

Perhaps if some good fairy had we looks against the faded cheeks! Kathleen suspended her laundry operations, but finished her weeping as she told her pitiful story to her old friend.

"He" had ased up his own money, then horrowed hers and never returned it. She hadn't had a new rag since her wedding day and he said she didn't need any while the baby was small and she would not be going out much; but he, as a traveling salesman, was obliged to go well-dressed. He had just bought a new suit and a spring overcoat!

Authent Scall pagend, to go wapped, the suds in the cooled visibly. Retta got away and home.

Perhaps if some good fairy had we hard been the nature of her errand, her not have waylaid home. Is little as the mounting the steps of her own home. The waylaid home his steps of her own home.

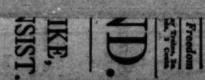

"Time's up, dearest," he announced, if have come for my answer. Is it to be or no?"

"Yes," she murmured, and dropped head upon his shoulder.

had just bought a new suit and a spring overcoat!

Perhaps if some good fairy had warned. Harold Mars where she had been, and what had been the nature of her errand, he might not have waylaid here so blithely as she was mounting the steps of her own home. But no fairy did so, and he rushed blindly to his fate.

beened his political asgacity in a very that it year was moved without extensive litts in garned of stamboals, and the under his two towns, learned of stamboals, and the under the two towns, licenses were quartered in ington has been still at Macon. Bloome nee 'em. Let the government was merciless in his method of ever, was in the 50's, when frederick flow- and, as in duty hound, introducing the map.

Stamping out the rebellion. He ordered had and Rederick stowns flow of the Legislators favore with the confederate prisoners, ning for the State Legislature, Rowland but there was a red-whisker.

WED THE DESCRIPTION OF AND DESCRIPTION OF SERVICED AS A SE

Realism and the Camera Man. By Owen Rhoades.

TF YOU were asked to name America's best-known scenic item you would probably say the Statue of Liberty, which stands guardian-like before a tall-spired city; or, perhaps, Niagara Falls or the Grand Canyon of the Colorado, wonder-places where nature is always on dress parada. It is none of these. Egypt has her pyramids, Italy her leaning tower, Switzerland her Alps, and America—her railway station.

Alps, and America—her railway station.

There is nothing remarkable about this particular station. Its archifecture is commonplace. It is medicare in size to say the least—or most. A tiny park nestles beside it. In the distance a gray tower rises ghost-like. Its name is known not much farther than one can hear the whistle of the passing trains. Yet you have seen it dozens of times, moving-picture fans. Mecca of twenty film companies wishing station scenes, it is remire—of incoming trains from which the Girl alights and rushes into a pair of waiting masculine arms. Certain variations are in order, but the feminine rush and the manly arms are inevitable. And in and out of the picture, camera-broken, the station agent walks nonchalantly, for all this is part of the day's events. But why persist in tion agent walks nonchalantly, for all this part of the day's events. But why persist in a pen picture when one of the movie variety is just around the corner?

It was on the morning of the Fourth of July and Tony Silvestra was seated on a bench in the Swastika's studio yard repairbench in the Swastika's studio yard repairing the tripod of his moving-picture camera. A display of bunting and an air of desertion pointed to the fact that the rank and file of the film people recognized, and were elsewhere celebrating, the holiday. And as he worked Tony whistled "Alexander's Ragtime Band" in the belief that it was one of Brashner, director-general for the com-pany, hurried around the corner of the studio. "Hello, Tony," he began abruptly. "I want you to run out to Tropico and shoot a railroad scehe for me."

"But, Meester Brashner—" the camera man objected.

"It's for 'Her Gingerbread Soldier,' that new comedy I was telling you about," the director continued. "You remember, the girl in the story puts on a uniform and tries to accompany her lover to the front. She is discovered and put off the train. Well, discovered and put off the train. Well, here's my chance to get that scene with the proper atmosphere. The troops have been ordered to the Mexican border and will pass through Los Angeles this afternoon, so—"
"But," Tony began again, "da people, they are all away—gone. Is it not a celebration day of the Independent American Decorators?"

"We're taking this picture with our newly-organised company." Brashner explained. "Violette Adair and Forsyth, her leading man, arrived in Los Angeles only yesterday and I've just gotten in touch with them. I've fixed things up with one of the officers and will take the people out to board the train at San Fernando. Train will control to Train a San Fernando. poard the train at San Fernando. Train will get to Tropico about two-thirty. Start shooting as soon as it comes into sight. I'll direct the scene from the car." Brashner started away. "Take the company's flivver," he added as an afterthought, "and be sure to bring Miss Adair back with you. She'd be in a deuce of a pickle if you left her out in that burg in her soldier togs."

And he hurried out of the yard.

It was a quarter after two when Tony drove the flivver up to the rear of the station. He set up and focused his camera with an air of perfect familiarity, taking care to catch the park and gray tower in the background. In a few minutes there came the sharp blast, of a whistle and the train thundered into sight and slowed down. The scene was on. As the train came to a stop, Tony noticed that the windows were immed with figures in the regulation khaki. The military atmosphere was there to a certainty.

certainty.

An officer with a suit case in his hand sprang down from the foreground coach, "Come!" he called sharply. "We have only a moment to spare. Hurry!"

A big, handsome private followed him down the steps, while clinging to him was a slender form clad in full regimentals; yet even the cut of Uncle Sam's uniform could not hide the fact that she was obviously, charmingly, a woman. Tony caught a gleam of gold beneath the campaign hat and the flash of a pair of wonderful, pleading eyes.

"Don't put me off here," she pleaded.
"Why can't I go with you? I can't let you go on alone, I can't! Oh, Tom. Tom.—" and she clung to him wildly at the thought of the separation which she knew was inevitable.

"Come, girtle," said the officer. cause a riot if we took you into Los Angeles. There'd be all kinds of notoriety. Here," and he held out the suit case. "Go over to the station and put on some proper clothes. Then buy a ticket home."

She shrank from his words as from a lash. "Tom," she moaned, "you surely don't ish me to go! It's too cruel

"It's duty, dear," answered the private gently, registering just the proper emotional quality. "You are making it very hard for both of us. Don't worry; I'll come back to

The girl gazed around unseeingly at the The girl gazed around unseeingly at the little park and the agent indifferently busy in the station door. Then she turned and took her lover's face between her hands and looked into it with a strange expression of finality. "If I could only be sure," she cried brokenly. "If I could only be near you, to sure, to die with you! It is so hard to be a woman—to sit at home and wait—Oh, Tom, I'm afraid——"

"Come," said the officer, laying his hand gently on the other man's shoulder. The private kissed the girl with lips that trembled, tore himself almost roughly from her detaining arms and hurried into the car. She stretched out her hands toward him for

She stretched out her hands toward him for a moment, then brought them up to hide her tace and sobbed convulsively.

There could be no denying the emotional ability of this actress. Her whole attitude was one of woe unutterable; Real tears were coursing down her cheeks. The officer drew his hand across his eyes in a gesture which ended with a signal to trainmen and climbed up the steps. Even Tow. gesture which ended with a signal to trainmen and climbed up the steps. Even Tony, who had "cranked" on a thousand trying scenes, wondered if something had gone wrong with the light. The train pulled out. The girl dropped into a little, huddled heap upon the ground. The scene was done.
"Well, eet is feenish," remarked the camera man, brightening up. Tragedy, real or with a suit case in his hand hurried down assumed, could not hold Tony for long. Two other figures followed—

The other looked up as if she was for the first time aware of his presence. "I know," she answered. "It's all over."

"Eet was splaindid, wonderful!" enthused Tony. "But there is no longer necessary for da emote— Come, we will go."

The girl rose quickly to her feet with a look of alarm. "No, thanks," ahe said. "I prefer to go alone."

"But it is da order that you come with me," Tony insisted.

"Haven't I been through enough?" she cried tensely. "There is nothing for me to do but return home, and I'm going—alone." She took up her suit case from the ground and started toward the station.

Tony looked after her with a helpleus uplift of the hands. She was a woman, a wonderful woman, intensely pathetic in her martial attire. She was a splendid actress who had lived her part, was still living it. Tony could not refrain from adding a few more feet of film to the hundred he had already taken as she walked away and disappeared from sight.

from sight.

When the camera man arrived at the studio he found it deserted except for O'Brien, who was grumbling over some rush work in the developing department. Time waits for no man and skips no holidays. Through him Tony arranged for the immediate development of his film, for he wanted to show Brashner what he had taken. Then he hied himself to a beach resort where he knew he could get many-colored things to drink in many-shaped glasses. And there he celebrated a day's work well done and the nation's birthday in a manner befitting an expert camera man and a patriotic citian expert camera man and a patriotic citi-zen of the land of his adoption.

It was an irate Brashner that met Tony at the studio gate next morning. "You're a dandy, ain't you!" he snarled.
"Eet is hardly possible," answered the camera man with a deprecatory shrug.
"Great joke, wasn't it?" continued the di-with a suit case in his hand hurried down the steps. Two other figures followed—

"What the deuce——" cried the director, starting up. Tony pulled him down. The scene vividiy unrolled itself before them—the intent, khaki-clad figures at the windows; the young private relinquishing all he loved best at the call of duty; this "gri struggling to be near her lover as he goes to unknown peril—battling against odds with all the strength of a woman's love, as women have battled through all time, and losing as the weak must always lose to the strong. Tony's eyes had dimmed at sight of the awful foreboding and despair in her face as she crumpled into that little heap on the ground, but the unsympathetic eye of the camera had noted and registered it all. A few seconds of darkness—the scene shows her walking slowly away, the eternal woman still, who must live out her more difficult destiny; to go back and wait for one who will, perhaps, never return. The lights flash on.

"By Jovel. You did get something," cried

"By Jove!. You did get something," cried Brashner with shining eyes. "It's great, wonderful! Why, man, it's real!"

"Eet is life," said Tony simply.

"It's exactly what I wanted," exclaimed the director. "With the proper comedy to lead to it, that scene will be the hit of the piece. Miss Adair and Forsyth can double those people to perfection—"

But there was no answering light of en

But there was no answering light of enthusiasm in Tony's face. "Eet is very hard," he said slowly. "She cared so much for him. Eet is very hard to use it—in a comedy."

"But, man, it will make 'Her Gingerbread Soldier!" protested the other.

"Eet is very hard," Tony spoke as though he had not heard the director's interruption.

"There will be fighting. Perhaps he will not come back. People will laugh when they see her torn from her lover's arms. The will not know. But she will not laugh.

Then a queer thing happened. Brashner, who thought in moving pictures, saw two visions. The first was a barren, sun-scarred "Great joke, wasn't it?" continued the director. "Did you think we were on a pleasure excursion—to go off and leave us in the lurch like that?"

"But I was there," Tony protested. "Data train, he come in. I take da pic——"

"Sure! You ninny, the troop train was divided into sections. My officer was on the second section. When we got into Tropico you were gone. You made us look like a bunch of chumps!"

"But—" Tony began once more. Then a queer look came over his face. "Come with me," he said, and turned away.

There was something about the manner of the camera man that caused Brashner to follow him, first to the developing department where a few words were spoken to O'Brien in an undertone, then to the small projecting room.

"Well, what's in the wind now?" he growled, dropping into a chair.

"Walt," was Tony's reply.

In a few moments the light was switched off and the station yard played upon the screen. A train came into the picture, approaching rapidly.

"First was a barren, sun-scarred loain with cactus and sagebrush here and there. There had been a battle. Several bodies were scattered about. Lying in the foreground was'a big, handsome fellow in a private's uniform. His glassed eyes seemed to look at something afar off, and his lips were parted as if to shape the name of a loved one. The second was a darkened the ater. "Her Gingerbread Soldier" was showing. A carefree audience gizgled as a girl in soldier's uniform was being put off a train. But in a rear seat a little figure dressed in black half rose with an inarticulate cry, then sank back and buried her face on, he said. "We've got to go out to Tropico and do a retake."

The little railway station, much photographed, nameless, is still the Mecca of the moving picture companies. There is still the feminine rush and the waiting masculline arms, while the station agent walks in and out of the picture nonchalantly. But we gather no hint of the scene from real life which was enacted there one day. The gray tower and the little part give no sign. As for the

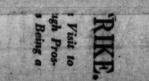

Some Old-Time Campaigning Methods Recalled.

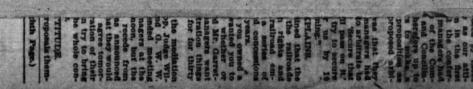

BY EDGAR WHITE.

T DOESN'T matter whether you are The major was a striker for William E. and Moberly had a little heart-to-heart talk time, but he told the candidate he would running for constable of Owl Creek Moberly, who was trying to break into the at old Bloomington. They decided that the have to dig up if he wanted to go to Jeffertownship or for President of the United State Legislature. John Helsted was running to be and Helsterd was running to the United State Legislature. States, as soon as you begin to get out and mix with the dear people you are 'lectioneering,' remarked J. H. Blackwell, an old-timer who was in Macon, Mo., recently on a furlough from the Soldiers' Home at Higginsville. "That's what we called it adays, with the settlers so few and far beback in the 60's, and the practice hasn't changed much.

"Of course, we done some things in them days that wasn't exactly according to Hoyle, at Bloomington, the old county set. You been complaining of having to the farmers had as they look at it now, but no one thought there was any bad in it then. For instance, kept open several days so that all the whitest men that ever lived in old Missouri.

State Legislature. John Halsted was run-race between him and Halstead was going to be awful close and that if they could get in. Their talk was in the back part of the county, a long ways from Bloomington, was a pretty good aized sottlement. Maj. Moody, however, the keeper of it days, with the settlers so few and far be-to content in the back part of the county, a long of their triends. Glancing about the stor State Legislature. John Halsted was run- race between him and Halstead was going son City and he did it like a little man.

Point of Views. By Monica Francis.

THE WAVERING OF HER MENTAL ATTITUDE

Recent Notable Cartoons.

ONWELL ARBORLEIGH—so his name tell you, 'round there they don't build no biftchard an' me are both plain men. I step. The air seemed full stood on the pay roll, and after it the houses in, such attent are mentioned in ble counciller." know l'ritchard couldn't, but both of us can plerced the rost was drowned in blecous clamor put in two holes to Con's one, an' do it is side, a mon-that plerced their ears with a sweetness right short; dou'ld but side to conwell and more gladsome than ever Pan drew from his business what's the good of it I say."

Opposite wall and tried frant one gladsome than ever Pan drew from his business what's the good of it I say."

Opposite wall and tried frant one gladsome than ever Pan drew from his purity don't help in your ing down late failed. Since the cone to the cone of the cone of

"Poetry." By Myrtle Danielson.

THE SAVING POWER OF THE GENTLE MUSE.

BEIDERANI SAMER (CIERMAN SERON MEDIERAN ARRESTE

A Desert Episode. By Jessica Bird.

catelay and cactus and dust about the very doorsteps of the ugly wooden shacks, with a sinister hint of its power.

There was a generous incurve to the mountains where the town had been located, with a point of hills, wind-worn and tree-less, thrown about it in a half-circle from the range, separating the place from the larger valley just beyond. Between these hills and the mountain itself was cut a rocky canyon, in which ran an uncertain stream. Through its mouth, opening wide toward the town, went a curving road along one side of the canyon high above the stream, to the top of the hill range.

With Willis urging it brutally, the buck-skin galloped up the canyon road, explosive puffs of dust, white in the very dim light, rising from under its heavy feet. Never stopping his horse, and sitting the saddle with the supreme grace which had made him noted as the best horseman in the county, the man glanced back now and again at the town. He cursed when he saw moving, scattered lights, and realized that made him noted as the best horseman in the county, the man glanced back now and again at the town. He cursed when he saw moving, scattered lights, and realized that the town as a whole was coming to Morgan's aid.

As he rode he seemed to see the room in Morgan's saloon, with the body as he had left it, twisted on the rough floor under the yellow light of the smoking, swinging lamp overhead. The men, gathering at the sound of the two shots and the quick thud of his horse's hoofs as he left the place, would need very brief investigation in order to guess who was the other figure in the tragedy. He swung the long ends of the bridle-reins back and forth over the flanks of the panting horse with merciless blows.

Ahead of him in the semi-darkness the built of a great, granite boulder which had made necessary a sharp turn in the road, showed white, its high sloping side distinct against the darkness of the brush-covered hill. Willis swerved the hard-breathing buckskin toward it as the horse galloped on. Suddenly, as they reached the huge mass of stone, he kicked the stirrups from his feet and drew up his knees. In a second more he was balancing erect on the saddle, his hobnailed boots clutching at the smooth leather of the seat. The horse staggered, and one swinging stirrup struck the side of the boulder.

With a quick sprawling leap the man left

eyed, could not easily overlook that.

And they had not. For as Willis reclined behind the boulder, hidden from sight of the road, he heard the sound of approaching horses. Silently he drew himself to his knees, and crouched in the brush closer to the rough rock. Up the canyon came the riders. Willis's quick ears heard the low-voiced conversation of the men.

"He sure rode fast."

"Galloped all the way up," was the reply,

"Galloped all the way up," was the reply, the sa and Willia's hand tightened over his revolver as he recognized the voice of Mary's Mary is Mary! It was on her account that he and Morgan, the saloon-keeper, had come to blows several times. It was because of her that he had, after his many threats, shot the man. Willis knew that if the girl hated the man. Willis knew that if the girl hated him, her brother, in his greater knowledge, despised him even more. For one instant a thought abandoning his carefully-laid plans and firing upon Mary's brother, whom he knew he could now surprise, filled Willis's mind. The idea was brushed aside almost before he thought it, and he lay motionless as he heard the posse ride by.

"The buckskin was gettin' tired, though," said a voice. "Hurry!" And they galloped up the canyon road, leaving a lazy cloud of and a voice. "Hurry!" And they galloped up the canyon road, leaving a lazy cloud of dust to sift through the foliage of the mansanita over the hidden man.

Even in the chill of the desert morning

Willis had not felt uncomfortable as he rode. But now, when the first danger of the rode. But now, when the first danger of the pursuit was past and he lay prone in the shade of the rock and brush shelter, the man felt cold. A light wind blew, rustling the leaves of the cottonwoods near the thin-voiced stream below him. The sound of the hurrying riders came to him from way off up the canyon. He shivered and glanced about him, through the brush.

Fear was a thing upon which he had not

Fear was a thing upon which he had not counted, when he laid orderly plans for the nct counted, when he laid orderly plans for the red murder of Morgan and his own escape from ing the country. By reputation, the man who on, lay hidden in the canyon was afraid of of nothing. And yet an ever-growing sensatest tion, causing his heart to pound heavily, he seemed to smother him. If he could have lob-seen his own bearded face, the expression her would have astonished him. As it was, altoned the were sweaty where he held his gun, he though his body quivered and his hands were sweaty where he beld his gun, he would not acknowledge to himself that he was afraid. Even when the sound of the traveling riders died entirely away and the placid stirring of the small wild life of the canyon came to him from all sides, he lay boulder.

With a quick sprawling leap the man left the saddle and jumped back to the rock. Slipping, clutching, he struck and hung to the rough surface. Every muscle in his lithe body was urged to the utmost in his debperate attempt to prevent his feet from touching the dusty road and leaving there are imprint. Clinging face downward, and fighting, fuch by inch he dragged himself up the inclined surface to the top of the great boulder. He lay there a moment, gasping and listening.

From up the canyon came the faint sound of his horse's trightened and unguided flight. There was hardly another sound, for the trees below, along the stream, were quiet in the lifeless air. The hills about him were steep walls, indistinct in the meager light. Above him the sky, very clear, was dotted with slowly dimming stars. From his high post, as from the roof of a building, he could

W ILLIS, after he had shot Jim Morgan, made a quick get-away on his buckaith horse. He knew that men would ride out in the early inorning light to find him, for the little desert town, whose forty or fifty buildings had been dark and quietliwould be roused by the shooting.

The settlement was cloke at the foot of one of the steepest mountain roads every plastered by a masquerading engineer to the busy lumber camps in the San Jacinto mountains. The desert uncompromisingly bounded one side of the place, intruding its catchag and cactus and dust glow the very doorsteps of the ugly wooden shacks, with a sinister hint of its power.

There was a generous incurve to the mountains where the town had been located, with a point of hills, wind-worn and tree-wills, and crown about it in a half-circle from wooled to the road. He amiled grimly as he does not connect the Eastern States with endowed himself to his ransessity, save had to keep to a borse and choser to the road, he heard the sound of approaching of the capyon came the mountains where the town had been located, with a point of hills, wind-worn and tree-wills, and crown about it in a half-circle from viscosity. So few and far between were the could reach the coast city the would take another chance when he swand Los Angeles. He toward the coast and Los Angeles. He toward the coast and Los Angeles. He would take another chance when he sams and Los Angeles. He would take another chance when he sams and the coast city with the could treach the coast city with the could reach the coast city with the could reach the coast city with the would take another chance when he sams and Los Angeles. He would take another chance when he sams and Los Angeles. He would take another chance when he sams and the could take another chance when he sams and the could take another chance when he sams and the could take another chance when he sams and the could take another chance when he sams and the could take another chance when he would take another chance to while the could take anot had taken effect and that Mary could never make good her word that she would marry the saloon-keeper.

He could well remember the day when Mary had told him, wrathfully, that she was to marry Morgan, and that if he touched the other man she would kill him. She had stood before him, so tiny and defiant, her hair blowing across her red cheeks and her black eyes flashing, that he had lacked words for reply, and had turned on his heel and se away with a deeper desire than ever to put Morgan out of his way. A smile, alm contemptuously tender, curved the dry lips of the hidden man as he remembered. But Willis was not at all afraid of what the girl

Willis was not at all afraid of what the girl might do now. It was her brother he feared and of him he thought the most.

He wished he had been able to shoot this man, also, instead of leaving him to ride up the canyon, leading the swift posse. He wondered if they had yet come upon the buckskin, for he knew the animal would soon cease galloping and would probably leave the road and make a devibus way up the canyon hills, leading the pursuers far off the track. Well, let them find the horse; they could not find him!

Willis shivered in the shade of the rock and wished that he dared creep out into the sunlight. But he did not know how soon sunlight. But he did not know how soon the men might ride back, and he could not risk discovery in this way. Glancing through the shelter he could glimpse a bit of the road up the canyon, and this he washed with care. For some time he lay motionless; then he opened the package of food and ate sparingly. When he had finished he deftly retied the bundle, and after a scrutiny of the road, rose and put the food out of reach of the ants once more. Dropping back to his place he felt under the ledge of rock and drew out a canteen. He felt a grim desire to laugh as he unscrewed the cap and lifted the water-filled vessel to his lips. He had the water-filled vessel to his lips. He had almost everything he wanted; nobody knew where he was; and Morgan—lay with a bullet in his body.

The scream of a long-tailed wren, up the canyon, startled him. A sound of beating horse-hoofs reached his ears again. Willis replaced the cover of the can with trembling fingers, which steadied, however, as he reached for his gun. His breath came in gasps, and he crouched like an animal in its with slowly diming stars. From his high compact bundle, which he examined with post, as from the roof of a building, he could see far down through the dark canyon to the town, where the lights still burned.

"A clear trail!" he muttered; and slipped carefully over the back of the rock hit bughts turned to the details of the plan of the thick brushes which clung close to the creviced granite and would furnish him a shouth its work on the spring round-up of creviced granite and would furnish him a shouth its work on the spring round-up of carefulls, but when he saw in the ever-brightening early morning one of the had before the had left the addle, would not think from the helater which had protected but when he saw in the ever-brightening early morning one of the siles and held it ready. Once he was started lay and in the darkness cross to the rails, only a covey of quali calling as they

Mary's brother again! A blinding flash of red rage clouded Willis's vision. Forgetting all caution he sprang from his hiding place and stood blinking in a patch of bright sun-light near the boulder.

"Willis," came the shout, "throw down that gun!" He raised his hand to fire again, when a sharp report sounded and he felt the revolver fall from his shattered hand. At the instant the posse followed up the advantage, and even as ...is turned to take a desperate chance with a leap and a run, Mary's brother was upon him. Struggling like a demon the hunted man felt the long arms of the other grip about "tm. hold "tm. arms of the other grip about "m, hold "m, cru 's and master him. The 'ear he felt now overcame Willis and changed into senseless panic. He writhed and twisted, mumbling, but the arms held him while a riata was bound about him.

Bound, wearled and gasping, the defeated man at length stood awaiting what he felt would be the next move of the posse. He had lived long enough in this frontier coun-try, so far from organized legal machinery, to know the hasty manner in which such a malefactor as he was usually brought to jus tice and left swinging to a convenient tree after his capture. He expected nothing less at the hands of these men, for Morgan had been popular always among the valley people, and he was hated.

"Where are your horses, boys?" asked Mary's brother. Willis but faintly heard the voice. He was watching the ants, which were already seeking the blood as it dropped from his wounded hand to the sandy hill-side. He wondered, vaguely, how long it would be before they found the food in the crevice of the boulder.

"They're down the canyon a piece.

"Take him along, and I'll go back for my horse." Mary's brother started up the canyon road, while Willis watched him dully.

"Wait for me, it isn't fair," he called back. Speaking very little, the men led their captive out to the road. By the time they had marched to the place where the horses were tied, they could hear their leader approaching on his big horse. He rode up to them so quickly that Willis was roused from his near-stupor and called out, vindictively, "That's right, Joe. Hurry, or you'll miss the party." miss the party.

"Shut up," called one of the men. "Give me my way, and we'd end this matter right

With an oath Willis turned his bloodshot eyes toward the speaker. "Hell! Go ahead and string me up then. Bob!" he snarled, Joe raised his arm, commandingly, "Stop the talk. Stick him on his horse, Bob, and lair.

Slowly came the posse down the canyon, leading the riderless buckskin horse. Peering through the mansanita, Willis could see them. He counted eight men—but Mary's brother was not among them! He must have gone over the hilltop, and was probably even now searching, with others, along the valley slope—so thought Willis. They should look there tomorrow, not today!

Meanwhile, the horses were nearing the great boulder. Willis had no intention of letting any mischance show these men his brough arms strained against the coils of the rista, and his foot, half-lifted toward the stirrup, thudded to the earth.

Recent Notable Cartoons.

THE WAVERING OF HER MENTAL ATTITUDE

Point of View. By Monica Francis.

stoles tell us that life is merely mental attitude toward life, that he re is neither grief, pain, sickness de formula the best of life awaits us, and ed only put on our rose-colored specscles (horn-rimmed or otherwise) to make it our own. In other words, it is neither fate, circumstance nor providence which guides our destiny. It is "point of view." Let me illustrate.

Every morning at eight-thirty, two doors opened simultaneously, on opposite sides of the street, and two youthful figures emerged, each apparently unconscious of the other, driven by a common impulse, to get to work on time. At the corner they boarded a street car, the girl first, the man following. Sometimes on the car they sat opposite, some-times beside each other. This had been go-

Wednesday morning, slowly, cautiously, hopefully, Editha opened the boarding-house door. Across the street the spartment-house f, pain, sickness door. Across the street the spanning from the glared menacingly; the door remained to awaits us, and closed. It looked unfriendly, Editha thought, like so much that was of the city.

She started on toward the corner. The olsy closing of a door caused her to turn and glance back. The bachelor-man's door! Perhaps-but instead of the bachelor-man's did six feet, a still more familiar figure solid six feet, a still more familiar figure came down the steps. She recognized Mr. Morton, who was chief clerk at Gimbel's. She would be late then, she must hurry. "Good morning, Miss Davenport," said a voice at her elbow. Mr. Morton beamed. Editha murmured her greeting. She discovered, for the first time, something very likable about Mr. Morton.

He helped her onto the street car, and sat beside her.

"Mortie, old fellow, I've got 'em, and no mistake. Do you see what I see? Why man, you can't. It's ——"

"It's I, and I'm real," interrupted Editha. Quite unaffectedly she sat down on the edge of the bed and began talking to him, as the still stupefied Bradford watched her, scarce daring to breathe, lest she vanish.

"I was telling Mr. Morton how long we had known each other," said Editha. "I've been missing you all week, and only learned this morning of your filness, quite by accident."

morning of your filness, quite by accident."

Morton, pleased beyond measure at Bradford's anconcealed Joy, little suspecting this to be their first conversation, withdrew.

Editha went on. "I've been ill and alone here in the city, and I haven't forgotten how it feels to be without friends at such a time. I've done a lot of thinking, this week, and decided that things were all wrong. We've been cheating ourselves and each other, and I have finally come to see how foolish it all is. Besides, I thought I might help—"

The boy leaned forward.
"But—but what," he gasped, "is your name?"

on the car they art opposite, some times on the car they art opposite, some times beatle each other. This has been go and the car they are opposite, some times to five a year.

He sloped her cott the street car, all early the control of the car they are the car the street can the car they are they are the car they are they are the car they are they are the car they are the car they are the street, on the car, to offer her hip paper, which are they are the street, on the car, to offer her hip paper, and the car they are the street, on the car, to offer her hip paper, and the car they are the street, on the car, to offer her hip paper, and the car they are the street, on the car, to offer her hip paper, and the car they are the street, on the car, to offer her hip paper, and the street, and the str would be taking the mothballs out of his "soup and fish," statements which the slow-witted Morton was unable to reconcile.

The Noisy North.

THE ARCTIC REGION NOT A PLACE OF ALL-PERVADING SILENCE

The popular idea is that in the far reach of the Arctic circle there prevails an e lasting, death-like stillness; but those who have spent much time in the Far North as sure us that that region is far from being lient, although so little life is manifest for the greater part of the year.

the greater part of the year.

On polar seas the ice, though thick and solid as grante, is hardly ever still. There are tides in the Arctic and these lift and lower the huge ice-fields, causing them to give out all manner of noises. Even as late as November the pack will wake up without warning and pile itself in huge heaps with indescribable crashings, groanings and roarings. Peary speaks of the "rabid roar" of the "tumbling chaos of ice blocks." His Eskimos were terribly frightened and set up weird howlings. The dogs whined and barked, and altogether the noise was terrific. Every Arctic explorer has given similar accounts.

The movements of the ice—the gradual crowding and pressing, bending and pushing, the breaking of the masses of snow lying at the "lee foot"—have given rise to the expression of explorers, "The voices of the ice." It may be that one will hear a low singing, splashing, or grumbling, alternating with various other sounds, cracking and snapping. These sound irregularly from great distances, like a confusion of human voices, the racket of a railway train, or the scurrying of a sledging party. Then, again, the noises are such as to cause the explorer to fancy he hears the steps and voices of various species of animals.

Spring is the noisiest time of the year in the polar seas. McClure, of the investigator, compared the breaking up of the ice at that season to heavy thunder or the sound of great guns. Another writer likened the sound of the breaking ice floe to that produced by a voicanic eruption.

Moreover, the air in the Arctic regions is seldom absolutely still. Gales are frequent. The winter winds, according to Peary, blow with almost unimaginable fury. One one occasion in the cabins of the Roosevelt the sound resembled that of some gigantic power plant, everything vibrating to the pulsation of the machinery. The whole atmosphere was filled with the deep, sullen roar of the wind, and so thick was the cloud of snow picked up and swept forward on the wings of the gale that powerful lamps were The movements of the ice—the gradual of snow picked up and swept forward on the wings of the gale that powerful lamps were invisible ten feet away.

On high ground, such as that of inner Greenland, the wind is never still. Nansen

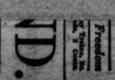

Greenland, the wind is never still. Nansen tells of the constant hiss of the breese laden with they bits of ice, which flowed along knee high like a shining white river glittering in the pale Arctic sunshine.

Nor is there lack of sounds caused by animal life. In the Arctic may often be heard the baying of wolves and the barking of seals, while in the summer the harsh cries of sea-birds echo along the faces of the cliffs.

Smoky Achill.

One of the smokiest places on earth is undoubtedly Achill, off the coast of Mayo, Ireland. A smoky atmosphere is not an unknown thing in any Irish cabin, but in Achill the greater the smoke the higher the satisfaction of the natives, for there smoke means potatoes, and potatoes mean food. It is to one of the methods of procuring soot that the islander owes the smoky condition of his cabin. Soot he must have, or

A Desert Episode. By Jessica Bird.

THE TRAIL WHICH WAS TOO WELL MARI

THE SAVING POWER OF THE GENTLE MUSE.

"Poetry." By Myrtle Danielson.

CONWELL ARBORLEIGH—so his name stood on the pay roll, and after it the deluge of Swansons, Ludiviskys, Castuccios and O'Gradys. Such a name should have been the possessor of a stick, a monocle and a slik hat, but alas for Conwell and consistency! the stick terminated in a pick, a candlestick lent the only esthetic touch, and the hat was of rubber, fashioned after a coal-scuttle. Yet think not, gentle reader, that Conwell was without distinction e'en though he had dragged the weary length of such a name through the underground passages of a hundred mining camps. Conwell was a poet. He sang the praises of Bessie, the purveyor of viands at the boarding-house, in forty-nine stanzas, and the damnation of his shift boas in fifty-three. Bessie was favored with an author's copy.

damnation of his shift boss in fity-three. Bessie was favored with an author's copy, but the shift boss remained in blissful ignorance of the honor done him.

Since poets from Dante down have made no secret of their passions, why hesitate to quote at least the concluding stansa, even though Bessie may blush, and Conwell's rival send up hoots of derision? Oh, yes, he had rivais, but as Conwell himself would say, more of them anon. Now for the noem:

Putting up lunches is a trade, And you are the only maid.

I believe that you're true blue,
Damned if I don't propose to you!"

Damned If I don't propose to you!"
With this declaration, or prophecy, as those most concerned viewed it, Conwell's courtship began. Soon he was putting up a shack on the edge of the camp. Two there were who viewed his activities with jealous eyes. How Bessle restricted them no one knew. True, she smiled upon Conwell often and long, but he was not the only recipient of her sunshine. It was a sauce that sweetened boarding-house dinners for many suffering sinners. (Pegasus! Can't one even mention a post without invoking the demon of rhyme?) the demon of rhyme?)

The two whom mutual suspicion and suf-fering had drawn together turned from the almost finished house in disgust. "E'll be a movin' in next," Pritchard

"That ain't what interests me. Will she be movin' in's what I wanta know.

"'Ell, why don't yer ask 'er, not me?"
"Well, it's my idea she don't know no more'n us. Portry's got a call for women that just plain language ain't. We gotta admit that, but I don't know that she's willin' to go the limit on just portry, Con not havin' nothing to back it up. Bess is practicaller than most, and maybe this house he thinks is doin' so much for him'll sour her. It's a long ways for her to pat water for one thing, and just the two of them'll have a hell of a time keepin' trails en when the wind commences blowin' em over every night. I ast Con why he built it there on the side of the hill, lookin' like it was just ready to jump off in the gulch, an' what do you think he said?"

"Ell, I don't know."
"He says: 'Do you 'spose I want every mn red-headed Mick and bloody Cousin Jack trackin' up my nice clean snow?' An' I says: 'If I was Irish, which I ain't, I'd twist your nose till it came off an' then kick you because it came off so easy. But if I worked on you all day I couldn't make you look no worse than now. Your mother an' father did their worst for you an' my worst is no better.' Then he commenced poundin' loud at his old house so ast not to hear no

Ell, you're like a poet yourself, the way

"Yes, an' you're like a poet yoursell, the way you talk an' talk. If I'd a-been there—"
"Yes, an' you'd had cause to be offensive, but me, I've got no reason to take up rows for you or the Irish, which I would if I was, which I ain't as I said already."

eard you the first tim

"An' maybe you think I talk a lot, but Con's liable to think I'm a spinks before

"Spinks?"

"Sure, ain't you read about him, an' seen pitchers? Man with a George Washington hat, on the Nile? Folks used to make trips up there to ask him things, but they don't such grand language, and a good moral. I like a poem with a good moral an' no rough satisfaction. But as I was sayin' when your language. There ain't anything in the world genorance interrupted me, I come from the Liberty Bell in the San Juan country an' I wrote in elegant language.

The reward him for his shorts while shorts while shorts while shorts while shorts while shorts with a solled his "nice clean snow" unchallenged. Attended by prosperity, comes back by richard suddenly paused with his hand to Straight from the throne of God, while he was speaking the noise had satisfaction. But as I was sayin' when your language. There ain't anything in the world increased a hundredfold in volume.

Strict discipline, armed guards and grand should and when my own good name, solled his "nice clean snow" unchallenged.

That day as they approached the house of the his ear. "Ell of a queer noise," he muttered. While he was speaking the noise had increased a hundredfold in volume.

"Run, fool, run!" Moran shouted and "Run, fool, run!" Moran shouted and dashed back the way they had come. know what a plece of bare hill like that between strips of timber means. An' le' me but it ain't no use. It ain't practical. Now, him from his feet before he had taken a JACK ween strips of timber means. An' le' me "Spinks?"

tell you, 'round there they don't build no houses in such strips, but there wasn't no peets in San Juan. You just wait till—"
But the rest was drowned in hideous clamor that pierced their ears with a sweetness more gladsome than ever Pan drew from his magic pipes. Bessie had come to the "beanery" door and beat upon a suspended drill with its twin. They galloped up in time to join the supper shift.

Bessie was passing down the aisle between the two long tables as they entered. In her right hand she carried a huge white graniteware bowl of Mexican beans in which sundry chunks of boiled bacon floated; in her left hand was an immense platter loaded with sections of baked squash.

"Til just take a hunk of that while it's

"I'll just take a hunk of that while it's andy," and Bill Morton helped himself to a handy," and Bill Morton helped himself to a square as he passed.

"Smarty! Look out!" she cried to Pritchard as he ducked under her arm and straddled the bench to his place beside the poet. The beans came to rest rather sud-denly between their places and a geyser of thick brown juice splashed over on the white oil-cloth. white oil-cloth.

white oil-cloth.

"Beans," the poet murmured, "beans, the mainstay of a miner's life."

"Ell, yea, we 'as 'em right along."

"I wrote some lines once "To the Old Bean Pot.' If—"

"Pass the beef down 'ere, Nelson."

"They started out like this—"

"Seen any gravy 'round tonight, Tony?"

Conwell gave up the idea of repeating the ode to the old bean pot and devoted himsif to its late contents, not the first nor the last of the poets choked to silence by an unappreciative audience.

In ten minutes the shift had bolted its unappreciative audience.

In ten minutes the shift had bolted its food and withdrawn. Only Bill Moran, Pritchard and the poet remained. Bessie came in with a clean plate and a cup of very black, very hot coffee. She found an oasis in the desert of dirty dishes and took possession. With definess born of long practice, she swung her feet over the bench and under the table, leaned her elbow beside her plate, her cheek on her hand, and regarded the three with a weary smile. "Gee, but I'm dog tired. Ought to have two emore girls 'stead of the one Mrs. Lewis has been tellin' me about so long." She lowered her voice and glanced toward the kitchen. "Tell you me about so long." She lowered her voice and glanced toward the kitchen. "Tell you what, I'm not goin' to stand it much longer if she don't git that girl here. There's other

'Sure, an' cookin' for one's nowhere near

"You're right, Bill, an' the pay's nowhere near as good, an' I don't like mixed work. How'd you like to be machine man, mucker, hoistman and car-boy all at the same time?"

prospect; yes, an' my own mule, too, but I can't say as I liked it."

"I wrote some lines on "The Bold Pros-pector' once," broke in the poet. "They begin like this:

I sat down by the fireside the paper s glancin' on the column that is headed minin' news,

And I read about a prospect that had re-cently been sold Way up in bleak Alasks for half a million cold; An' it started me to thinkin' of the danger

an' the ills

That beset the bold prospector while alone out in the hills. 'God bless the bold prospector wherever he luck is hard enough, for he never has environments are hardships and danger, too, as well,

While developin' the prospect in the hope that he may sell.

May he tempt the fickle Goddess. May she smile where'er he wills, To reward him for his efforts while alone out in the hills."

Pritchard an' me are both plain men. I might manage a skit now and agin, but I know Pritchard couldn't, but both of us can put in two holes to Con's one, an' do it right along. An' if portry don't help in your business what's the good of it I say."

"Ell, yes, what's the good of it?"

"I ain't sure but what it's a hindrance, like the other day when Con got to writin' in his stope an' the shift went off an' the cage stopped runnin'. Had to climb out tae whole 500 feet, didn't you. Con? Then there's that house of his; nobody but a poet'd build it so far from water."

"Seems you worry a lot about where I build my house. So long as you don't have to carry my water, I guess you better let It be where 'tis."

"Oh, I'll let it be all right. It ain't my

"Oh, I'll let it be all right. It ain't my "Oh, I'll let it be all right. It ain't my business to take care of ever' damn fool 'round the camp, but if you want to keep on writin' good morals in elegant language, you better pull your shack over in the timber. That's all I got to say 'bout it."

Bessie rose and began to gather up the dishes. "You boys better stop rowing and go out of here so I can git my work done. And you, Bill, ought to have more respect for a lady than to cuss before me."

"I ast your pardon, Bess, but I noticed you thought it was purty cute when Con wrote that cussin' poem 'bout you puttin' up lunches."

lunches."

"Well, I didn't just like it at the start, but there's somethin' called poetic license that makes it all right, but there's no semse in cussin' without rhyme, time or meteor like you do. Now you boys clear out."

Half way to the bunk-house Pritchard stopped Moran until Conwell had gone on. Then: "What's meteor, Bill? I understood the rhyme and time all right, but meteor?"

"That's a kind of failin' star. Two or three years back a man in Minnesota found one in his field. It was big as the cage, an' ne in his field. It was big as the cage, an' blackish, like galena."

"But 'ell, there wasn't nothin' ab fallin' stars in that poem. She must meant somethin' else, Bill."

"That's like enough, but that's what meteors is. I read all about this one that come down in Minnesota. It's goin' to snow tonight and Con's floor'll likely git warped, but what's that to a poet? He can cuiss

It did snow that night and the next and the next, but by the third day Conwell had a tight roof over his floor and began work on the inside.

"A-puttin' in cupboards and fancy jigs like that," Moran told Pritchard scornfully; for he could not keep away from the new house. The cupboards confirmed his suspicions that the shack was not to be a bachelor's estab-

Now that the house was nearly done Conwell took a long time about the finishing, for Bessie was finding it hard to make up her mind and he had no wish to advertise to the camp that he waited on his lady's pleas

Spring came and found two where she had confidently expected one. It is spring's idea of mathematics that one and one make one, so she set to work in her illogical way.

The show began to go, meiting seemingly rom the ground upward, and high on the ill above Conwell's house a tiny tree saned out over a little cliff and let its crown of snow slide off.

On the day that the tree discharged its Shine on and on, thou gleaming burden Pritchard and Moran had started for the shack. They had formed the habit Through bars of steel, I eagerly of dropping in on Conwell soon after he went to work at the end of the 4 o'clock Off in the sky and as I gaze shift. Their custom was to wander about Upon thy glittering holiness I the house making crude jokes on the carpentering and even on the carpenter himself. But Conwell kept peace for two reasons; first, because Bessie had asked it; and second, because as his suit prospered (he and then to know, when comes the thought that it did prosper) a kind of contemptuous pity had grown up in his heart for these rivals. Their muddy boots often and when my own good name, solled his "nice clean snow" unchallenged. Attended by prosperity, comes back to step. The air seemed full of flying particles of glass that flayed his face and pierced his clothes. Not ten feet from him the side of the mountain seemed to be sliding down into the gulch. Soon it met the opposite wall and tried frantically to climb. It. Falling back upon itself, it jammed down into a solid mass. The tree had chosen the precise moment when the drop of a hat would precipitate an avalanche.

When Pritchard got to his feet he faced a strip of clean bare hillside. Conwell's little house was gone.

Moran came running back red-faced with excitement. "I told you! I told you! Remember?"

By the time they had made their way down into the guich the whole camp was swarming out toward the slide. The men came first, then the older children, and lastly the women with the smaller young-sters clinging to their skirts and impeding their progress.

Moran began running back and forth over the ice-solid mass shouting out to all who would listen and some who would not: "He's under here, I tell you. He's under here gomewheres, Con is. Git a pick. Git a shovel. She ain't deep, 'bout twenty-five feet, I guess. She ain't no slide 'tall, not like we had at Liberty Bell."

Everyone was acurrying about full of a pleased ecstacy of excitement. Everyone talked and no one listened; everyone ordered and on one obeyed until a flying figure charged down the hill upon them, a Vaikyrie in a checked blue kitchen apron.

"Ain't nobody doin' nothin? Ain't you gon'a do nothin'?, O Con, wait. I'll git you out." She fell upon the snow, tearing at it with her bare hands.

with her bare hands.

The shift boss tried to raise her. "Ain't no use goin' on like that, Bess. There ain't any use. That house had to smash when it hit the side of the guich if it didn't before."

Bessie threw herself back upon the snow, arms outstretched on either side of her head. The others stood about, very much interested in seeing "how she took it."

"I'll " Pritchard muttered. "It takes the

"Ell," Pritchard muttered. "It takes the 'eart hout of me to see 'er go on. It 'urts 'er sore." He turned away, his long nose wrinkling with emotion, then raised a mighty shout: "E's a-comin'! Looky there! Ain't 'e a-comin'! The son-Y-a-gun. 'E ain't smashed no'ow."

It was perfectly true. For the second time Conwell had indulged the muse in his stope and had been obliged to climb the ladders to the surface. Now he was coming down the hill, his face expressing no more than a mild curiosity. Bessle scrambled to her feet. "O Con, Bessle scrambled to her feet, "O Con, you're alive. Where was you? Why wasn't you workin' on the house? It's all smashed and buried, the little cupboards and the patent ironin' board." She began to cry.

Conwell looked at her and for once his soul rose above poetry. "Well, Bess, that house was a good ways from water."

But it was Moran who offered her real comfort. "Bess," he said, "I ast your par-don. Portry is practicaller than I thought, It saved Con's life, dam' if it didn't."

To a Star.

t the situ ne tonight streament at further d in New 1 id in his o hroughout in close to vhile evide given up 1 y be read ton the ma ented by-sit d to be co

e story I had was a three-thousand-word ding they

THE fall in C. & N, copper had reached cheeks. I felt grotesque; not that I was beyond me. Here I was supposedly among lights the point where I must either sell to ashamed of anything I had written, but, people who had my welfare at heart and disable underwith the unfortunates who venture in restoring. I healtsted to had been the brunt of someone's guilt. I was made to distinct the unfortunates who venture in restoring. I may be able to bely you," he suggested me; when in restly I was made to distinct the universal process. I may be able to bely you," he suggested been the brunt of someone's guilt. Of the process of being the conscious and instant of someone's guilt. Of the process of being the beart of being in the process of the

A Real Plot. By Arthur J. Messier.

LAURA TAKES A HAND IN DEVELOPMENTS.

ACQUISITION OF DANISH WEST INDIES.

Present Few Reconstruction Problems. By John Elfreth Watkins.

CQUISITION of the Danish West sort of place, with a flavor of sherry cobleta, is the tribute paid to St. Thomas and domain three small specks in blers, is the tribute paid to St. Thomas and contain a special and the sea, with an aggregate area only as time ago. In other words, the one thousand the set, with an aggregate area only as time ago. In other words, the one thousand the capital, are mostly be set, with an aggregate area only as time ago. In other words, the one thousand the control of the colly of Philadelphia. Of the control of th

Charlotte Amalie Karbon

A street in Charlotte Amalie

America, the East Indies and the Pacific sound for the West Indies, and of many slying our continent by southern routes. St. John and Santa Crus, the two sister ales of St. Thomas, have to be acquired with the latter for the sake of the Monroe grel and this fact was conveyed to one ill. Still, Virtue May be its Own Reward.

Ile boy who urged his father to get him AUMHER of lawyers were in the adog just like him.

Compiled for the Illustrated Weekly.

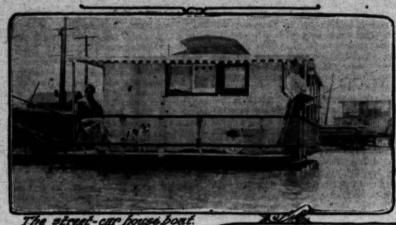

COOD SHOKL SLOKIES FROM EVERYWHERE,

HOUSE BOATING IN SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA

- Summer Comfort. By Henry P. Combs.

HILE Southern California has no majestic rivers like the Thames, on which lovers of outdoors and the may establish house-boat homes, are at frequent intervals along the beautiful and placid bays, which lend themselves perfectly to this mode of living. The bays of Avalon, Balbon and other points offer safe havens for house boats, and more and more this form of summer living will come into favor, as time brings every day its fresh quota of tourists and pleasure seekers into Southern California cities.

The building of a house boat is, of course, a problem which requires considerable forethought, and some depth of pocketbook. The constructing of a staunch, safe and substantial hull is the first consideration. After that is completed any manner of structure, so that it is of suitable weight,

After that is completed any manner of structure, so that it is of suitable weight, and not at all topheavy, may be placed on the hull and fashioned and finished to suit the owner's taste and convenience.

Those who remember "Rudder Grange," that delightfully whimsical story of Frank Stockton's house boaters, will recall that the possessors of Rudder Grange found it almost all ready to their hand in the shape of an abandoned canal boat. Southern California offers few possibilities of that kind. But there are others—and thereon hangs this story.

A Los Angeles family has solved the house boat problem at minimum cost, and entirely to its own satisfaction. The three members of the family are all fond of water sports. The man of the house loves to fash. The women like the surf bathing and the glorious walks along the ocean front, on a hard sandy beach, as well as the breathing of the ocean breeze, which renders the most sweltering day otherwise, always fit to live in and enjoy. A cottage, not more than a shack, at some convenient of a house boat began to dawn on these boat. The problem of what to build and awaits the solving of the problem as to how to pipe it so there may be no danger of broken pipes or connections. Storekeepers from Long Beach send for orders and deliver goods daily, the ice cream man comes along with clockwork regularity, the postman pays his daily visit, the old ocean murmurs in a gentle contralto, or booms in a big bass, and the California sun shines over all. What more could one desire.

It has been pointed out that, were it cut tomary or possible for the King of Great Britain and Ireland, in times of peace, rigidly to exercise his soyal prerogatives, he would, in the course of a few months, become the owner of many vehicles, especially motor cars, that traverse the streets and roads of his kingdom, since he is enhow to build it did not touch the hull, betitled to all decdands. A decdand is 'an eause it went without saying that that must article which has proved the immediate and be the safest of its kind, put together by accidental occasion of the death of any reaan experienced shipbuilder, well-dited with sonable creature." This right was for huncause it went without saying that that must be the safest of its kind, put together by an experienced shipbuilder, well-fitted with water-tight compartments, and with anchors which would hold it where its owners wanted it to stay. But the house itself had to be designed. And lo! the problem was solved by using an old street car. The hull was built and put into place. The car was placed upon it and given proper stability. laced upon it and given proper stability. some of the original features, such as the roof and part of the windows and seats, were retained. Extensions were built at the sides, and an addition to the back. The hull has been built amply big so that there is plenty of space on both fore and afterdecks, and walking-room on both port and starboard sides.

The house boat is so anchored that it can The house boat is so anchored that it can be reached from the bulkhead by a runway reaching to a private float. It can, however, be let out into the middle of the bay if desired, and then, of course, a small boat is needed to reach it. Its two 300-pound anchors keep it from running away, as did Rudder Grange. At low tide the view includes all surrounding sights except the ocean. As the tide rises, that, too, bursts upon the view, adding the finishing touch to the ravishing picture.

The arrangements for the comfort and con-renience of the house-boat dwellers are per-lect. There is a splendid double folding ed, though oftentimes the deck hammocks are used for sleeping purposes. There is a folding table, which drops conveniently when not in use. The blue-flame oil stove occupies a little nook in the kitchenette. Lockers are in every available inch of space, sonable creature." This right was for hundreds of years enforced as a means of swelling the royal exchequer and, legally speaking, could still be enforced. If a man were killed by being run over by a vehicle that vehicle and its contents, as well as the horse, became the King's property. The number of "reasonable creatures" (and dogs might be included by some within this category) run over by motors in England would keep the King in automobiles until he would be obliged to construct many garages. be obliged to construct many garage

Hawaiians Dying Out.
[Washington Post:] "When Kamehame hame I was on the throne of Hawaii there were upward of 300,000 native Hawaiians in the islands that compose the Hawaiian group; today there are not more than 26,000 native pure bloods," said Judge T. B. Stuart, who is on the bench in Hawaii.

"The time will come when the native Hawaiians will become extinct, I fear. At the time of Kamehamehame the Hawaiians owned nearly all the lands of the islands; today their holdings are very small. Most of the lands in Hawaii are owned by foreigners, Germans, English, and Americans pre-dominating. The number of Hawaiians who own their own lands is comparatively small. Foreigners have bought up nearly all of the sugar plantations.

"I have never come in contact with a finer race of people than the Hawaiians. They

		7. ST	oni Porc	ST
Side Perch	GLO.	FT.			В	Side w
Sid		ALTONOMIC PROPERTY.	Back F	Porch	Q Q	Porch

Present Lew Reconstruction Problems. By John Elfreth Watkins.

ACQUISITION OF DANISH WEST INDIES.

LAURA TAKES A HAND IN DEVELOPMEN

A Real Plot. By Arthur J. Messier.

THE fall in C. & N. copper had reached the point where I must either sell to protect my interest—my all—or go under with the unfortunates who venture in a losing game. All morning there had been a steady decline, and instead of being in the mood to attend the Author's Cub luncheon, where I had been invited for the first time, I wanted to be alone. Especially, I wanted to be away from the company of the successful writers who attended these regular affairs; the contrast between them and me was too great.

Besides, I felt I would be ridiculed for dabbling in stocks. Bill, I deluded myself into the belief that one must do something hazardous in an effort to set aside a sufficient sum to enable one to call loose from a salaried position—mine is really a job—so I tried to forget temporarily the C. & N. capers and enter into the spirit of enthulasiff that always prevails where Stansbury, Hall, Vance and a few others choose to meet. Then, too, there was Laura.

The girl had faith in me. She felt that if I came into contact with writers who really sold their stuff, I could not help gathering a few golden bits of information that would set me in the right direction. It was to her diplomacy that was due my in vitation on this instance. She was to be there; she had just telephoned me so and made me promise to attend. I could not refuse Laura anything, especially on her birthday,

At the thought of it's being her birthday, my hand instinctively went to my pocket; ing about the table, under napkins, near meaning that the process to street. I could not refuse Laura anything, especially on her birthday.

At the thought of it's being her birthday, my hand instinctively went to my pocket; in about the table, under napkins, near meaning the contract was a story that carries him use of the contract were here only a moment ago. They must be on the table, somewhere."

At the thought of it's being her birthday, my hand instinctively went to my pocket; I had a gold piece. I held it up before me and the motto "In God We Trust" held a peculiar significance just then, so I drew down the top of my deak in determination and actually fled from my office.

At Fagan's there was a pendant that had attracted Laura. She had stopped and admired it only the night before. It was one of those turquoise things that enhance the beauty of her eyes—so I parted with the gold piece and hurried to the Mission Grill.

Fate conspired against me, though, for when I reached the table, Laura and all the others had arrived. She was seated at one end of the table and there were no vacant chairs near her. She gave me an impersonal nod and centered her whole attention apon Langdon, a broker, who sat next to her.

The convergation naturally invent to an apon Langdon, a broker, who sat next to her.

The conversation naturally turned to authorship. Hall dwelt upon a serial he had just finished for a magazine of wide circulation, and Vance was passing around "The Ladder of Emeralda," a string of jewels given him by some Egyptian Princess who had deluded herself into the belief that it was she who had been characterized as the heroine of "The Garden of the Sands," his latest, and already one of the "six best."

The string was really valuable and elicited praise from all as it was being passed around, but I was only partly interested in the thing. What concerned me most just then was trying to decipher what had so peculiarly caused Laura suddenly to transfer her affections. Why, only the night before she had promised to wait until I was "recognized," and here she was actually drawing Langdon on.

before she had promised to wait until I was "recognized," and here she was actually drawing Langdon on.

Everything he said seemed especially significant—more important than anything I attempted to say. In fact, she did not at all appear to hear anything I said.

"Miss Dufresne tells me you write, Mr. Holt," said Stansbury, turning to me. "What is your specialty?"

I confessed I had no specialty, but that I wrote upon anything that inspired me. "Don't think me caddish, Mr. Holt, I am not trying to force my viewpoint, but it does seem to me that there is partly where you mistake," ventured Stansbury, kindly leaning toward me as if for a chat. "Don't you believe you should specialize? If you think a moment, you will realize that every successful writer devotes himself to one particular kind of stories. Some specialize to come specialize to come of there in adventure, and some you don't think me presuming. I was glad to have someone point out my defects, and I was about to tell him so when suddenly Vance rose to his feet, looked under his chair, pushed aside empty dishes and napkins and faced us all.

"Why," he hesitated, "I can't find the string of emeralds."

"Strange," put in Langdon, "the jewels were here only a moment ago. They must be on the table, somewhere."

He busied himself, with the others, looking about the table, under napkins, near glasses and under dishes, but the search failed to disclore the missing gems.

"It's peculiar," put in Stansbury. "No one left the room; they were here just a few minutes ago; surely they are only misplaced. Did you look into your pockets, Mr. Vance?"

Vance?"
"I certainly did," he blurted angrily.
"Who's got them? Who had them last?"
"Mr. Holt had them when I saw them last," said Langdon casually.
I had only gianced momentarily at the emeralds and passed them on to Stansbury, and I looked to him to say I had, but he, along with the others, only looked at me, rather accusingly, I thought, so I said nothing. I was too astonished to speak.
Langdon turned the contents of his pockets upon the table. The others did likewise, and Laura looked at me quizzically. Stansbury caught her glance and he too looked at me fixedly.
"Come, now," urged Langdon, "the others have turned their pockets; how about yours, Mr. Holt?"
In my haste, at Fagan's, I had not waited have turned their pockets; how about yours, Mr. Holt?"

In my haste, at Fagan's, I had not waited for the usual silk-lined box; I had stuffed the pendant into an envelope, sealed it and indited an endearing verse to Laura. The ridicule and mortification that would surely follow the public reading of that inscription loomed before me in greater proportions than the possible sting of temporary suppicion, so I returned their challenging look and,did not turn out my pockets.

Laura must have suspected me. for she shrank toward Langdon and clung to his arm while he patted her fingers caresningly.

"Mr. Holt, surely, you must realise the situation." urged Stansbury. "We've all turned our pockets."

"The implication, Mr. Holt," gasped Laura; then her eyes closed and she leaned heavily upon Langdon's arm.

"Mister Holt," I repeated with sarcasm, in a tone meant only for her ear. Her fickleness, her sudden feeling toward Langdon, sickened me. And I had indited verse to that woman!

"The waiters, Mr. Vance; have you questioned them?" asked Stansbury.

"They haven't been in the room since that man had the emeralds," exploded Langdon, pointing at me.

The commotion of loud voices, attracted the attention of other people in the room; some left the place; but slowly, resplutely, Lascar, the house detective, came toward us. They all gased at me. I felt my pocket in-beyond me. Here I was supposedly among lights blinded me for a few a people who had my welfare at heart and were only awaiting the right opportunity to befriend me; when in reality I was made to bear the brunt of someone's guilt. Of the light, course, I might have said something, I might have said something, I might have said something, I might have offered some explanation, but the rankling thought that Laura and Langdon would ridicule me was more than I could bear. Vance scowled at me and Lascar took a step nearer.

"Take him to hardwarters!" ordered "A forst to come placet me and the said of the

"Take him to headquarters!" ordered

"Take him to headquarters!" ordered Vance.

Immediately I was jostled through the doorway and hustled to police headquartera. I did not mind the arrest; there could be no humiliation there. I felt certain "The Ladder of Emeralds" would be found somewhere in the cafe and my accusers would soon be seeking to apologine.

I submitted to the search without protest and answered the booking officer's questions unerringly. From my pockets were taken first the manuscript Stansbury had criticised; then a notebook; pencils; letters; the pendant bought at Fagan's, and, lastly, the officer triumphantly threw "The Ladder of Emeralds" across the police blotter!

I gasped in surprise and the police looked at me sneeringly.

"Caught with the goods," jeered Lascar. "It'll go hard with you!"

I was appailed. I had not put the thing into my pocket. I was positive I had handed it to Stansbury; how, then, had it come into my possession? They shoved me into a dismal cell, locked the door and left me to my own devices.

Here was a situation! I had been invited to luncheon, apparently patronized, then summarily accused and jailed! More, the girl who should have implicitly believed in my innocence was one of my accusers! What could be the motive?

Gradually the solution came to me. She wanted to break the engagement and had conspired with Langdon; she did not have the fortitude to tell me herself; but how had they managed to put the thing in my pocket?

As the afternoon wore on, I tried to get into communication with some of my pocket?

As the aftersion wore on, I tried to get into communication with some of my friends, not only to help me in this case, but to sell my stock. Somehow, no one put in appearance and I despaired. They evidently thought me some vile creature unworthy of consideration—and I had thought my friends many.

In that interim of darkness that preceded the time when I presume the lights are turned on in the jail corrider, the turnkey came to my cell. He peered in, unlocked the door and disappeared as silently as he had come. Then, as if from the shadows, a woman came to my cell.

distinct as I became better accustomed to the light.

First, I recognized Laura at one end of the table; there was a vacant chair near her. Then there was Vance, Stansbury, Hall, Langdon—all those present at the infamous luncheon. They were holding their glasses poised and smilling expectantly.

"A toast to our intest recruit," called a valce—it was Langdon.

I scowled at him; they c''nked glasses and touched their lips.

"A toast to Langdon, who made it possible," said someone. "And to Miss Dufresne, who inspired it," rejoined another.

"Drink, Victor," softly whispered Laura, handing me a glass. I looked at her, astonished at the endearing inflection in her voice, and again I was due for a shock—she wore the infernal emeralds!

"What does it all mean?" I demanded, beyildered.

"I induced Mr. Langdon to boost your copper stock," said Laura smiling reassuringly. "He worked so hard today that C. & N. is way up. If you sell tomorrow, you will have made enough to quit your position and devote all your time to writing," she added proudly, rather dramatically.

"But why the jail—the accursed emeralds!" I demanded.

"To make you feel a real plot," explained Stansbury. "Write it just as you've felt it—it will sell."

This is it.

Meeting a Shell in the Air.

[Lowis R. Preeman in the August Atlan-tic:] "The meeting with the shell was merely one of those freak experiences that might appen to any one, or, just as well, never happen at all. It was during the time I am aking of that the Germans were amusing themselves by a long-distance bombard-ment of N— with their biggest gune, and we—(I had an observation officer along, a chap named K—, whom you may have heard of as a long-distance runner)—simply chanced to meander into the path of one shell somewhere about the last quarter of its trajectory. Watching from a distance, you can always see one of these brutes go hurtling along, but this one we only heard—and falt—and it was like two express trains, going in opposite directions, passing at full speed. There was a strange soft sort of bust, growing into a rushing roar inside of two or three seconds, a blow from a solid wall of air that was like colliding with the side of a house, and then, for two or three minutes, a series of bumps like going over a corduroy road in a springless cart.

"I don't know whether we interfered very much with the course of that shell, but the shell pretty nearly brought our flight to an end then and there. Only the fact that we met the first big rush of air head-on saved us. I wouldn't have had one chance in a thousand of "correcting" if it had caught us sideways—and even as it was, the machine, in spite of its seventy-miles-an-hour headway, was stood up on its rudder like a rearing horse. 'After that first 'collision,' our futtering flight down the waks of the '45' was only 'queer,' but withal a different sensation from anything I had ever experienced."

the door and disappeared as silently as he had come. Then, as if from the shadows, a woman came to my cell.

"Mr. Holt," she whispered, kying a hand on mine. I intuitively withdrew from her.

There was something uncanny about the way she floated into my cell and the heavy veil prevented me from seeing her face.

"It's all arranged," she whispered in an effort to reassure me, "trust me."

"Trust you," I repeated, hardly knowing what else to say.

"Hurry, we have only a few minutes. It's wall arranged; there's an automobile outside."

I realized that escapin; with this stranger would be a confession of guilt; more, that thefe would be two charges to answer instead of one; so I told her to go away.

She did go, but a moment later two men came rushing into my cell. Before I had an opportunity to cry out, they had over-powered and gagged me uncersmontously. Then they partly shoved, partly carried, me to the street and tumbled me into the waiting automobile. We were whissed away before the door was fully closed.

My mind was too confused for thought. I tried to chew sawy the gag, but it choked and pained me so I left it alone.

After we had ridden for a few minutes, I was blindfolded and the automobile came to a full stop. I was told to walk out. I besitated. I felt two pairs of strong hands fairly lift me and force me out. I was led

DESTRUCTION OF A RESTRUCTION OF A PROPERTY OF A DISTRICT OF A DESTRUCTION OF A DESTRUCTION

Compiled for the Illustrated Weekly.

He Was Admitted.

the presiding judge of a Nevada court to an applicant for admission to the bar.

"When a man has a right to choose which of two actions he will bring, the one he chooses is the chosen action," was the re-

"What is the difference between a simple and a fee contingent?"

"Why, Jedge, I knowed that before I ever looked into a law book. A fee simple is where you gets your fee in cash. A fee contingent is where you takes the case on shares."

"What remedy would you invoke against a tenant for life who insisted on holding over after the expiration of his case. "I reckon I'd bury him," replied the ap-

"I recken I'd bury him," replied the applicant.

"Are the necessary funeral expenses of a deceased a charge against the estate or against the person ordering the same?"

"Agin either, accordin' to where you can collect "them," said the applicant. "But I helped Doc Strothers collect his embalmin' fee, where there weren't any estate nor no relatives of the deceased in Nevady. The boys in our town found the body of ole Jack Burton on the trail where he drapped. They brought the stiff into the camp. There was two dollars on him, which the boys blew in at the bar of the Fashion saloon. Doc Strothers said he would embalm the body and take a long chance on gettin' his pay from Jack Burton's brother, who was a rich merchant in San Francisco. He doped the remains in fine shape and stood them up in his office in a pine coffin with a glass front. I planned to send them by express to his sorrowin' brother, with the embalmin' fee attached C. O. D. But the express company refused to receive the stiff unless their charges were paid in advance. He was too heavy to send by parcel post, so I writ to charges were paid in advance. He was too heavy to send by parcel post, so I writ to the brother, and he answered that he had no use for old Jack, dead or alive, and would pay nothin' and the county could "Then I had the front of the box where Jack was stored painted and lettered as follows: Within are the remains of John Burton, who died at the camp of Hell's Delight in Nevady. His low-down cuss of a brother, who lives at 2317 Grand St., San Francisco, welched on the embalming bill, and the stiff is sent for exhibition at the San Francisco Panama-Pacific Exposition. At the close of the exhibition there will be a raffle for the remains, 200 chances at 50 cents a chance. But a ticket and let the winner start a dime museum with old Jack. Then I had the front of the box where winner start a dime museum with old Jack.

"I had the coffin with this inscription photographed and sent the photo to the sor-rowin' brother. He telegraphed the money to pay all bills with instructions to bury old Jack without any display. We complied but there was a display funeral all the same. The town turned out and escorted the de-ceased to the graveyard, singing 'Johnny Comes Marching Home."

"Let the applicant be admitted," ruled the judge.—[T. F.

A TRAIN in Arisons was boarded by robbers, who ordered the hapless passengers to deliver up all their possessions. One of the latter, however happened to be a pawnbroker hailing from New York. When his turn came to part up, he reluctantly drew two hundred from his pocket and, taking four from them, placed the latter in his vest pocket.

"What do you mean by that?" demanded the robber as he toyed with his revolver.

"Mine friendt," answered the pawnbroker, "you surely vould not refuse me 2 per shent discount on a sash transaction like this?"—[Exchange.

Rare Breed.

"For the learned counsel," said Jack, thus:

TEDDY is the joy of a North Hill neighth who speaks for his client as Baalam's ass "My client is no more a crook than I borhood, not on account of his ancestry, spoke for Balsam, I have Story on Sales, am!"

The attorney has told no more than the ents, but because he is one of the bestnation out his threat to 'shoot me up,' I have Colt simple truth," said the judge. "The sentured and most highly accomplished "purps" on revolvers."

And order reigned in the courtroom.— the bar serve ten years at hard labor."—[St. Louis Star.

"What kind of a dog would you like?"
the father questioned when he finally contracted to make the purchase.
"Just like Teddy."
"But Teddy is a mongrel."
"Yes; that's what I want, teo," said the pungster, "a full-blooded mongrel,"

Nothing Like Preparedness

A S MARY was clearing the table she remarked shyly to her mistress:
"Please mum, I'm thinking I'll have to give you notice."

"Notice, Mary!" exclaimed the lady of the cuse, in surprise. "But what for? Why you want to leave?"

"Oh mum," said Mary, twisting her fin-gers coyly together, "I'm thinking about getting married!"

"And who is the happy man, may I ask?" questioned the mistress, her interest in a love story promptly roused.

"He be sits across the chapel from Generating Animatic

"And what's his name?"

"I don't-don't know!" confessed

"What! you're surely not engaged to marry a man whose name you don't know?"
"Not exactly engaged, mum," corrected Mary; "but he's been lookin' at me, and I think he'll soon be speakin'!"—[Philadel-phia Press.

In the Mexican Army.

F^{OR} three hours the American Consul in a Mexican town had been sitting in the hotel dining-room. At length the proprietor

'Pardon, sir," he said, with a low bow,

"Pardon, sir," he said, with a low bow,
"were you waiting for anything?"
"Yes," replied the Consul. "Yesterday
I told Ferdinand, your head waiter, that I would dine here at 6 o'clock. It's now 9 o'clock, and he hasn't appeared yet."
"Ferdinand joined the army early today,"
"The monerator informed him. "If the Gone, has he? The scoundrel!

didn't he let me know he was going?"

"More respect, please, senor," protested the Mexican, with dignity. "Ferdinand has won steady promotion and is now a general."—[Philadelphia Press.

An Ancient Arizona Barrister.

IN A COPY of the Prescott (Ariz.) Miner, printed in 1879 appeared the following

"STEPHEN G. MARCON TTORNEY AND COUNSELOR AT LAW, CONTRACTOR, BUILDER AND

Cleans Vaults, Whitewashes fences, Cares for gardens, Makes out deeds, Draws contracts in French, Spanish and PLAYS HELL GENERALLY. OFFICE AT RESIDENCE ON GOOSE FLAT GIVE ME A CALL.

"Jack," as he was generally called, made its advent in Prescott by gathering the to-nato cans from the rubbish heaps, melting he solder, flattening the cans and convert-ag them into tin roofing material.

He had something more than a smattering of law, and, in a justice court, was an antagonist not to be despised. A builying lawyer once threatened him in court with personal violence, to be inflicted by the defendant of Jack made any remarks reflecting on the veracity of the attorney.

grei and this fact was conveyed to one little boy who urged his father to get him a dog just like him.

The little boy knew Teddy was a mongrei, but his idea of what "mongrei" meant was surprising when revealed to his fa-A NUMBER of lawyers were in the circuit courtroom at Muncie awaiting the arrival of another attorney so they might proceed with the case, when the conversation drifted around to the subject of honesty in public office, the so-called graft trials there being then on the minds of the most of those in the group.

"To illustrate my entire honesty in p lic office," said Will F. White, "I can a hereby do point with considerable pride my service as postmaster of Granville town of about 100 inhabitants, north Muncie, when I was a mere youth.

"When I retired from that office, with all its emoluments, which then amounted to about 30 cents a day, the postoffice depart-ment discovered I had made a mistake in my accounts and had overpaid the govern-ment 2 cents. This sum was promptly sent to me by draft."

What did you do with it?" asked some

"I spent it to obtain my present legal ucation," replied White.

"Skinned the law college at that," or mented Francis Shaw, the court report dryly.—[Indianapolis News.

HE professor was trying to demonstrate a simple experiment in the generation

What have I in my hand?" he asked

"A tin can," came the answer, in concert.
"Very true. Is this can an animate or an "Exactly. Now, can any little boy or girl tell me how, with this tin can, it is possible to generate a surprising amount of speed and power, almost beyond control?"

One little boy raised his right han

"You may answer, Rutherford."
"Tie it to a dog's tail."—[Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

A Slight Mistake.

WILLIE was a bright boy and ready to tackle anything that would yield him

He had tried several jobs, but, somehow, he didn't get on in spite of his brightness. But at last he obtained a berth in a book-seller's shop, where he seemed likely to suit.

One day a stranger entered the shop.

"Good morning," he said, in answer to Willie's bright greeting. "I want "The Letters of Charles Lamb," please."

"You've made a slight mistake," smiled
Willie, ignorant of a book of that name.
"The postoffice is just around the corner,
Mr. Lamb."—[Kansa City Journal.

A Warning

"JOHN! JOHN!"
The lady nudged her husband urgently in the ribs.

"Whassit?" he repiled, drowsily.

"There's a burglar in the house!"

John roused himself at that.

"Well, what do you want me to do?" he sked, indignantly. "Want me to do?"

sked, indignantly. "Want me to go do!
stairs and risk being killed?"

"Very well," replied the wife; "if y find out in the morning that someone l been through your pockets, don't bia me!"—[Chicago ,Blade.

USTINIAN is a lawyer contrib of ours Partially Answered. who doesn't send us very many stories, but who makes up for it by sending us good ones when he remembers us at all. This latest concerns a case where the attorney for the defense was well known to the judge who was trying the case. And the today?" one Kansas woman inquired of anattorney for the defense wound up his plea

. "Just Like Father.

LESSON in mythology was in prog-ress; the subject for the day was Atjan-en minutes before the school closed the acher devoted to asking questions. This as the time when she generally discovered hat a lot of talking it is possible to do lthout being heard.

"Now, Alice, what did Atlas do?"
"Supported the world on his shoulded iss," replied Alice, with the calm connect of a certain knowledge.

"That's right, dear," answered the gratified teacher. "Now, Ellen, if Atlas supported Atlas?"
Ellen's knowledge of the male sex was confined to a close observation of her father's habits.

"Please, teacher," she answered, "his wife!"—[Philadelphia Ledger.

'Lickers" Worth While.

MY PAPA can lick your papa," boasted Johnny, aged 6.
"I don't care; my mamma can lick your mamma," came back Jimmy.

"Both of you make me tired," chimed in Sammy. "My papa and my mamma can both lick me, and the worst part of it is they take turns about doin' it."—[Indianapolis News.

Means of Identification

A WILDEYED, disheveled-looking wom-an burst into the local police station. "My husband has been threatening to drown himself for some time," she cried, hys-terically, "and he's been missing now for two days. I want you to have the canal dragged."

"Anything peculiar about him by which he can be identified, supposing we find a body?" inquired the inspector.

The woman hesitated, and seemed at a loss for a minute or two. "Then a look of relief slowly overspread her face. "Why, yes," she exclaimed at last; "he's deaf!"

—[Argonaut.

One for the Parson.

P ARSON LEWIS, who was not adverse to an occasional toddy, fired an Irishman to clean out his cellar one morning. Pat started to work with a will, and found, among the other rubbish, a number of empty bottles. Pat carefully examined each bottle by holding it to the light.

The minister, looking down to see how Pat was getting along with the work, saw him looking through the bottles, and called

"They are all dead ones, Pat!"
"Indade, now, are they, sur?" replied the Irishman. "Well, there's wan good thing about it—they all had th' minister wid 'em when they wux dyin'!"—[Kansas City Star.

Good Pay, Short Hours.

A CERTAIN house in a western town improved so greatly in comfort and appearance that a visitor shrewdly surmised that the son of the house, a lazy, good-for-nothing, had turned over a new leaf. He in-mothing, had turned over a new lear. He inquired about it.

"Yes, sir; my son's got a job now," said the amiling old mother. "Gets good money, too. All he has to do is to go twice a day to the circus and put his head in the lion's mouth. The rest of his time he has to himself."—[Philadelphia Public Ledger.

arrecement were agreement what further coneld in New York had in his office a throughout the pin close touch.
While evidently t given up hope may be reached, and on the merits resulted by either lood to be confined to the compleyers and a traincoad can be compleyers and a surpressent and represents the brotherhoods, represent 10 per year. The first 1000 mames and ther large path

Place in High Sierras.

